FORNEY FREED, JURY SCORED

Striking Pupils Defy Parade Ban

After Forney Was Found Not Guilty

'INDICTMENT EVIDENCE IGNORED' —JUDGE

Only Penalty Is Payment of Costs; Witnesses Gone, County Loses Long Fight

Al Forney, the alleged slot-machine operator, is not guilty—but he must pay the costs.

This was the "Scotch verdict" returned in Criminal Court today by a jury which was verbally denounced by Judge Frank P. Patterson for its decision.

"Your term of service is concluded," Judge Patterson told the two women and 10 men after the verdict had been read.

"It is usual to discharge a jury with thanks for its services, but in this case there has been such an utter disregard of the law and the evidence I will not do that."

"I am frank to say," Judge Patterson added when he called Forney to discharge him, "that the verdict is a miscarriage of justice. The evidence discloses your guilt."

Forney, his relief obvious, strolled from the courtroom, a legally untroubled man for the first time since the summer of 1928, and surprised newspaper photographers, whom he had been eluding for months, by agreeing to pose for a picture.

Before he departed Forney left a blank check to pay the costs, which probably will exceed $300.

ACQUITTED ON SIX COUNTS

He had been acquitted of maintaining gambling devices (slot machines) on five counts, and of being a common gambler on a sixth count. Originally there had been 16 counts against him, but Judge Patterson reduced that number after hearing the testimony.

There was a quiet demonstration in the courtroom. Friends of Forney, who had followed the trial closely since it began Monday, crowded about him and his counsel, Hiram D. Hirsh, with enthusiastic handshakes.

The jury filed from the courtroom, received its pay vouchers and departed. This was to have been their last day of two weeks' jury service, anyhow, so Judge Patterson's criticism was limited to words.

IGNORE GRAND JURY STORY

The jury discharged the man who was reputed to have reaped a fortune from the millions poured into slot machines in the face of his own testimony that he had Wide Kansas Fields.

The First Hoover Year.
Only Ladies Smoking.
Don't Sell Wheat Short.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

NEWTON, Kan., March 14.

FINE weather here in Kansas as the train rolls through wide fields.

Farmers are plowing and tearing up the remainder of last year's cornstalks. At intervals oil wells show where the farmer found something better than fertility.

SENATOR CAPPER'S newspaper, The Daily Capital, comes aboard at Topeka with a review of President Hoover's first year.

Senator Capper describes it as "a year of blueprints," meaning a year of preparation.

The Capital observes that Congress has not been strongly behind the President, the "wet press is not sympathetic toward him, and Eastern publications with a Wall Street complex are unfriendly and would prefer another President in the White House."

SENATOR CAPPER'S editorial describes the President accurately as a man "who does not act first and reflect afterwards."

In an emergency he acts instantaneously, as in the Wall Street crash. But his method is to "look into the facts first."

SENATOR CAPPER says: "A blueprint year is not a bad start." The President has "three years of the four to make an administration outstanding." He finds "the lesson for fair-minded people in Hoover's first year is to have confidence in Hoover."

THE people will be well pleased, although Senator Capper does not say so, when the "wet-dry" question is disposed of, and the tariff with its uncertainties is out of the way. And when the "blueprint" stage is passed and the constructive era begun.

THIS train includes a "lounge car," decorated in beautiful bright yellow. Eight men and two women in the lounge car last night. None of the men smoked, both women smoked cigarets. The W. C. T. U. may moan about that. The ladies were young and had their hair in waves as permanent as hair waves on iron Newfoundland dogs that used to stand on lawns.

And both, as they smoked, maintained a severe expression which seemed to say "please notice that we came here to smoke."

A SMALL panic in the Argentine wheat market; growers complaining, resident dealers bankrupt. The Buenos Aires Herald says: "Another proof of the futility of attempting to override the law of supply and demand."

UNCLE SAM buying wheat at a price above the world market and storing it helps wheat growers of other countries, although that is not his intention.

What the wheat situation will be next July, nobody can guess. Wise gamblers will refrain from selling short. Uncle Sam's pocketbook is back of wheat prices in the United States, a new kind of "corner."

And President Hoover will find a way to punish gamblers trading on the government effort to aid farmers.

FLOUR has reached its low price since the World War, $6.60 a barrel, compared with $7.30 a year ago, and $18 a barrel, the peak price in war time. Good news for housewives. Bad news for farmers.

VARIOUS states through their senators suggest men to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court.

Senators will learn that Mr. Hoover, knowing that a number of vacancies must inevitably occur, in his first term, has done some mental selecting on his own account.

There are many able lawyers in the United States, and a majority of them will agree that Judge Cardozo, of New York, would make an excellent Supreme Court judge. His appointment would mean three justices from New York, but the Supreme Court should not be considered politically, as state patronage.

THE London naval limitation fiasco is a blessing for the United States. Our statesmen may now decide to rely on this country to defend this country, realizing that the role of America is to take care of itself, depend on itself, and not lean on other nations.

If our great engineering intelligence will now devote itself to the production of adequate air fleets and submarine fleets, and to constructive projects inside the United States, we shall have nothing to worry us.

SENATOR COUZENS introduces a bill to regulate production, transmission and distribution of all classes of power in interstate commerce.

He would let government supervise rates and securities issued by holding companies.

Some say the people should have no control of power and its distribution, although power in

POLICE CHIEF CHANGES LINES

Verona Students Denounce Supervisor in Protest On Ousting of 9 Teachers

Striking students of Verona High School defied police authorities this afternoon and paraded past the school despite efforts of Chief William P. Kripp to break up the procession.

Augmented by more recruits following the noon recess, the strikers formed in South avenue, about 125 strong, and started the march. Chief Kripp charged the line with his motorcycle and momentarily scattered the paraders. They reorganized quickly on the sidewalk and marched past the school, then disbanded.

Strike leaders claimed this afternoon that 60 more students had joined the walkout, called in protest against the school board's plan to dismiss nine teachers and the principal of the high school at the opening of the fall semester.

BANNERS CARRIED

This morning more than 50 of the students had paraded in Front street carrying banners reading "We want our teachers" and singing "Up with the teachers, down with Jones."

Supervising Principal S. H. Jones is the official who announced the board's refusal to tender contracts to the teachers slated for dismissal. Neither Jones nor the board will give a reason for the ousters.

High School Principal Harry A. Duncan, one of those slated to be fired, and the Rev. Daniel Campbell, pastor of the Verona United Presbyterian Church, appealed to groups of strikers today to return to their classrooms. This appeal resulted in all but 75 of the 250 students who struck yesterday returning to school, but after the noon recess 60 other students joined the strike.

While a crowd of 300 citizens and children milled in the corridors of the borough's high school last night, the teachers slated for dismissal appealed to the Board of Education for some explanation as to why they had failed to re-

Two Killed as Plane Crashes on Hillside

CLEVELAND, March 14.—(AP.)—Pilot Richard R. Braggins and David Bunnin, a salesman, both of Cleveland, were killed in an airplane crash near Cleveland Airport today. Cause of the accident had not been determined. Both men were employes of the Curtis-Wright Flying Service.

The plane was seen to fall by a lineman of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company. After a long search the wrecked ship was found on a hillside. The two men had been hurled clear of the wreckage.

COAL RATE WAR RENEWED

Pittsburgh coal operators today renewed the seven-year struggle for wider spread between the freight rates they have to pay on shipments to the Great Lakes and those their southern competitors have to pay.

A petition was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington by A. B. McElvaney, secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Coal Tariff Bureau, asking determination of the proper relationship between the two rates.

At the same time Ohio operators filed a similar petition.

The new procedure differs rad-

MELLON SCORED IN U. S. STEEL TAX REFUND

Garner Demands Court and Congressional Quiz Into Treasury Department

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Congressional investigation of the Treasury Department was demanded in the House today by Representative Garner, of Texas, Democratic leader, after the Joint Committee on nIternal Revenue Taxation had approved a $33,555,356 refund to the United States Steel Corporation for the tax years 1918, 1919 and 1920.

Garner not only assailed Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's refund to the Steel corporation but condemned his whole policy of tax refunds.

He charged the secretary had made compromise tax settlements which greatly benefitted companies in which he and members of his family were interested.

ASKS COURT TEST

Corporations of Pennsylvania, Mellon's home state, he said had received more refunds than those of other parts of the country.

"There are some aspects of this steel company case which warrant a congressional investigation and consideration by the courts," said Garner.

"I contend that there is enough controversy involved in it to justify the treasury in demanding the issue be tried and it ought to go to the courts even if it cost us $10,000,000 more.

"We ought to investigate the Treasury for its own benefit and

KLINE TO LIFT TAXI BAN

Mayor Charles H. Kline will remove his ban against the operation of taxicabs the first of next week, it was learned today. Director of Public Safety James M. Clark has been ordered by the Mayor to arrange police guards for the resumption of cab operations by the Parmalee Transportation Company.

The Mayor's decision to lift the ban follows failure of the strikers and company to reach an agreement. "I cannot keep the cabs off the streets indefinitely," the Mayor had said yesterday.

There were no further conferences of strike leaders with city officials today.

STATE DETAILS IRENE'S FLIGHT IN KILLING

Six Eye-Witnesses, Wounded Patrolman Pin Shooting On Blonde; Jury Sees Auto

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 14.—Six eyewitnesses, three boys, two women and a man, and a fellow officer wounded in the gun battle, had pinned the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul on Irene Schroeder today as the commonwealth moved to another phase, the flight of the blonde defendant and her companions from the scene.

The jury viewed the automobile used by the bandit party on motion of Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti, this afternoon. The machine was driven to the street in front of the courthouse from a garage where it has been stored.

One of the boy witnesses testified that a man, previously identified as W. Glenn Dague, sweetheart of the former waitress, on trial for her life, also had fired at Paul on the Butler-New Castle road, last December 27.

TWO BOYS TESTIFY

Four eyewitnesses today added their testimony to that of two others last night. All substantiated, and in some instances, supplemented the vivid recital of Private Ernest Moore, wounded at the time Corp. Paul was fatally shot.

Today's witnesses were Raymond Baldwin, 14; Howard Ziegler, 15; Mrs. Martha Williams and Howard Book, truck driver, who was a short distance in the rear of the bandit car when the shooting of Paul and Moore occurred.

Their testimony corroborated that given last night by Moore, Mrs. Eva Baldwin, mother of Raymond, and another son, Samuel Baldwin, 17.

DAGUE INCRIMINATED

Dague was connected with the actual shooting of Paul for the first time by young Ziegler, who testified he saw a man, previously identified as Dague, fire at Paul as he staggered behind a pole.

Young Zeigler testified he was lying on a davenport in his home when he heard automobile brakes screech on the road, and looking out saw two highway patrolmen stopping cars, when the bandits' coach came along.

BOTH WITH GUNS

After Corp. Paul stepped up to the driver's side of the car, he said, the door opened and a man got out, the woman following. The boy testified he could see guns in the hands of both the man and the woman, his vantage point at a window of his home being somewhat closer to the scene than the other witnesses. The other witnesses testified to seeing more of what happened in back of the car, but Zeigler's position, he said,

C. F. ARMSTRONG WITH PINCHOT

LEECHBURG, Pa., March 14.—(AP.)—Charles F. Armstrong, postmaster of Leechburg, today said he would decide "within a day or so" whether he will be a candidate for lieutenant governor as the running mate of former Gov. Pinchot, independent Republican candidate for governor.

His decision, he said, depends upon whether he decides to retain or relinquish the postmastership here.

The postmaster, a former member of the legislature and a staunch supporter of Pinchot during the latter's administration, said he had earlier decided upon his candidacy, but was moved to reconsider on learning that running for the office "would not be compatible with my government position," held under civil service regulations.

Should he decide to retain the

CHAPTER IV.

Our dream, now that we are safely past the police ambuscade in St. Louis, was to get to California and start life all over, with new names. Then we would manage to get my little boy, Donnie, from where my folks were keeping him back east, and all three of us would be together again.

GLENN knew about the California lettuce fields. Glenn knows lots of things like that, being educated. He laughed and told me all about our folks—the Crawfords and the Dagues of Virginia—and how they were pioneers before the Civil War and came to Wheeling when it was the jumping-off place to change from stage coach to Ohio River boats—with Indians shooting arrows, while you made the change.

"Your folks and mine," he told me, "helped build the Baltimore & Ohio—the first railroad in the United States. They told our grandfathers: 'Go West, young man.' And we're still doing that, honey, you and I."

Through To Texas

WE kept west by south, and picked up a young fellow after Kansas City and drove him 250 miles. When he left us, he filled our gas tank and gave us some change and we were glad, because we wouldn't have to steal to get money for a while yet.

We got through into Texas. We slept in a bed again—near Fort Worth, Texas., in a tourist camp. The other campers found I was a girl in boys' clothes and had some fun kidding us about being elopers. It made us feel fine, being treated like ordinary people doing something romantic, instead of like terrible criminals.

Then, near Pecos, Tex., we picked up Joe Wells, the fellow out of a jail who stuck with us to the end, when the Indians cornered us on the Arizona mountain top. Joe can tell about the miracle that happened there. He saw that cloud that looked like Our Lord and maybe heard the Voice that said: "Give up and trust in me!" But that comes later.

Gave Help To Joe

THIS is how we picked up Joe. We saw a man walking along the road, sort of limping. I said to Glenn: "Let's help this poor man along," and Glenn said: "Sure!"

When he got in the poor man

U. S., BRITAIN DROP TONNAGE PACT TO SAVE NAVAL PARLEY

KEEP PARITY; FRANCE IS ADAMANT

Latter Refuses Reduction; 100,000-Ton Boost Seen In British-American Move

By HARRY R. FLORY
International News Service.

LONDON, March 14.—Thrown overboard in a frantic attempt to save the five-power naval disarmament conference from failure, the 1,200,000-ton parity agreement between the United States and Great Britain went into the discard today.

While the principle of parity between the two English-speaking naval powers will be maintained, the level will be considerably higher than that agreed upon tentatively some weeks ago.

According to present indications, the figure will be nearer 1,300,000 tons, representing an increase over the tentative program of approximately 100,000 tons of warships.

FRANCE ADAMANT

The American delegation to the parley, although reluctant, is prepared to accept this augmented figure and let the earlier program of 1,200,000 tons go by the board. This decision has been necessitated by the final realization by both British and American delegates that it is impossible to persuade France to reduce her tonnage demands appreciably.

In this connection, the British admiralty has executed a complete about face. Previously, this board estimated Britain would require a 400,000-ton increase in the Anglo-American parity figures if the French retained their total demands. Now it appears that 100,000 tons will prove sufficient.

PUPIL STRIKERS PARADE

ceive invitations to return at the beginning of the fall semester.

PRESIDENT EXPLAINS

The board has not yet explained why the teachers were not "invited." C. H. Westlake, president of the school board, stated that discontinuance of the services of the teachers was "for the best of the community and the school at large."

The teachers whose services will not be required after the end of the present semester in June, are Miss Grace McGaughey, Miss Edna Ling, Miss Venus Shakarian, Miss Dorothy Dotterer, H. A. Duncan high school principal, Lloyd Peters, Miss Elizabeth George, Miss Erma Steinicke, and Miss Martha Konkle.

DEMAND HEARING

The "ousted" teachers made demands for a hearing when they appeared in a body, unexpectedly, at a special session of the school board. Knocking at the doors of the conference room they asked for an interview. President Westlake told them they would be given individual hearings, but they demanded hearings in a body.

When the demand was refused the teachers were preparing to leave when newspapermen petitioned the board for an open hearing for the group of teachers. Members of the board finally agreed to the proposition and the teachers were admitted to the session.

"You are not fired," President Westlake said, when Mr. Peters asked why the teachers had been dismissed. "You have not been re-elected."

"The action that the board has taken is for the best interests of the community and for the schools at large," Mr. Westlake said.

WON'T TELL WHY

"What reason have you for discharging me," Peters asked.

"That, I believe, is not necessary to answer," Westlake replied.

Miss McGaughey then asked the same question and Westlake replied,

"I'll give you the same answer."

A spokesman for the teachers suggested that it was not a proper time to air the individual cases of the teachers, and the board moved to adjourn.

The teachers in a group approved the following statement issued by one of their number:

"At a joint meeting of teachers and Board of Education, no reason had been given for teachers not having been re-elected. We feel that such action, without an adequate explanation, is unjust to the teachers concerned, and to the taxpayers of Verona."

During the meeting a crowd filled the corridors and school rooms. As the "ousted" teachers left the building, many pupils surged around them, shouting, "We want our teachers."

NO REST FOR THE WEARY -:- By Quin Hall

ically from previous actions. In the other cases the commission was asked to establish specific rates. In the present petition, no rate suggestion is made, the commission being asked solely to decide what differential should prevail.

SHIPMENTS DROOP

It costs $1.46 at present to ship a ton of coal from Pittsburgh to the lakes. Southern West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky operators, with a haul several hundred miles longer, pay $1.81 a ton for a shipment to the lakes. Ohio operators pay $1.43.

Pittsburgh and Ohio operators contend that the difference between their rates and the southern rates—35 cents in the case of the Pittsburghers and 38 cents in the case of the Ohioans—should exceed 45 cents.

Favored by the low differential and cheaper labor, the southerners have wrested the valuable lake markets from their northern competitors.

Coal shipment from Pittsburgh to the Great Lakes exceeded 12,000,000 tons in 1913; last year's total was only 5,000,000 tons.

RATES CUT IN SOUTH

On June 15, 1923, when the Pittsburghers' first complaint was filed, the differential was 25 cents. After years of litigation, the Northern rate was reduced 20 cents, making the spread 45 cents. Southern roads promptly reduced their rate 20 cents, restoring the 25-cent spread.

The Interstate Commerce Commission forbade the southern reduction, but was enjoined in Federal Court from enforcing its order. An appeal from the injunction was taken to the United States Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, however, the northern and southern roads had got together and agreed on a 35-cent spread. On that account the Supreme Court refused to review the case.

'FREE ISLANDS,' PLEA IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(INS.)—Advocating independence for the Philippines, Representative Nelson (Rep.), of Wisconsin, took the floor in the House today to denounce predictions Japan would "swallow up" the islands if the United States free them.

He asserted such propaganda is being fostered by American business interests "to cloak their commercial desires to exploit and hold the Philippines indefinitely."

The Philippines, he said, could join the League of Nations immediately upon gaining freedom and have the protection of the league against aggression by Japan.

The four-power naval pact for maintenance of balance of power in the Pacific, the moral protection of the United States, the necessity of Japan remaining friends with the United States and Japan's own policy were cited by Nelson to support his conclusion.

Japan, he said, refused to buy the Philippines for $8,000,000 from Spain.

MURRAY LEADS MINE REBEL ATTACK

Assails Insurgents in Speech From Convention Floor; Await Report

BULLETIN.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 14.—(AP.)—Demands that John L. Lewis resign immediately as international president of the United Mine Workers of America were continued in resolutions submitted to the thirty-first constitutional convention here today.

The Pennsylvania ouster resolution came from Shenandoah.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 14.—Phil Murray, Pittsburgh, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, took the floor at the organizations convention here this morning and assailed leaders of the Illinois insurgency and others who "have been trying to destroy our organization as far back as I can remember."

He attacked those who have denied the existence of the organization on the ground of the expiration of its constitution a year ago. He mentioned in that respect Charles M. Schwab, who he said testified before a Senate committee on the question of a broken contract that there was no such organization as the United Mine Workers of America.

BECOMES SARCASTIC

Murray spoke in sarcastic terms and spoke of leaders of the Illinois rebels as "medicine men" and alleged "labor leaders."

Disciplinary action against the Illinois rebel element is the next step of the convention and it is expected late today. John L. Lewis, international president of the mine workers, has allowed the Illinois delegates to discuss the alleged abuses made against them.

Today was the fourth day the convention program has been given over entirely to airing of Illinois district conditions. The airing was expected to be ended this afternoon.

SURFACE SCRATCHED

The exposures of alleged graft and corruption of many Illinois union officials, both district and local, has only "scratched the surface," in the words of John T. Jones, provisional president of sub-district 9, of District 12.

Jones recommended that John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, be unseated by the American Federation of Labor as one of the principal means of restoring "official" control of the Illinois district.

Insurgents Promised West Virginia Support

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Mar. 14.—(AP.)—Insurgents of the United Mine Workers of America, meeting in opposition to John L. Lewis, international president, visioned new strength today.

Frank Keeney, former head of the West Virginia district, told delegates to the "rump" convention, that Lewis had conspired to break the union and that organized West Virginia miners would rally 100 percent to the bolting organization of protection were promised.

The West Virginia locals, Keeney, said, would give all financial support possible to the new organization.

FORNEY FOUND NOT GUILTY

distributed 218 slot machines in the North Side.

This was his grand-jury testimony, and in charging the jury, Judge Patterson had instructed it that if it believed this testimony it would be justified in returning a verdict of guilty.

Forney, apprehension written over his features, fidgeted as he waited for Judge Patterson to reach the courtroom for the verdict. A rolled newspaper in his hand, he moved his fingers over it nervously, all the while watching anxiously the door of the judge's chamber.

VANISHES—REWARD

The story of Forney is a vivid chapter in the history of local rackets. In November, 1928, while he was serving a six-months' federal sentence for confessed violation of liquor laws, Forney was indicted in the county courts on charges of maintaining gambling devices and being a common gambler.

In March, 1929, he disappeared on the day his case was called for trial. He was declared a fugitive and a $5,000 reward was posted for his return.

Last November he surrendered. The charges were finally called for trial this week after numerous postponements.

MYSTERIOUS PHILLIPS

Judge Frank P. Patterson's admission of Forney's grand jury testimony, usually regarded as sacredly secret, was the high point of the trial.

The jurist held that Forney's absence possibly explained the many missing witnesses against him, that admission of his grand jury testimony operated for the public good.

In this testimony, given in 1928, Forney told about a mysterious "R. L. Phillips," who, Forney said, gathered in most of the profits from 281 slot machines Forney admitted distributing on the North Side.

"Phillips," who never has been identified, impressed Forney that he could give police protection, the defendant explained.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, prosecuting Forney, was handicapped by the absence of a dozen or more witnesses, notably the three McCarty brothers—Dale, Lawrence and Mack—who, it was said, collected from and repaired the Forney slot machines.

MELLON SCORED IN REFUND

the benefit of the country, but you Republicans, Mr. Speaker, won't give us a committee."

Pointing out that more refunds have been paid to Pennsylvania than any other state Garner said the corporations of that state either did not know how to make tax returns "or they are the most favored class of the people."

MELLON EXPLAINS AWARD

"Refunds and credits have reached a staggering figure in past few years," he said, "and the time has come when some method should be devised to assure that such cases are given proper consideration. The United States Steel Corporation alone has been allowed over-assessments totaling $97,717,848 for the tax years 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920."

Today's $33,000,000 award was announced by Chairman Hawley, of the joint congressional committee, acting under the law requiring it to approve refunds of more than $75,000.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, in confirming the announcement, said the money represented approximately one-fourth of the amount for which the corporation entered suit in the Court of Claims against the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The suit asked the refund of $130,000,000 because of the additional taxes assessed against the company.

10-YEAR TEST OF DRY ACT URGED

Col. Raymond Robins Pleads For Prohibition; Iron-Clad Rules Made for Inquiry

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Prohibition deserves another 10 years of trial before consideration should be given to modification or repeal, Col. Raymond Robins, a dry, declared today before the House Judiciary Committee modification hearings.

Robins, a veteran Progressive and social economist, said the first 10 years had not afforded a fair trial, although he had high praise for the benefits of prohibition, socially and economically.

"What would you consider a fair trial?" asked Representative La Guardia (Rep.), of New York, an anti-prohibitionist.

"I would say that if by 1940, with honest enforcement it is found that it costs more to enforce prohibition than you can justify; if the evils grow, then I would favor repeal," Robins replied.

"The American people have a right to any kind of government they want."

NEW RULES FOR PROBE

As a result of the wrangling and quarreling of the committee during the last few days, the 79-year-old chairman, Representative Graham, instituted some iron-clad rules today to govern the future conduct of the hearings.

He ended the controversy over the alleged coaching of witnesses by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of Beverly, Mass., by asserting that Mrs. Peabody had not elected that portion of the record which charged her with coaching, although offered an opportunity to do so.

Graham summarily ruled out an effort of Rep. Dyer (Rep.), of Missouri, to read a telegram from Robert Dollar, the shipping magnate, denying there were bars on his ships, and an effort by Representative La Guardia to introduce statements of Dollar Line passengers that the ships did carry bars.

SAYS PARTIES DRY

Robins began his testimony with a statement that "men put the Eighteen Amendment into the Constitution and women will keep it there." Both major parties are dry, he said "because they dare not be otherwise."

He admitted it would have been better for the states to have solved the liquor problem themselves but said their failure to do so justified National Prohibition.

"Gov. Smith was defeated primarily because he was a wet; because he became the country's chief nullifier when he signed a repeal of the Mullan-Gage state enforcement law in New York," Robins added.

TELLS OF BOWERY CHANGE

John Callahan, for 16 years chaplain of the Tombs Prison, New York, and superintendent of Hadley Rescue Hall on the Bowery, told the committee the notorious district had been "made over" by prohibition.

"When I think of the reputation the Bowery has had and the change for good in the last 10 years, it only shows what law and gospel can do," he said.

Callahan declared he could personally testify to the reformation of hundreds of persons as a result of the prohibition law.

Only one question was asked him.

"Is your rescue home still operating?" said Representative La Guardia.

"Yes," he replied.

John R. McIntyre, superintendent of the Gospel Mission of Germantown, in Philadelphia, also declared prohibition had been a powerful factor in the improvement of the poorer classes.

HEAR REFORMED DRINKERS

John W. Helmbold, superintendent of the Rescue Mission at Camden, N. J., said he spoke as a "product of a drunkard's home."

Helmbold said he became a drunkard and was reformed in a mission.

Representative Sumners (Dem.), of Texas, interrupted his personal recital by asking him what effect prohibition has had.

"In the Camden rescue mission we used to have to put a dozen drunken men out of the mission in the old days every week and now we hardly put one out a week," he said.

Frank Dippel, superintendent of the Brotherhood Mission in Philadelphia, admitted that "you can get rum in our section," but insisted that conditions are better.

Ralph H. White, research secretary of the Connecticut Fact Finding Committee on Law Enforcement, said investigation revealed benefit from prohibition "even in a wet state like Connecticut." The death rate has been cut 25 per cent in the state since prohibition, he said.

After the mission workers had testified, the committee recessed its hearings until next Wednesday.

ALFRED W. FORNEY (WEARING DERBY) LEAVING COURTHOUSE TODAY AFTER ACQUITTAL

Forney Prosecutors Angry At Acquittal Verdict

When Judge Frank P. Patterson discharged the Forney jury without thanks for their services and called attention to the acquittal verdict which had been received with "such utter disregard of the law and evidence," he initiated a flow of adverse comment which was heard on every hand throughout the courthouse.

The jurors slipped out of the room and hurried to the county treasurer's office to draw their pay.

It developed that the jury stood nine to three for acquittal on the first ballot. On the second the foreman, Walter C. King, of 2 McClelland avenue, Dravosburg, is said to have been the only juror holding out for conviction.

According to reports, after the reading of the verdict, King tried to effect a compromise on the conviction on the charge of a common gambler, but was overridden on this, and a verdict was reached at 10:30 p. m., placing the costs on Forney.

Comments on the verdict follow:

ALFRED W. FORNEY: Well, I'm satisfied. Now your photographers can take all the pictures they want.

JOHN F. HAGGERTY, Assistant District Attorney: The statement of Forney before the grand jury, which was offered in evidence, alone was sufficient for any jury to convict. This jury paid no attention to the law or the evidence. It was a terrible miscarriage of justice.

SAMUEL H. GARDNER, District Attorney: You would not quote what I think of the verdict. We made every effort to procure a conviction. I congratulate Mr. Haggerty on the way he handled the trial. He fought long and hard to bring this defendant to justice.

LAURA FAULKNER, Mifflin township and MARGARET LEE, Twentieth ward, Pittsburgh, jurors: We don't care what a lot of people think of the verdict. You can't please everybody. That's our business.

THOMAS BARRETT, SR., West Homestead, juror: The foreman was the only one we had any trouble with. There was some little thing at the beginning of the case which turned some of the jurors against him. At first he wanted to convict on all six counts. Then he held out to convict as a common gambler.

Lamb, Sinker and Coffee On Court 'Menu,' Jailed

"Ah, ha," said Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court this morning as he cast eyes on Oerl Lamb, charged with drunkenness, "we have a lamb stew on the menu today." Lamb got five days in jail.

Mat Coffee, vagrant, stepped before the judge.

"What's your name?" asked the magistrate.

"Coffee, sir," answered the vagrant.

"Coffee and Lamb should go together," said the magistrate as Coffee went to jail for 10 days.

Several more cases were disposed of and then came the climax.

"And your name?" said Rothenberg to another defendant.

"Frank Sinker, your honor."

"Well, Sinker, commonly known as doughnuts," snapped the judge, "you and coffee were made for each other—five days."

Thus it is that a Lamb stew, Coffee and Sinker are on the jails' dinner program.

PITTSBURGH SCIENTISTS TO PHOTOGRAPH NEW WORLD

STAR GAZERS UNABLE TO SEE IT

Distance Too Great for Telescopes Here; Discovery Held Greatest Since 1846

Pittsburgh star gazers will look in vain for the new major planet, discovery of which was announced yesterday by Dr. Harlow Shapeley, of Harvard University.

Of the fifteenth magnitude, it is a million times fainter, Dr. Heber D. Curtis, director of Allegheny Observatory, said, than the brightest stars visible to the naked eye.

NOT SEEN HERE

Even the 30-inch refractor at the observatory, third largest of its kind in the United States, will not reveal it to the eye, the director stated, for fifteenth magnitude stars are just beyond the range of the instrument. But he hopes he may be able to get a photograph of it, the photographic plate being more sensitive than the optical nerves.

There is no possibility of the existence of life on the new planet, Dr. Curtis said, for it is so far from the sun that the sun, as seen from it, would appear no larger than a bright star. The new planet is therefore intensely cold.

Dr. Curtis said it would take a long time to compute the time required by the planet to complete its orbit around the sun, and the time taken in its revolution around its own axis—that is, the length of its day—might never be determined.

SIZE NOT COMPUTED

One of the first questions to be raised, he said, would be that of its size.

The new planet was discovered near the star known to astronomers as "delta Geminorum," which is faintly visible from Pittsburgh on clear moonless nights. It is close to the two bright stars Castor and Pollux.

The only planet now visible to the naked eye from Pittsburgh is Jupiter, next to the moon the brightest body in the nocturnal sky. Venus will come clearly into view next month.

The other planets are Mars, Mercury, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune, and, of course, the earth. Uranus and Neptune are never seen except with the telescope.

Farm Boy Astronomer First Detects Planet

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., March 14.—(AP.)—Discovery of a new world, probably larger than the earth, brought to mathematical astronomy today its second achievement of the kind.

The new and nameless planet, whose actual presence in trans-Neptunian space was first detected last January 21, by an astronomy-loving farmer boy from Kansas, was heralded by an announcement here yesterday by Dr. V. M. Slipher, of the Lowell Observatory.

A strange "blotch of light," on a photographic negative, registered by an extremely delicate instrument at the observatory, led to the discovery. The speck of light was noticed by Clyde Tombaugh, the young student of astronomy, and this led to detection of the heavenly body, bringing the known number of major planets in the solar system to nine.

Astronomically, the discovery is regarded as the greatest achievement since the location of Neptune, the eighth primary planet of the solar system, in 1846. The task now remains to determine its size, exact distance from the earth, its orbit and other planetary characteristics.

Scientists agree that it may be as large as Jupiter, the greatest of the planets, which is 1,200 times the size of the earth.

Eight Firemen Hurt In N. Y. Loft Blaze

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP.)—Three explosions, one of which sent a shower of glass across Sixth avenue, startled the neighborhood at Sixth avenue and Thirtieth street today, as firemen fought a fire in a loft building in Sixth avenue.

Seven firemen were injured when the roof of a one-story structure in the rear of the loft building collapsed. Another fireman was slightly hurt in aiding in the rescue of his comrades.

'Kid' Scientist Tells Own Story of Thrill Discovering New World

The following was written for the Associated Press by Clyde Tombaugh of the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., who was the first man to see the new trans-Neptunian planet.

By CLYDE TOMBAUGH

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., March 14.—(AP.)—How would you feel if you saw a new world giving you the high sign from beyond the rim of the solar system? That is what happened to me in the dark room when I was running another bunch of photo plates through the machine.

Just a strange flicker of starlight in a routine day's work.

Excited? I should say so. That is no word for it. I just didn't know what to do or think, or how to act.

I was the first to see it, but the whole Lowell staff has been working on it for a quarter of a century. I was just lucky, that was all there was to it.

Excitement Absent

AND what did the others say when I called them in to see it? Well, you know how these astronomers are. They are used to thinking in terms of millions of years and millions of miles. They weren't excited. They said it might possibly be the lurking Lowell planet, but they would have to watch it further to check it with data they had been gathering so long.

This happened January 21, and we have all been working on it ever since. Only last night did they feel sure enough about it to make an announcement—and even yet, there might be a mistake—but we don't think so.

You know I am not a real astronomer—guess you couldn't call me one at all. I'm just interested in stars and have been all my life. When I was a kid back on the farm in Kansas an uncle used to tell me about the stars. Then I got all the books about stars and the skies I could find.

One told me how to make a telescope. During the long Winter months when we were snowed in, I monkeyed around with astronomical things. I even made a rude telescope, grinding my own lenses from directions out of this book.

Prophesy Fulfilled

I GUESS my kid sister sized me up right in the high school prophesy at Burdette, Kansas, for she had me discovering a new world.

One day last fall I just decided I was going to do what I wanted to do most in the world. I had always been interested in Lowell observatory at Flagstaff. I had read a lot about what they had done there. So I just wrote to Dr. Slipher and asked for a job, telling him I would do any kind of work. And they put me to work on the dome in which I later took the picture which revealed this new planet.

I guess I'll just keep on taking pictures of stars. That is what I like to do. I am studying Mars and the moon now. There is enough here to keep me busy for a long time.

LINDY'S GLIDER NEAR CRASH

CARMEL, Cal., March 14.—(INS.)—Some concern was felt hereabouts today for the safety of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh should he persist in trying to shatter the long distance glider flight record.

On the first of two takeoffs from a knoll on the Sidney Fish estate here yesterday the flying colonel caused spectators to gasp when his motorless plane nearly grazed a string of telephone wires which border a pasture.

Both of Lindbergh's attempts at a distance flight were spoiled by lack of wind.

Chamberlain Advises Sticking to Plane

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP.)—If a plane is all right, it is a pretty good thing to stick to it, instead of parachuting, in the opinion of Clarence Chamberlin, who showed that a stalled machine could come to earth more slowly than a parachute dropped from it. Any good pilot can do the same thing, he insists. To prove his statement Miss Ruth Nichols dropped a man in a parachute 3,000 feet up and came to the ground a minute after the man.

3 French Pilots Crash in Africa, Die

PARIS, March 14.—(AP.)—A Brussell's dispatch to the newspaper, Intransigeant, says that the bodies of the three French airmen, Roux, Caillot and Dodemont, who left Madagascar last January for Paris, have been found beside their wrecked plane in the Belgian Congo.

The men left Madagascar on January 10 and were last seen January 13 near Port Franqui, fighting high winds.

BOY ARRESTED AS MURDERER

Peter Kulczycki, 17, of 1921 Larkins way, South Side, was under arrest here today, accused of murdering a Detroit policeman during a holdup Saturday night. He has confessed to the slaying, detectives say.

Young Kulczycki was trapped last night when he went to keep an appointment with a girl friend in her home in Carson street, near Fourteenth street. Four county detectives, lying in wait, seized Kulczycki as he entered the door.

"I would have shot you if I had my rod," the boy threatened the officers. "I hate cops."

A photograph of Kulczycki, taken when he was an inmate of Thornhill Reformatory, has been identified by Detroit authorities as that of the policeman's slayer, according to detectives. The youth's arrest followed his purchase of a $2,000 automobile found parked at Carson and Fourteenth streets when he was arrested. He will fight extradition to Detroit, he said.

DONNIE HAPPY WITH TOY

By LEE CURRAN,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 14.—"Leo" isn't all his name implies—he's just a little beagle hound—but to doughty Donnie Schroeder, 4, he is the bravest of animals and the truest of pals.

"Leo" lets Donnie pull his ears and order him around. He never whimpers, although he does growl with mock menace when the sturdy tow-haired boy tutors him in the tricks Leo must learn.

Donnie likes to hear the growl, but he insists on obedience.

Irene Schroeder's son knows his mother goes to the court house each day. He doesn't know just why, but because his grandfather, Joseph Crawford, of Benwood, W. Va., visits him, he is satisfied.

For the quiet little man is Donnie's favorite. Every morning he waits until his grandfather passes so that he can wave to him. Then Donnie goes "on good behavior," because when he is a good boy, Jack Dunlap, county parole officer, who has charge of him, lets him go out to play.

Donnie always finds Leo waiting for him, and the pair pile into a toy truck, lent by the children of the neighborhood, and the education of Leo is continued.

Already the hound knows how to sit nonchalantly while Donnie drags the truck around corners at break-neck speed, and he knows it pays when the diminutive master orders him to jump and to bark.

Leo expects to have his ears pulled or his nose slapped when he disobeys Donnie, but the small chap boastfully dares anyone else to try it.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure areas that appeared on the map yesterday morning developed into a single center over the Great Lakes, with greatly increased pressure. The highest pressure reported is 30.50 inches, at Sault Sainte Marie. The eastern low pressure area is far out over the North Atlantic, and the western lows concentrated into a center over Southern California and Nevada. This distribution of pressure is causing considerable cloudiness over the Central valleys and the Plains states, with light rains over the South and light to moderately heavy snowfall over Montana and northward over the Canadian provinces.

There was a marked drop in temperature over the Ohio Valley states and the lake region, elsewhere the temperature changes were slight, but towards rising over the Northwest.

ERNEST MOORE

Private Moore as he appeared on the witness stand to tell his story of the gun-battle in which Corp. Paul was fatally shot.

SIX DETECTIVES TO RETIRE

Another police shakeup of comparatively minor nature is expected tomorrow.

Six city detectives probably will be asked to resign on pension. Twelve would be dropped if the ward chairmen had not pleaded for them, according to gossip.

Fifteen or 20 policemen will be transferred.

The job vacated by Leo Coleman, former superintendent of police, will not be filled tomorrow, nor will the new inspectorship created for the Carrick-Overbrook section.

State Pictures Flight Of Blonde and Dague From Scene of Killing

gave him a better view of the front.

"I saw Moore come around the right side of the car and crouch down in front of the radiator," he said.

"Moore fell down," Zeigler said, "and then the man came around and kicked Moore over like this"—(illustrating with his foot.

The boy said he saw Paul later start for the pole and the man who shoved Moore's senseless form off the road started after him. He testified that the man fired as he ran after the officer, then turned and entered the car, which was driven away.

BOY TREMULOUS

Raymond Baldwin, in a tremulous voice, corroborated, in effect, testimony given last night by his brother, Samuel, and his mother, who in turn had substantiated the vivid account of the shooting given by Private Moore, himself wounded in the encounter.

"I saw the woman shoot Paul," he said in answer to a question by Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti.

"Where were you at the time of the shooting?" he was asked.

"At a window in our home," was the reply.

Attorney Thomas W. Dickey, for the blonde waitress-defendant, questioned the lad's sight and hearing so far away from the actual scene of the shooting. The defense attorney succeeded in bringing out that Raymond was in the house with the windows closed, about 400 feet from the road.

BATTLE DESCRIBED

Mrs. Martha Williams followed Raymond Baldwin to the stand. She told virtually the same story as her neighbors, the Baldwins. She saw Paul backing up from the rear of the car with his hands upraised, she testified. The woman, she said, had one hand extended, but she could not see what was in it.

"I saw smoke come from her hand," Mrs. Williams testified, "and I heard a shot. She fired twice and Paul went down on one knee."

"Then what happened?"

"Paul got behind a pole and started shooting back at the car until it pulled away."

TRUCK DRIVER'S STORY

Howard Book, soft drink truck driver, who drove up behind the "Trigger Woman's" car just as the shooting started—was called.

Rounding a curve in the Butler-New Castle road headed toward New Castle, Book said, he came upon the two highway patrolmen stopping the car ahead. He said he came to a stop about 125 feet from the rear of the car.

Book said he saw the man and woman get out of the car.

"The woman started to back Paul up," he said.

"What was the man doing?" Margiotti asked.

"I don't know."

"What happened next?"

"Well, I heard a shot and I backed up."

"Where was the woman at this time?"

"In front of Paul."

TWO SHOTS FIRED

The witness then detailed the approximate positions of Paul, the man and the woman. He said Moore was at the left side of the car.

The woman continued to back Paul up the road.

"Then I saw smoke come from her hand," he said, "and I heard a shot."

"Where was the woman's hand pointed?" Margiotti asked.

"At Paul."

"Did he fall?"

"Not at first—she fired again."

"Then did he fall?"

"Yes."

"After Paul fell, what did the woman do?"

"She went back to the car."

"Did she walk or run?"

"She walked pretty fast."

"And then what did Paul do?"

"He got up and went behind a pole.

Dague, who also faces murder charges, was brought into court yesterday for identification, but was not in the courtroom this morning.

Missouri-Pacific Reported In Van Sweringen Hands

CLEVELAND, O., March 14.—(AP.)—Formation of America's first trans-continental railroad system under control of C. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, is near completion, it was learned in financial circles here today. Only one more railroad is needed to complete the Van Sweringen coast-to-coast chain, according to various railroad financial observers.

Already in control of a large railroad system covering Northern States from Atlantic Ocean to Mississippi River, the Van Sweringens, according to good authority, have acquired recently a working control of the Missouri Pacific System, which covers important trunk lines as far west as Salt Lake City, as far southwest as El Paso, Texas, and connecting with the International Great Northern Railroad from Mexico at Laredo, Texas.

STOCK BOUGHT QUIETLY

The Missouri Pacific control has been acquired, financial observers said, through quiet buying of its common stock and convertible bonds.

The only remaining link believed necessary to join the Atlantic and Pacific by a railroad system under the Van Sweringen management is the Western Pacific from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

The transcontinental system, as figured out by railroad men, would connect the following lines:

Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Buffalo to New York; Nickel Plate, Buffalo to St. Louis; Missouri Pacific, St. Louis to Pueblo, Colo.; Denver, Rio Grande and Western, Pueblo to Salt Lake City; and Western Pacific, from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP.)—Neither L. W. Baldwin, president, nor William H. Williams, chairman, of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, would comment today on reports that the Van Sweringen interests had acquired working control of the road.

Rich Broker Plunges 11 Floors to Death

CHICAGO, March 14.—(AP.)—Frank D. Ketcham, 55, a stock broker, fell or leaped to his death early today from the eleventh floor of the Allerton House, North Michigan avenue.

Ketcham, a widower, was associated with the firm of Babcock, Rushton & Co., and was said to be wealthy. A son, Tuthill Ketcham, a broker, of Winnetka, North Shore suburb, survives. No suicide motive has been established.

Baldwin Annexation Election Date Set

Judge James H. Gray, of Quarter Sessions Court, today fixed May 20 as the date for holding a special election in a portion of Baldwin Township, near Carrick, to enable citizens to vote on the question of annexing with Pittsburgh. Forty-six electors signed the petition, asking to be annexed to the city.

Bugs in President's Room Agitate Senators

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP.)—Bugs invaded the President's room in the Capitol just off the Senate chamber yesterday.

An alarm was sounded quickly by agitated Senators who frequent the room to rest on the couches during conferences with newspapermen.

The excitement was quelled somewhat by a pronouncement that the insects were a species of moths.

Nevertheless demands were rushed to Chairman Moses, of the Rules Committee, for a hasty cleaning of the furniture in the presidential room. He referred the protests to cleaners in the Senate Office Building, who reported proudly just last week that the Capitol finally had been rid of roaches.

The room of the hubbub is that reserved for the President when he comes to the Capitol on the closing day of a session to sign the last-minute bills.

Eyewitness, Gun Victim Picture Irene as Killer

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 14 — At the trial of Irene Schroeder, blonde gunwoman suspect, for the murder of Corp. Brady Paul, testimony was introduced by the state last night to show that Irene fired the fatal shot.

Mrs. Eva Baldwin, who testified that she witnessed the whole affair from the window of her home nearby, named Irene as the slayer. Direct examination at the hands of Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti on this point follows:

Q—Mrs. Baldwin, while you were at the window observing the cars and the officers, I want you to turn to the jury and tell what you saw the officers do with reference to the car in question?

A—One of the officers went up to the front window of the car, the window toward our house. The other officer was right at his side. The taller one, Brady Paul, went to the window and the other one, I have later learned was Moore, went to the rear of the car.

Q—What happened next?

A—Then a door was pushed open and the man got out and the woman got out right behind him.

Q—What did they do?

GUNS DRAWN

A—The man and the woman had guns in their hands as they got out of the car.

Q—Then what did they do?

A—They pointed them at Brady Paul.

Q—Did you see what happened after someone hollered "get back?"

A—Paul backed up.

Q—As he backed up what position were his hands in?

A—In this position. (She illustrated, raising her hands.)

Q—As he was backed up in what position was the woman?

A—The woman was this side of the man with a gun in her hand pointed toward Paul.

Q—Was she between you and the man?

A—Yes.

Q—Did you notice what the man was doing then?

A—He had his gun drawn, too.

Q—Describe how far back Paul went, that you observed?

A—He went back past the end of the car.

Q—When he got to the back of the car, state whether or not he stopped?

A—He hesitated there an instant.

Q—Could you see the man at the time?

A—I couldn't.

Q—Then what else did you see?

A—I saw the woman fire.

Q—How far back of the car was Paul when you saw her fire?

A—I should say about eight to twelve feet.

SAW GUN SMOKE

Q—How far was the woman from the rear of the car when you saw her shoot?

A—Four or five feet.

Q—Where was the man, her companion, when she fired that shot?

A—He had just turned toward the front of the car.

Q—At the time you saw her fire what was there about her that indicated to you she had fired?

A—I heard the shot and then saw the smoke.

Q—Did you observe anything about Paul?

A—I saw his body sway and his arm twitch.

Q—When you observed that what did you do?

A—I immediately went to the telephone.

Q—When you got through telephoning did you go back to the window?

A—I did.

Q—Where was the automobile then?

A—It was gone.

Q—At the time you observed the woman fire that one shot did Paul fall to the ground?

A—He remained standing.

Q—How far back of the car was Paul when you saw her fire?

A—I should say about eight to twelve feet.

SAW GUN SMOKE

Q—How far was the woman from the rear of the car when you saw her shoot?

A—Four or five feet.

A—I immediately went to the telephone.

Q—When you got through telephoning did you go back to the window?

A—I did.

Q—Where was the automobile then?

A—It was gone.

Q—At the time you observed the woman fire that one shot did Paul fall to the ground?

A—He remained standing.

Q—How far back of the car was Paul when you saw her fire?

Youth Tells How Paul Dropped Under Gunfire

Samuel Baldwin, 17-year-old son of Mrs. Baldwin, corroborated his mother's testimony. He said he watched the gun battle from the doorway of his home while his mother watched from the window.

"At the time the door of the car opened and the man and woman got out, what happened?" Margiotti asked the witness under direct examination.

"I heard some one say 'Get back,'" the youth replied.

Q—What did you notice then?

A—The man and woman had their guns pointed at Mr. Paul and he was backing up toward the rear of the car.

Q—How far back of the car was Paul?

A—A little over 8 or 10 feet.

Q—Then what occurred?

A—I saw the smoke from her gun and heard the shot.

Q—Where was the man at that time?

A—He was at her side.

Q—What was he doing?

A—Just turning around toward the front of the car.

Q—After she fired that shot did you notice what became of Paul?

A—He backed up farther.

Q—Then what did she do?

A—She went back farther, too.

Q—Then what did you observe?

VICTIM SHOT AGAIN

A—I saw another shot from her gun.

Q—In what direction?

A—Toward Paul.

Q—Did you notice the smoke from her gun that time?

A—Yes.

Q—Did you notice what the man was doing then?

A—He had his gun drawn, too.

Q—Describe how far back Paul went, that you observed?

Fatal Fight Described By Wounded Patrolman

Patrolman Ernest Moore, wounded in the gun battle, taking the stand late yesterday, told a dramatic story of the slaying of his fellow officer. He told it in a simple, straightforward manner, answering Margiotti's questions in a clear, low voice. He arose from the witness chair at the behest of Margiotti and using the court's bench to represent the back of the automobile, he illustrated how he looked up at a word from Corp. Paul to find himself covered by guns in the hands of Irene and Dague.

ASKED TO SEE LICENSE

Prosecutor Margiotti conducted the examination. It follows:

Q—Who stopped the car?

A—Corp. Paul.

Q—What did you and Paul do?

A—Walked over to the car.

Q—To what part of the car did you walk?

Q—Did you at that time observe who was in the car?

A—I did.

Q—Who did you observe in the car?

A—I observed a man and a woman and little boy in the front seat and a man in the rear.

Q—Where was the child?

A—The child was standing on the floor in front of the woman.

Q—In your report about the Butler holdup, had you had any information about a child?

A—No, we did not.

Q—What was the first word that was said by either of you when the car was brought to a stop?

A—Corp. Paul asked the operator of the car for his driver's license.

Q—Where was Paul at the time he asked for that license?

WENT TO REAR OF CAR

Q—Where were you?

A—Right beside him.

Q—Did you hear what the driver of the car said?

A—He said nothing.

Q—Did you remain there or move about?

A—I went to the rear of the car.

Q—Did you go directly to the rear of the car from that side, or around the front?

A—Went directly to the rear on that side.

Q—Did you hear anything said as you were going to the rear of the car?

A—Corp. Paul said "Take out your case."

Q—Where were you when he said that?

A—Just leaving Paul.

Q—What did you do when you got to the rear?

A—I looked at the license number.

Q—After you had looked at the license number what did you do?

A—I was in the act of turning around when Corp. Paul backed into me.

Q—Paul backed into what part of you?

A—Into my left arm.

Q—Did you see anybody there at that time besides Paul?

A—I did.

Q—Who did you see?

A—The operator and the lady.

Q—What were they doing?

CONFRONTED BY GUNS

A—The operator had his gun pulled on Paul and the lady was directly behind him with a gun in her hand.

Q—Who was the operator of the car?

A—Glenn Dague.

Q—Is he in the court room now?

A—He is.

Q—Where is he now?

A—Sitting there beside Sheriff Johnson.

By Margiotti: "Stand up, Mr. Dague, please."

Q—Is that the man?

A—Yes, sir, it is.

Q—Who was the woman behind him?

A—Irene Schroeder.

Q—Do you see her in the court room?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Is she sitting at counsel table?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—The defendant in this case?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—At that time, how did she have the gun in her hands?

A—Pointed the gun out.

Q—That was the picture you had as you turned and Paul bumped into you?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—What position were Paul's hands in at this time?

A—Like this (illustrating with his hands half raised).

Q—How was Dague holding his gun?

A—He had his gun pulled on Paul.

Q—Pointed toward what part of his body?

"STICK 'EM UP"

A—About here on Paul (pointing to his stomach).

Q—Did the woman change her position?

A—She did. She stepped around Dague in the direction of Corporal Paul.

Q—Then what did she do?

A—She pointed her gun toward Paul.

Q—At what time did they both have their guns pulled on Paul?

A—At the time Dague pulled his gun on me.

Q—He covered you then with his gun?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Was anything said by Mrs. Schroeder at that time?

A—She said "stick 'em up."

Q—Was anything said by Corp. Paul to you at that time?

A—He said "Pull your gun, Moore."

Q—After he told you to pull your gun, what did you do?

A—Just at that moment I raised my left hand high and pulled my gun and turned and started around the right end of the car.

Q—Where were you going?

A—To the front of the car.

Q—What for?

A—For protection.

Q—From there where were you going?

A—I was going to stay there.

Q—When you started to go to the front, what occurred?

A—I was shot in the nose.

Q—Who shot you in the nose?

A—The man in the back seat.

Q—Was that window up or down?

A—The window was down.

SHOT FROM CAR

Q—Did he shoot from inside the car?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—What part of your nose was struck?

A—Just the end.

Q—Did you continue traveling toward the front of the car?

A—I did.

Q—As you were going to the front of the car, did anything else happen?

A—The man in the back seat shot again through the right front window.

Q—Were you hit that time?

A—I was not.

Q—He shot from inside the car?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—What did you do at the front of the car?

A—I stooped down in front of the radiator.

Q—When you were in front of the car what occurred?

A—Several shots were fired through the windshield.

Q—At whom?

A—At me.

Q—By whom?

A—The man in the car.

Q—How many shots were fired through the windshield?

A—Three.

Q—Did you remain at the front of the car?

A—I crouched there and raised up my head so I could see.

Q—Then what would occur.

SAYS DAGUE SHOT

A—When I would raise my head up, I would be shot at.

Q—Did you raise your head several times, or just once?

A—Several times.

Q—Were you shot at each time you raised up?

A—I was.

Q—Did you see Dague while you were in front of the car?

A—I did.

Q—Where did you see him?

Q—Where did you see him?

Q—What was he doing?

A—He had his gun pointed at me and shot.

Q—What did you do with your gun at that time?

A—I raised up and aimed.

Q—At whom?

A—At Dague.

Q—Did you shoot at Dague?

A—I don't know.

Q—Why don't you know?

A—Just as I was aiming at him I was shot in the head and knocked backward.

Q—Did you go down?

A—I did.

Q—Do you know who shot you in the head?

A—The man inside the car.

The cap he was wearing at the time of the shooting was admitted and identified by the witness.

SHOWS SCARS

During Moore's testimony he was asked by Margiotti to show the scars on his head and nose to the jury. He tilted his head to the jury. When he reached Mrs. Gladys O. Rosenthal in No. 10 seat, she reached and parted the hair, laying the two-inch scar bare for all in the jury box to see.

IRENE DREAMS OF NEW LIFE

said: "Thank God for people like you. God will bless you for this."

Now, Glenn is religious and thought this talk was fine, but I thought there was something funny about the way this cripple carried on with his thanks. I said to myself: "Watch him."

I asked the man: "Have you got a wooden leg?"

He sort of sized us up, for about 50 miles, and then he told us the truth. He didn't have a wooden leg, but he had a stick sewed inside his pants leg that made him walk stiff and gave the effect he had a wooden leg.

Just Out Of Prison

"I JUST got out of the penitentiary," he told us and said that a fellow in his position had to use his head.

All the time Joe was with us he taught us a lot about how hoboes get along, and live in jungles and grab rides and get food without any money.

When night came, Joe would get out, and stick his piece of wood in his pants leg and go down to the town and come back with food. He knew how to do everything. He could cook over a fire with nothing but tin cans and make good tasting stuff. He said maybe he'd go to the lettuce fields, with us and work, or maybe we'd be bums with him and it was a grand life.

Joe is a harmless fellow and kind and never got into jail for anything worse than being a bum, and the Arizona people who want to try him for murder, because Sheriff Lee Wright got killed in that fight, are just plain crazy.

Both Joe and I had good laughs at Glenn for being taken in by the religious talk Joe used at first. Glenn is real religious, having been a Sunday School teacher and a Boy Scout in Sand Hill, W. Va., where he went to the church where the Rev. H. O. Teagarden was minister. That was before Glenn met me, and my worst minutes now are when I think Glenn would still be a religious leader and family man if it wasn't for me. So I try to be as religious as Glenn would like me to be, but sometimes I backslide when I think of our troubles.

Donnie's Visits Over

THE worst backsliding I did was when they told me here in jail I couldn't see my little Donnie any more. They were afraid I would teach Donnie some story to tell at the trial. When they told me Donnie's visits were over, I backslid and wrote to Glenn:

"Oh, Honey! The sheriff told me I couldn't see Donnie no more. Mr. Margiotti, the special prosecutor, told them not to let Donnie near me. Now, I don't care what happens to me. I sure hope and pray I get the chair. They can put me in the fireless cooker right away. It would be a relief to me.

"I don't believe in anything any more. If I can't see my baby, I don't care for anything. I don't believe in anything but you.

Doesn't Believe It

"Please don't write me any more religious stuff up here any more. I don't believe it, and I'm not going to be a hypocrite. If I can't see my baby I don't want to hear about anyone. I want to be left by myself.

"Darling, I'm not mad at you. I am heartbroken. IRENE."

Sister of Runaway Girl Being Sought

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 14.—County charity agencies are endeavoring to locate a sister of Mary Tart, 19, former Niles, O., girl who was picked up here after she told authorities she ran away from home because of mistreatment.

The girl was anxious to visit her sister who lives in New York City, but when she advised her relatives they took her money to keep her from leaving. The girl then ran away.

Woman Inkeeper Sentenced in Rum

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 14.—Mrs. Mary Campbell, proprietor of the Hilltop Inn, pleaded guilty to keeping a gambling house and was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and to serve one year in jail.

County Detective C. J. O'Laughlin told the court he found two slot machines there and that drivers, convicted of operating cars while intoxicated, admitted buying liquor at the Hilltop Inn.

PRELATES JOIN RUSS PROTEST

NEW YORK, March 14.—(INS.)—Two Russian archbishops will attend the meeting Sunday called by Bishop William T. Manning to pray for those suffering "religious intolerance" in Russia, it was announced today. They are Archbishop Platon, metropolitan of the Russian Orthodox Church in America, and Archbishop Alexander, of the Greek Church in North and South America.

Prominent clergymen will make addresses at the meeting which is to be held in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Cardinal Hayes, in a letter to all Catholic pastors in the archdiocese, called upon Catholics to join on Wednesday in special prayers for those "persecuted in Soviet Russia."

A counter-demonstration by friends of Soviet Russia will be held Sunday by Communists and their friends.

STATE HONORS 'FEUD' COUNTY

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 14.—(AP.)—Breathitt, Eastern Kentucky erstwhile feud county, which gave so many volunteers in the World War that it had no draft quota, is to have a monument to the valor of its sons, paid for by the entire state if Governor Flem D. Sampson approves a bill passed by the Legislature.

"Bloody Breathitt," as it was called in the feud days, is believed here to be the only county in the country to have the distinction of not requiring a quota under the 1918 conscription act.

The memorial is to be in the form of a building containing a public library and a museum. A special tablet is planned for Sergt. Willie Sandlin, the state's outstanding World War hero, who received the Congressional medal of honor and decorations from other nations.

Rev. Daniel George Reported Missing

The Rev. Daniel George, 46, of 1609 Bedford avenue, is being sought by the Bureau of Missing Persons and Ohio authorities. George left the city March 9, for Bellaire, O., where he was expected to spend one or two days. No trace of him has yet been discovered. George is a Syrian Orthodox minister.

Signalman Falls With Wrecked Shed, Unhurt

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 14.—(AP.)—A small shed in which S. S. Glessner, a Pennsylvania Railroad signal operator, was working was struck by a derailed freight car and hurled down a 20-foot embankment. When the shed came to rest a few feet from the Susquehanna river, Glessner crawled out with only a minor cut on one finger.

Twelve cars were derailed in the freight wreck, which happened at New Cumberland.

Testimonial Dinner For Fire Captain

DRIVER SHOOTS PEDESTRIAN

DETROIT, March 14.—(INS.)—Barely escaping being run down by his assailant's automobile, Richard Phiffer, 22, was shot down by the mysterious driver who, according to Phiffer, became angered when Phiffer told him to drive more carefully.

Phiffer, who is in a critical condition at Receiving Hospital, told detectives he leaped aside when the automobile driven by the stranger bore down on him. He called to the driver to be careful. The latter stopped his car and challenged Phiffer, bringing about a quarrel during which the shooting occurred, Phiffer said. The assailant fled.

"THE PIANO THAT PLAYS FOR YOU"

A NEW TREASURE CHEST OF MUSIC

The WURLITZER UPRIGHT TREASURE CHEST OF MUSIC $595

Now, in the comfort and intimacy of your home you can enjoy by the fireside, with the companionship of the family, musical selections that make life more beautiful, driving away cares and cultivating the emotional forces that develop character in your children. This is all accomplished through an exceptionally remarkable new musical instrument, the

WURLITZER UPRIGHT
Treasure Chest of Music

a beautiful little piano that will present artistic musical entertainment at your command. Just establish the electrical contact, and you will hear beautiful melodies, popular dance hits and great compositions of the old masters, moderating in softness and volume as though the artist were playing in your very presence.

The finish may be obtained in deep, rich mahogany or highlighted walnut; pedals and metal parts are silver-toned nickel; the roll spool of golden orange and the spool box of light blue shade—a decidedly original and beautiful decorative scheme. To see this instrument, and hear it play selections of your choice with sensitive, expressive rendition is to be charmed by it.

Tweed Suits

Nothing Less Than a Fashion Necessity for Spring!

$39.50

Every smartly dressed woman will have a tweed suit this spring . . . and we suggest these varied styles offered Saturday at $39.50.

These tweed three-piece suits show a number of clever coat designs . . . some quite simply tailored, some with small collars, coats with tapered waistlines, and coats of various lengths. The colorings of the tweed will interest you particularly . . . navy and flecked tweeds being at the beginning of the color range, and bold checked tweeds in very defined shades at the top of it. Every suit has a silk crepe or satin blouse. Sizes for women and misses.

Fur Scarfs

$39.50

Scarfs of beige, brown, red or pointed fox . . . of gray, beige, white or brown wolf . . . or of stone marten—the right shades and types of fur to wear with your tweed suit—may be selected at this unusually low price.

Choose Your New Spring Coat

A Wide Variety of Smartest Styles

$39.50

You've never seen the equal of this selection of new spring coats . . . most of them just a few hours out of New York . . . and well able to win the approval of the most fashionable, even if marked with a higher price.

For those who prefer capes . . . coats of covert or dressier woolens with all-around capes or with just a fraction of a cape over the shoulders.

For those who like the Russian types . . . coats with high, belted waistlines and flaring skirts.

For those who like plain coats . . . more conservative models of new woolens with self collars. Or if you want fur trimming you may choose from squirrel, galyak, broadtail and lapin.

Semi-dress coats of covert stage a fashion exhibit of their own because every new detail seems to be found in this most favored fabric.

Both women's and misses' models are available in the new shades of navy blue, black, and beige.

Junior-Misses' Ensembles

$29.50

In this year of suits the Junior-Miss demands her share of this universal mode. Tomorrow, the most exacting young fashionable will be regaled with new tweed and covert ensembles . . . and in so many becoming models that she will want to wear a suit for every possible occasion.

The covert suits have the saucy little shoulder capes that mark a 1930 mode, and all of them have quite feminine silk crepe blouses.

The tweeds—with quite bold patterns or subtly flecked with dots and dashes—have coats that are slightly fitted, belted, or tailored with rounded front. Here again are those lovely silk crepe blouses . . . every one as attractive as the "spaghetti" type shown on the model illustrated.

Sizes 13 to 17. Tan, blue, green and black are the colors.

BYRD CLAIMS FOR WORLD

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, March 14.—(AP.)—In an interview here, Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, resting here after returning from his exploration of the Antarctic regions and his epoch making flight over the South Pole, said that he had no intention of claiming for the United States the new Antarctic lands he had discovered.

He said that when he found new land in the Antarctic he had found it for the world as much as for his own country, just as his predecessors had worked and struggled for the World at large.

His ideal, he said, was to secure complete understanding between the United States and the British Empire. He paid tribute to the British explorers, saying they had done the pioneer work and he had merely taken it up where others had left off.

Do you like your room? If you don't find a better one. There are plenty advertised in the Classified Section of this newspaper.

Limited Daylight Saving Time for New Castle

NEW CASTLE, March 14.—Daylight saving time will be observed here during June, July and August. Chairman Walter W. Duff, of the Board of Education committee, named to confer with the industrial heads, reported that the tin mills in particular were planning on observing these three monthgs only. The schools will not be required to make any change in schedule.

Find Woman's Body In Ruins of Home

NEW CASTLE, March 14.—The charred body of Mrs. Iva Cameron was found yesterday by workmen who had been searching in the ruins of her burned home.

Young Plan Faces French Deputies

PARIS, March 14.—(AP.)—A bill ratifying the Young plan will be introduced in the Chamber of Deputies by the Tardieu government next Thursday, March 20.

KENTUCKY SITE FOR DOPE FARM

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(Universal)—A 1,000 acre site four miles from Lexington, Ky., has been selected by the Treasury Department for the first of the two narcotic farms authorized by Congress. The second will be located west of the Mississippi River.

Appropriations will be sought of the present Congress to purchase the land and construct the necessary buildings. Assistant Secretary of Treasury Heath announced.

Prisoners in federal penitentiaries who are drug addicts will be transferred to the farm for treatment and rehabilitation. Each farm will have a capacity for 1,000 inmates. There are approximately 1,800 addicts in federal prisons.

The inter-departmental commission in charge of the farms, headed by Dr. Walter L. Treadway of the Public Health Service, has spent months in investigating sites. The Lexington location was chosen because of its accessibility and its advantages for agriculture and outdoor recreation. The Lexington Chamber of Commerce is donating part of the land.

Experts of the Agriculture Department have pronounced the site excellent for farming. One of the purposes is to make the farms as nearly self-supporting as possible.

Other members of the farms commission are Sanford Bates, superintendent of prisons, and Surgeon General Ireland of the Army.

Last War Veteran Dies, G. A. R. Disbands

SHIPPENSVILLE, Pa., March 14.—Death has called the last surviving member of Amos Kiser Post, G. A. R., at Shippenville. Passing of John A. Culbert, aged 90, resulted this week in the automatic disbanding of the post. Culbert was severely wounded in the second Battle of Bull Run. The Kiser post at one time had a membership of 56.

TORIES BEATEN IN COMMONS

LONDON, March 14.—(AP.)—The Labor Government last night beat off a Conservative attack in the House of Commons, defeating a motion of censure brought by former Premier Baldwin, Conservative leader, with a margin of more than 70 votes to spare. The figures were 308 to 235 in the division.

After six hours of debate in which Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, led the Tory attack, about a score of Liberals filed into the government lobbies and voted with Labor. The Labor strength of 287 votes, however, would have been sufficient alone to defeat the Tories. The figures indicating many abstentions among both opposition parties.

The real test of unemployment, however, is yet to come in the House, and if either Conservatives or Liberals draw up a motion of censure whose wording is acceptable to both, Prime Minister MacDonald will have a fight to the finish on his hands.

$2, Watermelon Theft Get Man Three Years

BEAVER, Pa., March 14.—Pleading guilty to the robbery of $2 and a watermelon from Sylvester Walton, of Vanport, Carl Lawrence, 21, of West Bridgewater, was sentenced by Judge W. A. McConnell to serve from three to six years in the penitentiary.

It was charged that Lawrence was also a deserter from the Army and a parole of the court.

KILLS KEEPER, SELF IN BREAK

TRENTON, N. J., March 14.—(AP.)—A desperate break for liberty last night by a 29-year-old prisoner who had completed 11 years of a double life sentence in State Prison, was terminated by his death, the fatal wounding of a guard and injury to two other guards.

Cornered in a cell by three keepers, Evans shot it out until one slug remained in his weapon. This he sent through his brain. The slain guard was Frank Butcher, who received a number of bullet wounds in the exchange of shots. Ernest Gordon received a superficial shoulder wound, and Thomas Foren was struck on the head with an improvised blackjack.

BRAWLEY, Cal., March 14.—(AP.)—Walter Sinclair, 42, alias Joe McFarland, escaped convict from the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus, was shot and killed by Police Officer Robert Cordill here last night. Sinclair had been arrested and was making a dash for freedom from the Brawley city jail.

Spanish Minister Leaves for Paris

MADRID, March 14.—(AP.)—The Duke of Alba, Spanish minister of state, left on the midnight express for Paris on private business. It is believed he is going to Davos, Switzerland, a famous health and winter resort, to join the Duchess of Alba.

Free yourself from the worry of pressing bills. See the "Money to Loan" Ads in the Classified Section.

Lost 7 Days, Man To Return From Cleveland

Missing since last Saturday, Maurice Wertheimer, 67, of 2832 Breckinridge street, will return home this evening. Wertheimer appealed to the Jewish Social Bureau of Cleveland last night for aid.

A December and May romance was blamed by city detectives for the disappearance of Wertheimer, who, for several years, had been a doorman at Montefiore Hospital.

SEEK KIDNAPED REALTOR

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 14.—(AP.)—Police today were working to effect the rescue of Samuel Barron, wealthy New York real estate operator, from kidnapers, who seized him near his home at Interlaken, N. J.

Motive for the kidnaping, which occurred Wednesday night, was not apparent, as no demand for ransom has been made, and Barron's wife and associates said they knew of no enemies.

Barron was waylaid as he walked toward his home from the Allenhurst station, by three men, who sprang upon him from roadside shrubbery. After a struggle he was subdued and lifted into an automobile driven by a fourth man.

Herman Goodstein, a partner with Barron in the Balsam Realty Corporation, 291 Broadway, New York City, told police that it was Barron's custom to collect large sums of money for the firm, and that robbery might have been the motive for the attack and kidnaping.

INDIA DISORDER SCATTERED

LONDON, March 14.—(INS.)—Mahatma Gandhi and the 79 faithful plod on toward Jalalpur, for "salt and independence."

The frail prophet of the doctrine of "civil disobedience" called a halt in his march at Nawagon last night, according to dispatches from Bombay, and was to carry on today in company with the small band that enlisted for the jaunt at Ahmadabad.

While the second day of the march of Gandhi was marked by the apathy of the peasantry and villagers along the route, elsewhere in India disorders inspired by the Gandhian injunction have aroused the authorities to action.

In Bykulla police arrested several railway workmen who attempted to interfere with more loyal employes by "passively" obstructing their efforts to perform their duties. The passiveness consisted of lying prostrate. Police interference occasioned a lively skirmish.

The mayor of Calcutta was arrested charged with making a seditious speech. In Bombay an alleged leader of a conspiracy to overthrow the British vice royalty by force of arms, was jailed.

Large Bank Closes; Blame Defalcation

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., March 14.—(AP.)—The Commercial National Bank of Independence, one of the largest banks in Kansas, was closed today following action yesterday by its board of directors. L. K. Roberts, chief national bank examiner for the district, said the closing resulted from losses occasioned by defalcations by the bank's president, George T. Guernsey, Sr., and from bad assets.

Roberts declined to state the amount allegedly taken by the 70-year-old president, but said the loss had been made in stock speculations.

Gets the 3 Best Things in Life

When all a girl needs is a clear, smooth skin, plenty of energy and a stomach which does not deprive her of the cake, candy and good food she wants, just keep down the excessive stomach acids, like pretty Lillian Utley, 921 Eastwood Ave., Chicago, does.

"I got the surprise of my life when I started taking Acidine," says Miss Utley. "Whenever I ate anything rich my stomach got so acid I'd have headaches and get sick. That's all over now. Acidine sweetens my stomach so easily I never have to worry. It tastes fine. I like it."

Sick, sour stomach, burning sensation in the throat, excessive thirst, skin rash, come from too much acid when the stomach doesn't digest the starchy foods and sweets you eat. Get a package of Acidine at any drug store and see how quick, pleasant and inexpensive it is.

THE DOW DRUG CO.

Pittsburgh Homestead McKeesport

Your doctor recommends Dow's Prescription Service because our large prescription business assures complete stocks of fresh drugs and pharmaceuticals.

C. F. ARMSTRONG PINCHOT AIDE

postmastership, he said, he would be unable to enter the race for lieutenant governor.

His candidacy, he said, was acceptable to former Gov. Pinchot.

FORMER LEGISLATOR

Armstrong would be the only candidate to run with Pinchot, it was expected in Pittsburgh political circles.

He is a former member of the Legislature, where he represented Armstrong County for five sessions. During Pinchot's term as Governor, Armstrong was chairman of the Law and Order Committee, and handled all of the Governor's dry legislation.

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern yesterday reported progress in plans for determining a chairman for Pinchot's local campaign and declared that headquarters would be opened as soon as suitable space was found.

The first nomination petitions for Secretary of Labor James J. Davis as candidate for United States senator appeared yesterday for circulation in McKeesport. The first signer noted was O. K. Eaton. The legal directory contains the name of Oliver K. Eaton, who has been prominent in litigation beneficial to labor. Davis was expected to make a strong appeal for the labor vote.

The Davis petitions were issued from Harrisburg and, while none was available in Pittsburgh, it was reliably reported the papers were being circulated throughout the state.

DUE HERE SATURDAY

Davis is expected to visit Pittsburgh Saturday or Sunday to make formal announcement of his candidacy, and pending that event local leaders were keeping strict silence on alignments.

Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell has created considerable curiosity as to his attitude owing to his prominence as a Western Pennsylvania leader in the Vare-Beidleman campaign four years ago.

He will not commit himself in the present situation, but there is general conviction that he would be conspicuous in the campaign for Davis and his running mate, Francis Shunk Brown, as candidate for governor.

Mackrell has been absent from Pittsburgh a number of times during the last few weeks, and it was believed he was conferring in Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Florida with William S. Vare and his friends who are in the Davis-Brown camp.

State Senator M. G. Leslie, who has been in Atlantic City for months, was expected to return home March 21 and decide whether he would again seek re-election.

Leslie was said to be placing his health above political considerations, and seemed inclined to retire. He has been urged by bankers and other leading business men to continue, his friends said, so as to give the state the benefit of his vast experience in legislation.

Mayor Charles H. Kline, was reported to have received from his friends urgent requests to attempt to defeat Leslie by placing the city administration support behind a strong opposing candidate, preferably from the South Side. No formidable opponent has appeared to date.

The plan was said to have been frowned upon by a majority of the other leaders of Allegheny County including Leslie's friend, County Commissioner and Republican County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong.

Nomination petitions were taken out here for Attorney C. A. Hofacker, former solicitor of Coraopolis, as a candidate for one of the four legislative seats in the Twelfth district.

Waynesburg Goes Modern; Police To Ride

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 14.—Waynesburg now boasts of a motorized police force, a new motorcycle with side car attachment recently purchased by borough council having arrived.

The machine is the same type used by state highway patrol and is designed especially for police work.

St. Francis Teacher Resumes Duties

LORETTO, Pa., March 14.—Prof. John Mazzola, Dean of the School of Social Science, of Saint Francis College, Loretto, returned to his post March 10, after serving as one of 300 delegates who attended the First Annual History Conference for history teachers in the Universities, Colleges, High Schools and Academies of Pennsylvania. The convention was sponsored by the history department of the University of Pittsburgh, and was held in Pittsburgh on March 8.

Ronco Man Arrested, Find 'Red' Literature

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 14.—Joe Galligo, of Ronco, was arrested by New Salem state police on charges of violating the alien gun and liquor laws. Communist propaganda, a high-powered rifle and a quantity of liquor were seized at his home, police reported.

BUSINESS BOOM SEEN BY SLOAN

MIAMI, Fla., March 14.—(AP.)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, and Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler Motor Car Corporation, returned yesterday from a two weeks' cruise through West Indian waters aboard Sloan's new yacht, Rene.

"General business conditions are on the upgrade and will continue to be so," Sloan said.

"Styles of automobiles have reached a stabilized basis and no radical change in either body or chassis styles should be expected in the near future," Chrysler said.

In regard to rumors that Chrysler Motors would merge with General Motors, Sloan said "there is not a word of truth in any statements that have been made to that effect."

Sharon Native May Run For Governor

SHARON, Pa., March 14.—Attorney Roy Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, of Sharon, is mentioned as a probable candidate for the Republican nomination as governor of Oklahoma. He has been United States District Attorney at Oklahoma City for the past several years.

League Court Threatens Oblivion Of U. S. Nationalism, Child Warns

NEW YORK, March 14.—(INS.)—The League Court holds over the unawakened United States the threat of the "shocking oblivion" of its nationalism.

That was the solemn warning spoken by Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy. He was speaking in the third of the patriotic broadcasts sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution. His talk was broadcast from WEAF and through the National Broadcasting Company network.

Discussing "America's need of staunch nationalism," he said, in part:

"I have spent enough time abroad to know how fortunate we are that our foreign policies cannot be dictated by diplomats or even by a president of the United States.

"You hear a good deal of complaint from some short-sighted persons — particularly those who want to rush us into European politics — that the United States Senate stands in the way of progress. But I want to remind you that it is the debates in the Senate about ratification of any foreign policy which bring together a real American decision.

"I think of this fact always when I hear the word nationalism.

Quotes Roosevelt

"Theodore Roosevelt expressed the basis of the right kind of nationalism when he said to me on many occasions:

"Internationalism may some day hold the loyalty of the hearts of people, but today internationalism is like saying: 'I love my neighbor's wife as much as I do my own!'

"With a high purpose, we should have in mind the development of an unadulterated, high standard civilization, based upon practical and good and pure nationalism. It works. I have no prejudice against communism, except this—it fails.

"The one terrible mistake we made was to go to the Paris Peace Conference at all. I used to beg those who decided that question not to go.

"Wilson could not keep us out of war, but he might have kept us out of a minority place in an iniquitous and impractical settlement where most of his 14 points went into the waste basket.

League Objections

"I have stated recently in the Hearst press, because of the breadth of its circulation, the reasons why the great body of horse sense Americans stand against pledges of our future action—against any pledges, promises or entanglements of our freedom to use our own judgement, our own conscience in any future emergency. Let me state it again, the reasons why the people of the United States vetoed entry into the League of Nations:

"1.—Ours is a detached position. Argue as you like, we have neither the old problems nor the boundaries of other large powers. Our position is not only detached, but it is useful to the peace of the world, because, while we are free agents.

"2.—It is absurd for us to join any United States of Europe as a minority member, as it would be for a European state to join our United States and submit to settlements of all differences by our Supreme Court.

"3.—Our political structure—and the United States Senate—which help to guarantee that our foreign policy shall be put out on the table and decided by public opinion, makes it impossible for us to promise to work into any European political machine.

"4—If we did so we would be pulled this way and hauled that way in the quarrels of others.

"This does not say that day by day, year by year we are afraid to deal with our foreign friends."

Navy Meet Cited

"No better example could be found on the distinction between pledging our future and helping to negotiate the world's present problems than the London Naval Conference, now in session. No better example could be dug up than the helpful suggestion of President Hoover that the world wants less armaments, less tax burden or armaments than it has now. But we refuse—clearly and finally—to join anything like a security pact or a "bush" League of Nations to pawn our freedom of action in any future conclave where our minority position would auction off our freedom as to do what we believe right.

"There is a growing doubt in America as to whether the European nations are in a political condition to consent to much disarmament. We have a kind of disappointed national astonishment that a naval conference to reduce armament results in a conference to limit perhaps, but also to raise armament."

TAFT WIDOW'S SISTER DIES

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(INS.)—Mrs. Charles Anderson, of Cincinnati, sister of Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the former President and former chief justice, died suddenly in Paris, France, on the eve of her departure for the United States, according to word received at the Taft home here. A heart attack was given as the cause of death.

Mrs. Anderson and a daughter, Miss Catherine Anderson, had been in England, where they had visited Mrs. George Lester, another daughter of Mrs. Anderson. They left England Wednesday for Paris.

Besides Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Anderson is survived by five other sisters, Miss Marion Herron, now at the Taft home here; Mrs. Henry Lippitt, of Providence, R. I., wife of former Senator Lippitt; Mrs. Gustavus Parsons, of Columbus, O., and Mrs. Louis T. Moore, of Cincinnati. She was 55 years old and a widow.

End Bunion Pain Forever

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing, Torturing Pains.

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning, and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces last a long time, and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. By applying night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal. MADRID TO ACT IN TARIFF ROW

MADRID, Spain, March 14.—(AP.)—The government is about to act decisively upon Spain's long-standing tariff disagreement with the United States, which has led to several extensions of the modus vivendi existing since the abrogation of the commercial treaty.

This became known after a meeting of the Foreign Trade Council under the presidency of Senor Wais, minister of national economy.

The Council made a detailed study of the situation and requested the government to act with fairness but firmness.

IRVING HOUSE PLAN FAILS

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP.) The National Patriotic Builders of America, organized to buy the Washington Irving House at Irving place and Seventeenth street as a center of patriotic and good citizenship work, has been compelled to give it up because of lack of financial support.

This was disclosed when a State Supreme Court justice signed an order permitting the society to sell the house to Louis Sobel, a realty man, for $65,000.

A drive for $250,000 to aid the society in carrying on Americanization work in the quaint little house associated by tradition with the closing years of Irving's life was started in 1928 but was not successful.

MEXICO REVISES ALIEN LAW

MEXICO CITY, March 14. —(AP.)—Genaro Estrada, Mexican foreign secretary, announced that a project for a new law on foreigners and naturalization had been completed by his department after two years of work and would be submitted to Congress.

The project is said to make radical changes in previous regulations concerning foreigners and calls for alterations in three articles of the Constitution. Senor Genaro Estrada refused to say what they would be, but promised that the report would be made public in a few days.

Mercer Flour Mill Will Be Opened Soon

MERCER, Pa., March 14.—The mill of the Mercer Milling Company, purchased at bankrupt sale recently by Messrs. Emery, Ivon V. and James G. Davis, of New Castle, will be placed in operation soon, the new owners announce. Court confirmation of the sale is expected within a few days.

Two Youths Charged With Theft of Auto

School Dedication Awaits Benefactor

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., March 14—The new Ramsay High School, erected at a cost of $175,000, will be occupied March 24. The dedication date has not been fixed, as it is desired to have Erskine Ramsay, steel manufacturer of Birmingham, Ala., who contributed $65,000 to the building fund, present.

A feature of the new institution is that equipment for television has been provided.

Franklin, Oil City Drop Daylight Time

FRANKLIN, Pa., March 14—Franklin is not likely to have daylight saving this year. Decision of Oil City Council to drop consideration of the matter virtually put the matter in the discard for another year.

Hope was held that if Oil City decided for daylight time this season, Franklin would follow. Titusville has not yet acted. It followed the daylight plan last year.

Democrats Divided On Barring Bolters

ROSWELL, N. M., March 14.—(AP.)—The Eddy County Democratic Central Committee has barred all Democrats who voted for Herbert Hoover in the last general election from participating in the coming Democratic county primary, but the Chaves County Central Committee has decided that Democrats who cast votes for Hoover can vote in its primary.

DON'T IGNORE WARNING SIGNALS

Headaches, Listlessness, Bad Breath, Backaches, Indigestion —Stop Them with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

This is a serious matter. You must conquer constipation! Stop it at once before its poisons get in their deadly work.

Nearly 90% of all sickness has its origin in irregular elimination. If you neglect the symptoms—constant fatigue, bad breath, headaches and coated tongue—you may be laying yourself open to permanent ill-health.

There's a natural, easy way to free yourself from this terrible scourge, once and forever. By eating regularly a delicious cereal —Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Physicians recommend ALL-BRAN because its action is different from pills and drugs. Ordinary cathartics give only temporary relief, and are often habit-forming.

ALL-BRAN acts naturally, gently. Its roughage sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes and impurities.

And ALL-BRAN is a great aid to health in other ways. It contains abundant iron which enriches the blood, builds strength and the glowing color of health. With milk or cream—or in fruit juices—it brings important vitamins to the diet.

You'll find the flavor of ALL-BRAN delightful. A crisp, ready-to-eat cereal, with a nut-like flavor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to keep you free from both temporary and recurring constipation if you eat it according to directions on every package.

Ignoring constipation is like playing with dynamite. Start serving Kellogg's ALL-BRAN now. Sold by all grocers in the red-and-green package. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Ask for it by name.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Triple Action ends coughs FAST

Home from school with a bad cough
—Back in school the next day

"Will I ever forget the fright I had when Jane came home from school coughing, coughing—one cough right after the other. I put her to bed immediately and gave her a teaspoonful of Smith Brothers Cough Syrup every hour. "That night my little Jane slept peacefully. In the morning she smiled again—well as ever. I will be grateful all my life to Smith Brothers Cough Syrup.."—Mrs. A. Robeson.

Smith Brothers Triple Action Cough Syrup works so efficiently because 1. It soothes, 2. Is mildly laxative, 3. Clears air passages. Children like the flavor.

GIRL FOILS AIR MAIL ROBBERY

TOLEDO, O., March 14.—(INS.)—Closely resembling in its details the spectacular $1,000,000 holdup of the Toledo postoffice in 1921, the attempt of a gang of bandits to hold up employes at the Transcontinental Air post and escape with the night air mail was disclosed here late yesterday by S. G. Vanburen, airport manager.

The alertness of Miss Minnie Tienarend, of Lemoyne, night telephone operator, in realizing wires had been cut, foiled what police believe might have been one of the most sensational mail robberies in Toledo's history.

Just Too Much! Revoke Negro's Life Term

PARIS, Ky., March 14.—(AP.)—A life sentence in the penitentiary imposed on Jim Ashbury, Negro, for stealing five chickens, was set aside as excessive by Judge Ben G. Williams.

The sentence was imposed Tuesday by a jury in Bourbon Circuit Court. Ashbury will be given another trial, as new evidence was introduced to show that he returned the chickens to the owner the next day, when he was accused of the theft.

Perry Township Chief Re-elected

PERRYOPOLIS, Pa., March 14.—Michael Karolcik has been re-elected chief of the Perry Township Volunteer Fire Department. He also is president. His report showed 13 alarms during 1929 with loss placed at $5,000.

Why Fear Middle Age?

No woman need fear middle age if her health is good. Hundreds of active, contented middle-aged women are telling their friends that they owe their health and vigor to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Get a bottle from your druggist today.

Mrs. Clara Riley, 2100 Paxton & 4th Ave., Sioux City, Iowa

"I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at Change of Life. I still take it every spring and fall and it keeps me in good health. I am able to take care of an eight room house and garden, at the age of 71 years. It is a wonderful medicine for women. They should give it a good trial by taking about five bottles."

Mrs. Bertha Stephens, 21 E. Ross St., Lancaster, Pennsylvania

"I was very nervous and rundown and weighed less than one hundred pounds. I felt tired and weak and I often had to lie down. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I read the advertisement in the paper. Now I eat well, sleep well, and have good color. In fact I couldn't feel any better and I weigh one hundred fifty-five pounds. I am glad to answer letters."

Hannah M. Eversmeyer, 707 N-16 St., East St. Louis, Illinois

"I had a nervous breakdown and could not do the work I have to do around the house. Through one of your booklets I found how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped other women and I went to the drug store and got me six bottles. It has done me good in more ways than one and now I work every day without having to lie down. I will answer all letters."

Vegetable Compound is also sold in Tablet Form

ARREST 'RIVAL' IN STUDIO FIRE

TAOS, N. M., March 14—(AP.)—Carmen Duran, of Taos, mentioned in the diary of Arthur Manby, 69, who was found dead in his home here last July, as a rival of Manby for the affections of Terecita Ferguson, was arrested yesterday in connection with the recent robbery and burning of the Taos studio of Mr. and Mrs. John Younghunter, New York artists.

Terecita Ferguson is at liberty under $500 bond in connection with the Younghunter robbery case and her nephew, George Ferguson, is in jail.

Duran was arrested after he and Terecita returned from Albuquerque where Dr. Victor Thorne of New York City obtained judgment in Federal Court for $13,000 against the estate of Manby, title to which is held by the Colonial Bond and Surety Company of which Terecita is president. The judgment was rendered on a mortgage.

Manby, whose mysterious death is the subject of a renewed investigation at the request of English relatives, lived the life of a recluse in this artists' colony, but was an avowed admirer of Terecita Ferguson with whom he shared his financial dealings. He described the young brunet in his diary as the "Princess of All My Dreams."

BUTLER IN RACE AS DRY BACKER

BOSTON, March 14.—(AP.)—William M. Butler last night announced the platform on which he would seek the Republican nomination for the United States Senate. In a prepared statement he said he was opposed to repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and stood without qualification behind President Hoover's views on prohibition.

On the death of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in 1924, Butler was appointed to fill the vacancy but when he sought election at the expiration of his term he was defeated by Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat.

In his statement, Butler recalled a telegram he sent to the late Charles Sumner Bird, a political opponent, in 1924, in which he said:

"I favor the enforcement of the Volstead act and would not amend it except if necessary after further fair and thorough trial and then in no way which would tend to break down the principles involved in the Eighteenth amendment. I frankly say that I was not in favor of the amendment when adopted but I am convinced that it has brought about a great improvement in living and economic conditions in the country."

The statement then continued: "I stand now where I stood then. The situation must be faced as it is. The fact is in my opinion the amendment is in the Constitution to stay. Thirteen states out of 48 will keep it there. Therefore, I stand by the Eighteenth amendment."

BEAUTY DOCTOR LOSES LICENSE

CHICAGO, March 14.—(AP.)—An order revoking the license of Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon, was signed today by Michael F. Walsh, director of the State Department of Registration and Education.

Schireson, who received considerable attention as the result of operations performed on theatrical celebrities, recently was convicted by a State Medical Association committee of malpractice, fraud and conduct unbecoming a physician. The specific charge was that an operation he performed resulted in amputation of the legs of Miss Sadye Holland. The prosecution was conducted by First Assistant Attorney General Harry A. Ash on order of Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom.

Schireson has filed notice of intention to appeal.

'Sheik Robber' Stages Third Holdup

CHARLEROI, Pa., March 14. Charleroi's "sheik robber" committed his third holdup yesterday. Strolling into a Speer gasoline station, on the Belle Vernon Fayette City road, the youth forced John Danks, the attendant, to hand over $20 from the cash register, at the point of a concealed revolver.

After securing the money he casually walked from the station and strolled up the road, where it was believed an accomplice was waiting in an automobile.

WAR BAN SIGNED BY 58 NATIONS

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP.)—State Department figures show that 58 nations have deposited their instruments of adherence and ratifications of the Kellogg Peace Pact.

Of the 65 nations of the world, only two have not yet signified their intention to adhere. They are Argentina and Brazil. Five nations have expressed their intention of adhering, but have not yet deposited instruments. These are Bolivia, Colombia, Ecudor, El Salvador and Uruguay.

GIRL DISCOVERS DEADLY GERM

LONDON, March 14.—(AP.)—Miss Kathleen Chevassut, young pupil of Sir James Purves-Stewart, widely known British medical authority, was reported to have discovered what may prove to be the germ of "disseminated sclerosis." This disease is often responsible for paralysis, and it causes have hitherto been obscure and its treatment unsatisfactory.

The discovery was published in the medical journal, The Lancet. If it is substantiated, The Lancet believes it will rank among the foremost achievements of bacteriology. Experiments are being made in treating the disease with vaccines prepared from cultures of minute bodies that Miss Chevassut discovered.

The results hitherto have been encouraging. Disseminated sclerosis, a degenerative disease of the brain and spinal cord, slowly but steadily progresses in most cases, chronic nephritis or tuberculosis frequently developing and causing death.

Bandit Anemic, But Man Hands Over $77.71

DOVER, O., March 14.—The blue steel barrel of the revolver which an anemic, youthful bandit stuck in the face of Samuel Rosenberry, Dover filling station owner, last night impressed more than his wasted form, and induced Rosenberry to turn over his day's receipts of $77.71.

Canada to Build Prison For Novices

OTTAWA, March 14.—(AP.)—Plans for the construction of two penitentiaries in which first offenders will be segregated from other convicts were announced by the Dominion government. The new institutions will be built at Kingston, Ont., and at Montreal, adjoining the present penitentiaries at these two places.

RAILMEN BALK, DAMAGE DONE

BUENOS AIRES, March 14.—(AP.)—Damage estimated at almost $400,000 was done to Argentine Railways yesterday, when dissatisfied railway workers throughout the country, began "working to rules," strictly following the clauses of a government decree issued years ago to govern work on the railroads.

All trains were delayed, and infuriated passengers did much damage to local trains and stations, breaking windows and in some cases setting coaches on fire.

The Western Railway was the principal sufferer, damages being estimated at $250,000. In the suburban station of Villa Luro this morning more than 1,000 passengers, most of them workmen, became so angered by the delays in the departure of the trains that they destroyed three cars. The station caught fire and was damaged.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids, 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Make This Chic Ensemble

Pattern 1825

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

You will be delighted at the ease with which this little outfit may be made. The sleeveless frock, with scalloped front opening and side pleats for additional fullness, is fashioned of dotted pique . . . white with red, blue or green. The smart coat uses kasha, jersey, kashmere or broadcloth.

The coat collar of Pattern 1825 is made of the dress material, and if you wish to line the coat, the same fabric is used. Other suitable materials frock and lining are pongee, silk crepe and cotton broadcloth. Of course, both garments may be worn with other things.

Designed only for sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 1⅛ yards of 54-inch coat fabric, 1⅜ yards 39-inch for frock and collar, 1⅞ yards additional for lining.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York City.

PLUNGE KILLS 2 FIGHTING FIRE

ELLSWORTH, Me., March 14. (AP.)—Two firemen were killed and two seriously injured today in a fire which destroyed the Hancock County Supreme Court building. Damage was estimated at $175,000.

The dead were Raymond Peavey and Lester Salisbury. The injured are George Fortier and George Patrick.

The four, with Russell Clark, had climbed to the second floor of the three-story building and were plunged to the basement when a brick cupola crashed through the roof.

It was believed the records of the register of deeds and the register of probate, stored in the building, would be found intact as they were kept in fireproof steel cases.

Boy Struck by Car Taken to Hospital

Robert Scott, 7, of 76 Wabash avenue, was in Mercy Hospital today with probable fractures of the shoulder and skull as a result of being struck by a street car in Wabash avenue, between South Main and Neptune streets. J. Clatts, motorman, and his conductor, Adam Finley, carried the boy to a nearby doctor's office, who ordered his removal to a hospital.

50 Children Enter Bird House Contest

MERCER, Pa., March 14.—Fifty boys and girls of the community have enrolled in the bird house contest being sponsored by the Mercer Burbank Club.

Finch Triplets Entertain on Birthday

FRANKLIN, Pa., March 14.—The Finch triplets—Fred, Floyd and Francis—celebrated their ninth birthday this week. The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Finch, Oak Hill. The trio treated their schoolmates to a dinner in celebration of the birthday.

WIDEN SEARCH FOR STUDENT

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., March 14.—(AP.)—A nation-wide search was instituted for Morgan P. Moorer, Jr., University of North Carolina freshman, who mysteriously disappeared from the campus two weeks ago. Reports that the 17-year-old Asheville, N. C., youth had been seen several days ago in Pennsylvania and Delaware, en route to New York, caused officials to extend the scope of their search beyond the bounds of the state.

Police, radio stations and newspapers have been asked to assist in efforts to locate the youth, believed to be wandering aimlessly in a mentally unbalanced condition.

The youth is described as being six feet tall, weighing 122 pounds, with piercing dark eyes, brown hair and rather high forehead. He was wearing an Asheville High School class ring with a garnet setting when he disappeared. Moorer was known here as moody and eccentric.

TEXAS UTILITY LEADER DIES

ABILENE, Tex., March 14.—(AP.)—George W. Fry, 48, president of the West Texas Utilities Company, which operates in 113 communities and 45 counties of West Texas, is dead at his home here.

He had been ill for nearly a year from a lung and heart ailment, and his condition had been critical for the past several days.

Born and reared in Wisconsin, Fry was a civil engineer for the Chicago, St. Louis and Minneapolis Railroad for a time. He came to West Texas in 1920 and managed properties owned by the American Public Service Company. In 10 years he built up the West Texas Utilities Company, a $48,000,000 corporation, connected with the Insull utility group.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, a son and a sister.

ALL TOWN JOBS WON BY WOMEN

STEPHENSON, Mich., March 14.—(AP.)—Persistent women, whose entry into politics in this village was marred apparently by defeat of only one of their slate of candidates, were jubilant after a recount gave them complete victory.

Mrs. Grace Sanders, who contested the office of village president against the incumbent, F. X. Beudoin, apparently lost 90 to 89, but in the recount 28 questionable ballots went into the discard and Mrs. Sanders was declared the victor, 77 to 74.

All other women candidates were elected.

As a result of campaign promises, Stephenson expected to have a village park and a dump where abandoned automobile, and other refuse, which the women said "cluttered up the streets," could be taken.

Divorce Record Broken in Mercer

SHARON, Pa., March 14.—(AP.)—A new high record for the number of divorces granted in Mercer County over a two-month period was reported by Prothonotary Daisy T. Morse, who revealed that 21 decrees had been handed down by Judge J. A. McLaughry since the first of the year.

HORSESHOEING LAW IN ARMY

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP.)—The War Department, with a former cowboy at its head, has come to the defense of horses with an order that all Army officers would have to learn how to shoe the animals.

Secretary Hurley defined the instruction to be of "sufficient character to insure proper shoeing under all circumstances." Even infantry officers must know enough on the subject to be able to tell when a horseshoe fits.

Find Rare Coins On Suicide, Brothers Held

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 14.—Burglary of the home of C. H. Wunderlich, near Postboy, November 7, 1928, was recalled today when Sheriff J. R. Stofer, Coshocton, captured George Bussard and William S. Rice, near Newcomerstown, indicted by Tuscarawas County grand jury.

Old coins found in the pockets of Bussard's brother, Charles Bussard, 45, Newcomerstown, after the latter committed suicide correspond with those missing from the Wunderlich home.

Charles Bussard was indicted in Coshocton for another burglary.

1-10 YEARS FOR CULT QUEEN

LOS ANGELES, March 14.—(AP.)—Mrs. May Otis Blackburn, cult leader, yesterday was sentenced to one to ten years in San Quentin Penitentiary for theft of $45,000 from Clifford Dabney, oil operator and cult follower.

A writ of probable cause was granted by Superior Court, permitting her to remain in the county jail pending an appeal. A motion for a new trial was denied.

Mrs. Blackburn was accused of obtaining the money from Dabney on false representations that angels were aiding her in writing a book which would reveal the location of vast mineral deposits on the earth.

Cleveland Doctor Recommends Flaxolyn in Remarkable Public Statement

Dr. Katherine M. Griswold, of Cleveland, Ohio, Who Heartily Advises Flaxolyn to the People of Pittsburgh Because It Brought Such a Wonderful Improvement in Her Own Health.

Feels Invigorated, Buoyant and Care-free As Dr. Luntz's Herbal Flaxolyn Drove Out the Poisonous "Toxins" of Constipation That Cause Sleeplessness, Poor Appetite, Headaches, and That Dreadfully Heavy, Tired-Out Feeling. Flaxolyn Now Obtainable Here.

When Dr. Katherine M. Griswold felt that she needed help in purifying her internal organs of the treacherous toxic poisons which come from constipation, and cause an endless number of sicknesses, she sought the very best preparation she knew for the purpose—and that is Dr. Luntz's Flaxolyn.

"Flaxolyn is natural in its action," says Dr. Griswold. "I am thoroughly convinced Flaxolyn is all and more than claimed for it. I most heartily recommend the use of Flaxolyn to all my patients.

"In my own case, Flaxolyn drove out the impurities and toned up my system to such an extent that I felt wonderfully invigorated, carefree and buoyant."

"Flaxolyn Assists Nature"

States Dr. E. Thayer Ward

"People to whom I have recommended Flaxolyn readily testify to its beneficial results," says Dr. Ward.

"Constipation, kidney and stomach troubles, headaches and nervousness respond to this natural remedy in a most splendid manner.

"No harmful or irritating habit-forming ingredients are contained in this Flaxolyn formula. Herbal Flaxolyn assists Nature in restoring a harmonious condition."

When Flaxolyn acts, the blood clears, the skin freshens, and the eyes sparkle. That tired, depressed appearance soon vanishes.

The Famous Herbal Flaxolyn Formula

Originated by Dr. Harris H. Luntz (M. D., D. O.). Contains Bile Salts, Vitamin B and other valuable medicaments including the following herbs:

1. Baked Flaxseed—Relaxes congestion; acts as astringent.
2. Sarsaparilla Roots—Contain saponin, an effective blood remedy.
3. Rocha Leaves—Act on the kidneys and bladder.
4. African Ginger Roots—Quicken flow of vital digestive juices.
5. Dandelion Roots—Act on the intestinal tract.
6. Cardamom Seeds—Act on the stomach lining. Aromatic tonic.
7. Chinese Rhubarb—Invigorates stomach and liver.
8. Spanish Licorice Roots—Remove mucus that may clog and poison digestive organs.
9. Culver Roots—Stimulate natural bile flow.
10. Gentian Roots—Create a healthy, normal appetite.
11. Belgian Valerian Roots—Tone nerves and induce restful sleep.
12. California Bark—Cleanses colon and removes foreign matter from intestines.

Pittsburgh Man Was So Bloated Up With Gas, and So Generally Sick, He Could Hardly Endure Life; Now He Enjoys It

Mr. Albert L. M. Wallace, 670 Princeton Boulevard, Pittsburgh, says: "For some time I have suffered from a kind of chronic constipation. It has caused me to bloat up something awful. Then again, I was disturbed during the night by a restless condition.

A Healthy Man Now

"But since I have taken Dr. Lupta's pleasant Flaxolyn, I feel so entirely different that there is no comparison between my health today and what it was just a little while ago.

"There used to be times when I felt so 'knocked out' that I could hardly do any work. But now I am always full of pep. I sleep fine, eat everything without any trouble—and if you know anybody who is like I was, you will be doing them a great big favor to urge them to try Flaxolyn. I will be glad to tell anybody personally, or in a letter, just how wonderful Flaxolyn really is."

Sick or Run-Down?
Read Why These American Doctors Recommend Flaxolyn

1. DR. VICTOR P. FLEMING of York, Pa.:—"Flaxolyn combats acidity; purifies the blood."
2. DR. MARGARET NEBBITT of Cleve'd: "Flaxolyn aids Nature to perform her functions."
3. DR. H. V. WALLS of Pittsburgh: "Constipation, headaches, nervousness respond to Flaxolyn."
4. DR. GEO. STARR WHITE of Los Angeles:—"Sound restful sleep follows Flaxolyn's action on the intestinal tract."

Health Easy to Win

If your sickness or tired, run-down condition is due to poor sleep, nervousness, gas, dizzy spells, headaches, chronic fatigue, and other results of constipation, let the pleasant Flaxolyn sweep your intestinal canal free of toxic poisons. See how much better you feel. Flaxolyn is a friend of thousands here. Keeps the system in tone.

Flaxolyn must have unusual qualities because so many doctors not only recommend it . . . they use it themselves and call its results wonderful.

Feel the Tonic Change at Once. Note the New Sparkle in Your Eyes and the New Color in Your Cheeks as You Continue With the Flaxolyn Treatment. Don't Fear the Sicknesses of Winter—Let Flaxolyn Help You Fight Them.

GUARANTEE!

CLIP THIS IMPORTANT REMINDER NOW
It May Be Worth a Fortune to You In the New Energy and Strength It Will Lead to, Through Flaxolyn

Don't delay taking Flaxolyn! This pleasant-tasting, pleasant-acting health-product cannot hurt you, and it may do you a tremendous amount of good. There are any number of men, women and children right here who tell how the new Flaxolyn has put new pep in their step, new keenness in their appetite, new brightness in their faces, and new zest in their lives.

Flaxolyn must bring a satisfactory improvement by the sixth pleasant spoonful, or return the partly-used bottle to the drug store and get your money back.

All druggists, particularly the May Drug Stores (all over Greater Pittsburgh), can now supply you with the new Herbal Flaxolyn.

HUGE BUILDING PROGRAMS IN PROGRESS

Latest Figures Confirm Previous Estimates of Seven Billion Expenditure

WASHINGTON, March 14.—In his latest statement on construction of public works contemplated for this year Secretary of Commerce Lamont has given figures for several states for which estimates alone had been available previously. It is not likely these figures will raise the total of $7,000,000,000 previously announced for both public and public utility projects, but the returns from the additional states add assurance to the estimate and practically guarantee that the total of public construction will not go below forecasts, the department stated.

Information that the programs of building are being speeded up also was reported on hand at the department. This includes letting of road-building contracts during the winter by highway departments, considered an unprecedented action by the department.

BIG HIGHWAY JOBS

Cases also were cited in which governors have instructed highway departments to call for road bids.

The estimates made by the department of public construction in the states for which complete figures were made available showed that the department did not err in its forecast by more than 5 per cent or 10 per cent, and that was below complete figures, it was stated.

Reports are expected shortly from four more states but the department is likely to wait until complete reports are in from the 48 states before giving out additional figures. About two-thirds of the states already have reported.

STATES SPEED WORK

Of the $7,000,000,000 of construction, approximately $3,500,000,000 will be undertaken by public utilities. State, county and municipal public works in New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania alone will aggregate more than $1,000,000,000. Gov. John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania reported a total of $305,988,118 for that state.

Other states for which figures were made available were Michigan, $93,000,000; Iowa, $70,000,000; Kentucky, $51,670,000; Maryland, $48,860,000; Rhode Island, $20,000,000; Utah, $8,800,000; Nevada, $3,250,000.

Total estimated expenditure for new construction during 1930 is 8½ per cent higher than for 1929.

Treasury Department is proceeding rapidly with authorized construction, as is the Army and all other Federal agencies, it was added. River and harbor work is being expedited.

Regains Memory And Voice Lost Four Years

CHICOPEE, Mass., March 14.—(INS.)—A 1930 Rip Van Winkle, William Lord, 56, today continued life where he had left off four years ago, when he lost his memory and speech.

His mind suddenly became normal today and his voice also returned. The first thing he did was to start singing a song—he made up the words as he sang.

"I feel that I've been asleep for about 24 hours," he said.

Then he was reintroduced to his wife and six children.

12 Drivers Arrested For Overloading

Twelve drivers of five-ton trucks are lodged in North Side Police Station, charged with overloading their trucks in violation of a city ordinance. The drivers were arrested this morning en route to Spring Hill with loads of dirt from the site of the new Gulf Refining Building.

TRADE BALANCE FAVORS U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Foreign trade of the United States for February showed an excess of exports amounting to $70,000,000, compared with an excess of exports amounting to $72,309,000 for the same month a year ago.

February exports, the department said, were the lowest for that month since 1922.

Total value of exports of merchandise for February was $351,000,000, against $442,456,000 for February, 1929. Value of imports was $281,000,000, against $369,465,000.

Two months exports totaled $762,325,000, compared with $930,471,000 last year. Imports were $591,967,000, against $738,266,000.

Kansas Official Accused on Funds

TOPEKA, Kan., March 14.—(AP.)—Attorney General William A. Smith announced today he was preparing a criminal complaint against Will J. French, state auditor, charging embezzlement on five counts.

The complaint will be based on the alleged conversion by French to his own use of $1,492 in state funds. French admitted taking the money, but asserted he had committed no criminal offense and had returned withdrawals with interest.

McKeesport Man Is Killed in Crash

SHARON, Pa., March 15.—(AP.)—George Xilas, McKeesport, died today in the Grove City Hospital of a fractured skull suffered in an automobile accident on Franklin-Pittsburgh road last night. He was riding from Erie to Pittsburgh with Otto Landman and Jack Kron. Their truck struck a pole near Harrisville. Landman and Kron are being held.

The Surest Road to Independence

John F. Casey

Chairman of the Board
John F. Casey Company

THE outstanding lesson of the late disturbed financial condition is that the surest road to Independence is by Thrift and Continuous Saving. Thrift is vitally concerned with the principles of moderation and measure—and opposed to Speculation, which is often disastrous and always uncertain. You will never find an easy way to Success. Get to work, live in the best way within your income, be ready for opportunity, prepare for the future—and then Success will be possible! I know of no greater aid to anyone than to acquire the Savings Habit.

LIKE the heads of many of our important businesses, Mr. John F. Casey, Chairman of the Board of the John F. Casey Company, Constructors, had to make his own way in the world. His first job was as electrician's helper. Before he started in the contracting business for himself, Mr. Casey had learned the lessons of Thrift and Industry—that the man who looks ahead and prepares is the man who succeeds. And as a result of putting his time, energy and money to the best use, he has been able to organize and develop a company that is well known not only in Pittsburgh, but throughout the country.

In presenting this series of editorials by Pittsburgh's leading business and professional men, the Union Savings Bank wants to show you by actual example that, as Mr. Casey says, there is "no greater aid to anyone than to acquire the Savings Habit."

In money matters the important thing is to balance your income with the help of a good budget, be moderate, look ahead and save something—at least 10% of what you make. The Savings Department of the Union Savings Bank is always glad to help you

GREATEST DAY OF THIS THREE DAY EVENT!

NEWS FROM HOLLYWOOD AND BROADWAY; LOCAL AMUSEMENT NOTES

Expected Visitor to Keep Dolores Costello From Sister's Wedding

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.

BECAUSE the "little visitor" to the John Barrymores is expected most any time now, Mrs. Barrymore (Dolores Costello) has been compelled to forego the excitement of attending her sister when Helene Costello marries Lowell Sherman. The ceremony takes place tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., at the Beverly Wilshire in the presence of some 130 invited guests.

INSTEAD of Mrs. Barrymore, Miss Costello will be attended by Evelyn Brent.

Dolores Costello

This department, upon hearing about the change in plans, telephoned Miss Brent who admitted the truth of the rumor. The bride will wear white. Miss Brent will also wear white, a bouffant gown of considerable yardage.

Mr. Sherman will be attended by Harry D. Edwards. John Barrymore will give the bride away.

Following the ceremony, as already printed in this colyum, there will be a dinner dance.

STEPIN AS AUTHOR

STEPIN FETCHIT, the slow-talking chocolate ace of the cinema, has gone and jumped into the author class. Stepin confessed t'other day, between scenes for "The Big Fight," that he had been writing a book for months and would complete the job soon. He calls his effort "The Dancing Fool from Dixie." Negotiations are under way with a large publishing firm back East.

I asked Stepin what was all this about his getting so darn temperamental. He grinned and shook his head.

"Lawd, I ain't temperamental," he drawled.

"But what about Columbia chucking you out of a picture?"

"Well, that was just one of those things. They wanted me to say some lines and I didn't care but I thought they ought to be cleaned up a little. I didn't think I ought to be saying lines like that. So they called me in the office and told me to go to some other studio where I could give orders and I went along on home. Lawd, I don't know anything about this here being temperamental!"

COLLECTS OLD CLOTHES

THIS colyum, being hard-boiled, doesn't go in much for appeal stuff, but a letter from that grand old trouper of the screen, Florence Turner, merits space. Miss Turner has not enjoyed an easy time of it, herself, but, despite this, she is lending herself heart and soul to a philanthropic endeavor called THE FILM STARS THRIFT OUTLET. Her letter in part, follows:

The object of this business is to collect the discarded, but in good condition, wardrobe of all the film people, writers, actors, directors. Tis wardrobe, including apparel of both men and women—hats, shoes, anything—will in turn be re-sold to the small players and extras at a very reasonable cost. It will mean food and life to them to have the tools of their trade, without which work is not possible. It will fill the need of employment for many repairers, seamstresses, cleaners, etc., and all the proceeds will go to the Actors' Relief Fund. Address, 1614 Cahuenga avenue, Hollywood.

Good luck to Miss Turner and the M. P. Relief Fund.

Pictures and Music In Gayety Tonight

The Cine-Music Company, answering the demand for moving pictures with flesh and blood musicians, reopens in the Gayety tonight, renovated and redecorated. The opening program features "Hungarian Rhapsody" on the screen, accompanied by the Cine-Symphony Orchestra of 50, composed of many of Pittsburgh's finest artists. These men have at different times played in Sousa's Band, Pryor's Band, Damrosch's orchestra, Victor Herbert's orchestra and others. On the stage a jazz-symphony of 30 syncopaters will offer the best of that brand of music. An atmospheric prologue of real gypsies will be offered along with singers and other attractions. After the opening this evening the show will be presented continuously from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. The underline, to follow this attraction, is "Soul of France," called France's "Big Parade," with 20,000 French soldiers in action.

Comedienne

HERBERT'S OPERETTA AND STOCK PLAY NEXT WEEK

Fritzi Scheff, Viennese prima dona, returns to the Alvin next week in the second presentation of the Victor Herbert cycle of operettas, "Mlle. Modiste." Seats are now on sale at the box office. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

"Get 'em talking about you" is the slogan of the high powered press agent in "It Pays to Advertise," the farce comedy, which the George Sharp Players are rehearsing for presentation in the Pitt next week. "Be a hero or a villain, but don't be a dub," he goes on. "Why, give me the money, a little time, a few pages of advertising and I can sell you shares in the Atlantic Ocean."

The Nixon will be dark next week. On Monday, March 24, the Negro musical revue, "Hot Chocolates," will open a week's engagement in that theater.

Glee Club Will Sing At Wilson College

The University of Pittsburgh's Men's Glee Club will give a public concert tomorrow at Wilson College for Women, Chambersburg, Pa. A dance will follow.

Story of Singer's Life Reads Like Movie Plot

The life story of Lawrence Tibbett, leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and star of "The Rogue Song," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all technicolor musical romance, which comes to the Aldine next week, is as interesting as the plot of his first picture. Born in Bakersfield, Cal., Tibbett lost his father at the age of six, when the latter, a county sheriff, was shot to death in a fight with a gang of bandits.

Brought up by his mother, the boy attended high school in Los Angeles, appeared in several amateur theatricals and made his professional debut with a Shakespearian repertoire company. When the United States entered the war, Tibbett joined the Navy. Three days after his final discharge he married Miss Grace Mackey Smith, a former Los Angeles schoolmate.

Determined to become a concert singer after he had attracted some attention during an engagement with the California Opera Company, Tibbett came to New York. The singer's first great triumph was scored in the role of Ford in Verdi's "Falstaff."

Dramatic Time

Lois Wilson is a heroine caught by a foreboding fate in "The Furies," talk drama, which opens tomorrow in the Warner.

Lincoln Civic Club Sets Picnic Date

The Civic Club of the Lincoln avenue district has set June 4 for the annual picnic. It will be held in West View Park. O. C. Dixon is general chairman.

NIXON WILL CONTINUE UNDER ERLANGER BOOKINGS

Any speculation regarding the Nixon Theater that may have arisen through the death of A. L. Erlanger has been answered in information received from New York by Harry Brown, the theater's manager. In substance, it is that the Nixon will continue to be booked through the offices of A. L. Erlanger Amusement Enterprise, Inc., as hertofore.

At a meeting of the organization in New York Judge Mitchell L. Erlanger was elected president of the corporation and a board of managing directors was chosen, including Judge Erlanger, Charles B. Dillingham, Florenz Ziegfeld, Marcus Heiman and Saul J. Baron, who will govern and direct the future policy and business of the organization.

It was decided to maintain and carry out in full the expansion program formulated by the late A. L. Erlanger and his associates and allies, who include David Belasco, George C. Tyler, the Theater Guild, Charles B. Dillingham, Florenz Ziegfeld, George M. Cohan, Brook Pemberton, John Golden, Harry J. Powers, W. H. Rapley, A. R. Jones, Fred Nirdlinger, Frank R. Tate, Lee Boda, Sherman Brown, Robert Scott, Joe Toplitzky, J. J. Gottlob, Calvin Heilig, Henry Duffy, Horace Liveright, Lyle Andrews, Vincent Youmans, Otis Skinner, Eva LeGallienne's Civic Repertory Company, John Murray Anderson, E. A. Blatt, John Henry Mears, R. J. McLaughlin, the Stanley Company of America and others.

The booking department will be enlarge and broadened, under the direction of Augustus Pitou, the present manager of the department.

Dusolina Giannini Sings Here Tonight

Featured in Dusolina Giannini's program in Carnegie Hall tonight will be a group of Italian folk songs, arranged by Vittorio Giannini. English songs on La Giannini's program will include two by Frank LaForge, "I Came With a Song" and "Hills." "My Mother," by Phillip Marsden, and "When I Love You," by Martin Cole, are also in the English group.

The Choral

The Twentieth Century Club presented its choral in recital yesterday afternoon in the club rooms. Assisting was a very able young cellist, Tibor de Machula, a disciple of the Curtis Institute.

J. Fred Lissfelt

This musicale brought to mind most decidedly a fine policy of the club. Throughout this winter we have heard only young and new talent at the club's receptions, young artists who would otherwise have difficulty entering competition with more sensational musicians. In every instance these new stars have offered excellent music, and have always deserved most sincere acclaim. Again, the organization of a choral within the club, of members who are not trained singers, but want to sing for the joy of making music for themselves, is another indication of the gradual awakening of our nation to the better and real appreciation of music.

The songs offered were chosen from well-known choruses, or were arrangements of popular tunes. Mrs. Anna Laura Cree conducted and has done much with her volunteers. Mrs. John E. Nelson accompanied the club.

Tibor de Machula is a native of Budapest who has come to America for his musical education. Rather a compliment to us. He found his way comfortably through the slow cantilena of the Boccherini concerto, and then showed himself a player endowed with large tone and most elastic technique. He sang suavely in the Popper "Nocturne," lent great delicacy to the sophisticated Debussy "Minuet," and had the audience at his feet after the Schubert "Ave Maria." As encores he played "Apres un Reve" of Faure, and one of Popper's gayest studies "Vito." Earl Mitchell played his accompaniments.

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

NEW YORK, March 14.

THINGS I NEVER KNEW TILL NOW

THAT Queen Elizabeth ate with her fingers and could swear like an actor in a sex or war play.

That the reason animals go to sleep so quickly is that they have nothing to think about, lacking any ability at assimilation.

Walter Winchell

That a Pope once condemned the use of the table fork.

That there is a speakeasy on 47th St., the owner of which supports two brothers who are members of the British Parliament.

That the expression "making little ones out of big ones" originated in the chain-gangs in the South, most of the roads below the Mason-Dixon Line being fashioned by convict labor.

STILL POOR EATING

THAT restaurants here now give away mint-flavored toothpicks.

That there is a Maiden Lane jewelry shop that will look up and mount your family coat-of-arms or escutcheon. The funny part is that they guarantee satisfaction or return your $20, and they have rarely failed to find that you had that coat-of-arms.

That the Hebrew words "Gonof" and "Mazuma" have been raised to the status of "American Colloquialism," according to Webster's Collegiate.

That most of the speaks, restaurants, night clubs and property in Negro-populated Harlem are owned by Italians.

That the B. C. T. C. sign which hangs in the drivurself stations means "Be Courteous to Customers."

HEALTH OF FISH

That snails in a bowl of fish keep them healthy, nor do you need to change the water.

That Lucius Apuletus' book, "The Golden Ass," often sold as a suppressed book for more than $50, can be had at almost any tome-shop for $1 in one of those modern library series.

That you sleep heaviest during the first hours.

The poorest King is King Boris of Bulgaria, whose income is $30,000 per annum, who maintains his sister, Princess Eudoxia, who is said to be content with one new dress each year.

That you can have a policeman reprimanded for cussing at you in this town of ours, where it is against the law to swear.

TUNED OUT OF TUNE

THAT a tuned piano is actually out of tune and that Bach, the composer, was the discoverer of this, the modern way of tuning.

That when whiskey is "green" it is the color of water.

That the disputed theory of Evolution can be seen on the sides of The Grand Canyon, the one in Colorado, not in Manhattan.

That "pyjamas" comes from a Hindustan word meaning leg-covering.

That the highest note the ear can hear is the cricket's chirp.

That the censors time each and every movie kiss to be certain that it does not last too long.

That there is a new way of getting drunk. By standing in front of a mirror breathing deeply—often and quickly.

SCOTS, TAKE NOTICE

THAT they tip trolley conductors on Sundays in Holland.

That Marjorie C. Diven, whose poem appears in Rudy Vallee's book, is now his personal secretary. She wrote the verse a year ago, which started the friendship and "She Got the Job."

That barber shops in Wall street feature sun-ray treatments at the rate of 12 per hour.

That the states rights they are fighting about now form a controversy that dates back to the Revolution.

That you can age liquor by sending it on a sea voyage.

That there is an ancient ale tavern in the Astor Place sector where every third one is "on the house."

BASEBALL ECHO

THAT men who would wear white sox are not to be trusted.

That it was the late A. L. Erlanger who so shrewdly epigramed: "If you can make two friends between Forty-second and Fifty-ninth streets on Broadway in a lifetime, then consider yourself a huge success."

That a bore on Broadway is now known as "a stage-wait."

That one of the Times Square-farers has decided to quit taking opium on the ground that not only is it a waste of time, but extravagant, and that you can go just as crazy from women.

That the ink on our currency never dries. (That's another one on which you can win bets and tell spurious money.)

And that you can be fined for kissing a gal in a taxi!

(Copyright, 1930, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Again?

The unenlightened woman who still suffers every month, receives little sympathy when she could so easily end those pains with Midol. This merciful medicine is not a narcotic, you know. Nor does it interfere in the slightest with the periodic process peculiar to feminine nature. It does banish the pain—in five to seven minutes. Because it acts directly on organs affected. If taken ahead of time, you may avoid a single uncomfortable moment. Try to realize what a truly wonderful discovery this is; it has made at least one form of suffering quite needless. When every drugstore has these harmless tablets isn't it foolish to be a martyr? Midol costs fifty cents, in metal case.*

* Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

PITCHER, DUPED ACCUSES PAIR

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 14.—(AP.)—A story of how he ventured into the field of high pressure finance and pitched himself "into a hole" was related on the witness stand by Emil Levsen, former mound ace of the Cleveland American baseball team.

Levsen was the complaining witness against George E. Huckins, who, with his father, Elmer Huckins, is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses through operations of a mysterious tobacco interest which the defendants are alleged to have told investors yielded dividends of 26 to 52 per cent. Several million dollars were invested in the project by residents of the Middle West, State investigators said.

Levsen testified he invested $300 in the project, but thus far had received no dividends. Neither had he been able to retrieve the principal. The witness said he was told the concern, which sold cigars known to the trade as "seconds," needed a staff of only three employes and did a business of more than $30,000,000.

Mount Pleasant Seeks Broadcast

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP.)—Seven residents of Mount Pleasant, Westmoreland County, Pa., yesterday urged before the Federal Radio Commission that a license to broadcast be issued them.

The delegation was headed by Russell B. Ross, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and consisted of Jay C. Miller, C. W. Lemmon, Dr. A. D. Miller, Michael Rega, Samuel P. Stevenson and S. J. Shefsick.

Explorer Wills Estate to Friend

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP.)—The entire estate of Prince Frits Vilhelm Holm, Danish explorer and author, is bequeathed to a friend, Mrs. Marie Weldon Creveling, New York newspaper woman, under the terms of his will filed here. Prince Vilhelm Holm, who died Sunday at the Hotel St. Regis, directs that his body be cremated and the ashes scattered on the ocean. He directs also that there be no funeral ceremony or religious exercises.

Ministers Open Campaign on Auto Sheiks

ROCHESTER, Pa., March 14.—Action toward ridding the community of automobile sheiks and making the streets safer for young women, was taken at a meeting of the Rochester Ministerial Association.

Among a number of prominent young women recently approached by "curb motor sheiks" and invited to take a ride, was a minister's daughter, and another was a minister's wife. A resolution regarding cleaner moving pictures was adopted by the association.

BRIDGE TO STAY AS LANDMARK

BEDFORD, Pa., March 14.—While a new bridge is to be built over the Raystown branch of the Juniata River at Juniata Crossings, near here, replacing one of the oldest bridges in Pennsylvania, the old covered bridge is not to be disturbed and will be permitted to remain as a historic curiosity.

Thomas Sheehan, of Hagerstown, Md., was the low bidder on the new bridge, with $271,546. The new structure will be placed a short distance away.

The old bridge—the west half of which is double and the east half single—is built of timber, with pins holding the joints together. It was erected in 1818 to replace an old chain suspension bridge. It has remained intact, except once when a portion was dislodged by an ice gorge and was rebuilt with the original timber.

For some years engineers have wondered why it did not collapse.

It was the only bridge in the county that remained standing in the 1889 flood.

Missing Letter Exposes Forgery

BUTLER, Pa., March 13.—(AP.)—Omission of the letter "G" from the name of H. H. Bolinger of Butler as written on a check presented at a bank, resulted in the arrest of two boys, Clair Erwin and his brother, George. They were charged with forgery and held for court.

COMPANY 'RED' QUIZ UPHELD

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP.)—Supreme Court Justice Mitchell May ruled in Brooklyn Supreme Court that employes are justified in refusing to re-engage workmen who decline to say whether they are Communists.

He made the ruling in granting an injunction to Schwartz and Benjamin, shoe manufacturers. The injunction restrains the Independent Shoe Workers' Union from picketing, threatening, or otherwise interfering with the company's business.

Affidavits submitted by officers of the company said the trouble started when an employe took a day off without permission and was discharged. When the firm refused to re-employ him, the affidavits said, the other 90 employes went on strike.

The company contended the strike violated a contract with the Union and the latter tried to send the men back to work. The company, however, refused to re-employ them unless they answered whether they were Communists. They refused to answer.

Justice May said the refusal would seem to indicate that either they were Communists or were influenced in their relationship to the Union by the Communists."

Son, Friend Held Over Liquor Raid

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 14.—Police raided the home of Steve Besjak in Nicholson Township and confiscated a still and a quantity of liquor. The officers took his son, Steve, Jr., and Nick Balbos, a friend.

Way to Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?

Miner Convicted In 'Live Wire' Killing

COSHOCTON, O., March 14.—(AP.)—Felix Marlatt, 31, Warwick miner, was convicted of manslaughter by a jury last night in connection with the death of Charles Newell, 27, last November.

Newell was electrocuted when he came in contact with wire on a gate near a mine at Warwick, and the prosecution contended that Marlatt deliberately wired the gate. It also was claimed that the two men were involved in a feud.

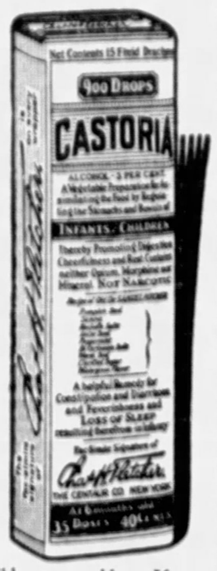
The verdict carries a sentence of one to 20 years. He will probably be sentenced next week.

Directors Named By Farmer Group

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 14.—Directors were elected when 250 farmers gathered here yesterday for the fourteenth annual meeting of the Fayette County Agricultural Association.

Those elected were: M. M. Burchinal, D. S. Cottom, Albert Gaddis, G. M. Griffin, J. W. Kennedy, John S. Langley, O. A. Luce, Mrs. Mary E. Dunn and Mrs. Thomas Higinbotham.

Children CRY for it



It may be the little stomach; it may be the bowels are sluggish. No matter what coats a child's tongue, its a safe and sensible precaution to give a few drops of Castoria. This gentle regulation of the little system soon sets things to rights. A pure vegetable preparation that can't harm a wee infant, but brings quick comfort—even when it is colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance.

And don't forsake Castoria as the child grows older. If you want to raise boys and girls with strong systems that will ward off constipation, stick to good old Castoria; and give nothing stronger when there's any irregularity except on the advice of a doctor. Castoria is sold in every drugstore, and the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Why you turn pale with Fear or Horror!

Yesterday, while driving the car it swerved dangerously, a startling surprise—sudden fright—the blood left your face and you turned deathly pale: Today, an unexpected and embarrassing question and you blushed furiously! Ever wonder why your face should be pale one instant and pink or flushed at another? Is that one of Nature's mistakes? Until recently the average scientist knew more about Mars than he did about the actions of the blood capillaries in the human face. Now you can read the complete answer in "Why You Turn Pale with Fear or Horror"—Next Sunday in The American Weekly.

The Truth About the Famous Ghost of Minsden

Near the quaint old town of Hitchin, in England, stand the ruins of Minsden Chapel. The natives whisper, "haunted." Recently a photograph was taken of the ruins. When the plate was developed the strange, robed figure of a man was noticed. Was it the ghost? Newspapers published it with the statement that the figure was the photograph of a genuine phantom nun. Read the story of this and other spectral appearances—next Sunday in The American Weekly.

Is Grand Opera Going Out of Fashion?

Do you agree with Madam Galli-Curci? She points out that there are no worth-while new operas—states that the public is tired of the same list of old ones repeated again and again with their childish plots and manifest unrealities and absurdities. Read what she has to say about it—about her predictions—you will be interested—Next Sunday, in The American Weekly.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

JOHN L. RODRIGUES and his Neville Male Chorus will entertain on WCAE tonight at 9:30. Twenty-eight of the city's best voices will blend in the presentation of the "Hunting Song" from "Robin Hood," "The Rosary," "Slav Lullaby," "Cavalier Song," "Pale Moon" and other choral favorites.

Welcome Lewis, the California crooner, will return to the radio over KDKA at 7:15 as guest of the Wallace Silversmiths, a new feature.

The Decision for Freedom, KDKA at 8, will bring us a joyful repertoire in the sketch depicting "The Landing of the Pilgrims." Among other selections we will have Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory," Meyerbeer's "Coronation March" and "America the Beautiful."

Welcome Lewis

"Charley" is a mystery character in the Quaker State program which will make its debut from WJAS at 10. David Mendoza will lead the orchestra and the Quaker State Four will harmonize on popular tunes.

Franz Lehar's "The Count of Luxembourg" contains the waltz melody, "Love, Goodbye," which Jessica Dragonette will interpret for Cities Service on WCAE at 8.

"Enclosed is a self-stamped and addressed envelope," said a communication received at WCAE yesterday.

A difference in studio acoustics was noticed last night in the broadcast of the Victor Hour direct from the recording rooms at Camden, N. J. Records were made of the broadcast. A somber stillness pervaded the program.

It just proved that radio studios and recording studios are really different, after all.

In this respect how many people know that the NBC has a direct line into the recording laboratories for the transcription of important broadcasts?

* * *

The frequency characteristic of a short wave transatlantic radiotelephone channel will be discussed by R. K. Potter at the meeting of Radio Engineers in the Fort Pitt Hotel tonight.

BOOM!

Three fuses were blown out by the cameraman last night before he succeeded in getting a flashlight picture of the Singing School cast at WCAE. "It wasn't the people, it was the characters," said Arthur Brown, operator.

George Fourth of England.

In England in the latter part of the eighteenth century, the Prince of Wales, later George the Fourth, fell in love with a beautiful widow, Maria Fitzherbert, and threatened to kill himself because she rejected his proposal of marriage. She was told that he had stabbed himself and would never recover if she did not marry him; she promised to do so and then discovered that his suicide had been a clever ruse. She indignantly left London, keeping her destination secret. She returned a year later and married the Prince of Wales with only two witnesses, and became the morganatic wife of an English king.

U. S. LINES PLAN BIGGEST SHIPS

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Brown announced the award of an ocean mail contract to the United States Lines, calling for the construction of two vessels which will be the peers of any ship now sailing the high seas under the flag of any nation.

The contract for carrying the mails from New York to Southampton stipulates that the two new vessels to be constructed by the company, which now operates the fleet led by the Leviathan, shall cost not less than $60,000,000. They will equal, if not exceed, both in tonnage and speed, the Postoffice Department said, any vessels now operating in the trans-oceanic service.

Awards previously made by the Postmaster General call for the expenditure of $38,500,000. With yesterday's contract, a total of $98,500,800 will be expended under government contracts within the next few years, using American labor and American material in American shipyards.

The United States Lines was the only bidder on the Southampton route when bids were opened at the department on January 17.

UKRAINE SCANS CHURCH WAR

KHAROV, March 14.—(AP.)—The central executive committee of the Ukrainian Republic has instructed the state prosecutor to investigate all cases in which local officials and closed churches, mosques and synagogues without the consent of the people.

He was told to punish those found guilty. The investigation was ordered because the executive committee learned that in some instances village officials had closed the churches before getting the approval of the local worshipers and of the central authorities.

Embers From Pipe Start Fire in Home

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 14.—Ashes knocked from a pipe into a pile of rags resulted in a fire which caused damage to the home of John Rahan at Hostetter. The fire broke out when the family was sleeping.

When you lose your purse call Grant 5400 and tell the world about it. Most people are genuinely interested in returning lost articles to their rightful owner and they all read the Classified Ads.

Fox Hunt Turns Into Groundhog Chase

POTTSTOWN, Pa., March 14.—(AP.)—A fox chase held in Northern Chester County by the Belmont Club, turned out to be a successful groundhog hunt.

The pack of 75 hounds seemed to get more enjoyment in driving groundhogs into their holes than in chasing the fox. Three groundhogs were killed during the afternoon.

After four hours, the hounds finally rounded up their original quarry.

ATHEIST FETES SET IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, March 14.—(AP.)—Huge anti-religious carnivals and demonstrations will be held in Moscow and other big Russian cities on April 19, the first day of Easter in Russia, under the joint direction of the Soviet Trade Unions and the Militant Atheist Society, the League of the Godless.

Throughout the Easter holidays excursions of workers, students and children in great numbers will be held for visits to anti-religious museums and the new collective farms.

Lectures, performances and concerts, in a campaign against the gods of all faiths, are to be given in clubs, Red Army barracks, students' dormitories and similar places throughout the country.

The Central Trade Union authorities have instructed their provincial organization to participate actively in the recruiting of new members for the League of the Godless. The Moscow region alone is expected to furnish 100,000 new atheists during the Easter campaign.

Physician Stricken, Taken to Hospital

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 14.—Dr. R. W. Norris, Waynesburg physician, was removed to the hospital following an attack of heart trouble. Norris became afflicted while making a professional call. He rallied, but later suffered a relapse.

Death of Son Fatal to Woman

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 14.—Shock resulting from the death of a son two weeks ago, was given as the cause of the death of Mrs. Allena Blackledge, 84, of Jefferson. She did not become ill until the death of a son, Levi Blackledge, recently.

FURNACE FIRED AT MONESSEN

MONESSEN, Pa., March 14.—Blast furnace No. 1 was blown in yesterday at the Monessen plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, after a five months shutdown for repairs.

Increased orders necessitated hastening the resumption. A total of 100 men will go back to work.

Furnace No. 2 has been in constant operation since last fall and will continue.

TOWN HALL INACTION COSTLY TO CITY

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM DFARR

WHEN Bob Taylor, the newspaperman, passes on (he is already 27) his tombstone should read: "He was really Sinclair Lewis." Taylor recently wrote a paragraph which was inserted in a piece written for the Nation by his friend Lewis and published under Lewis' name. For his efforts the Nation sent Taylor a check for 30 (thirty) cents, later apologetically added $1.70.

A reporter assigned to cover an important trial here recently reached the courtroom at 11 o'clock, 90 minutes late. This would have been all right if, as he took his seat at the press table, he hadn't seen glaring down at him from the witness box his city editor, an unexpected witness.

JUDGE FRANK P. PATTERSON, who presided at the Forney trial, seems to enjoy his work more than any other jurist we have ever seen. The mantle of dignity (we coined that one) commonly associated with the bench is in his case lacking. He always maintains an interest in the proceedings, he gives his rulings clearly in understandable terms and he treats counsel politely.

Tona E. Focht, boss of a crew of salesmen, discovered that most of them reported for the daily morning conference without having eaten breakfast. Wise, Mr. Focht knew that one isn't one's self until one has had coffee, so now breakfast is served at the morning meetings. Mr. Focht knew this because he himself had been hurrying to work without breakfast.

ANOTHER salesman is Wally Logan, of East Pittsburgh. He sold a woman a vacuum cleaner. When he returned to his office there was a 'phone call from her; hubby had come home and said no. Logan went back to see husband, husband was out, Logan resold the wife. When he returned to his office she phoned: husband had returned and said no. Logan quit.

* * *

We congratulate Mr. Robert Watson, of Dormont. He says: "I am a good bridge player." Nine out of 10 good bridge players attempt modesty or flat misstatement when asked that question. And this would be a better paragraph if we could whisper to you that, as a matter of fact, Mr. Watson isn't such a good bridge player.

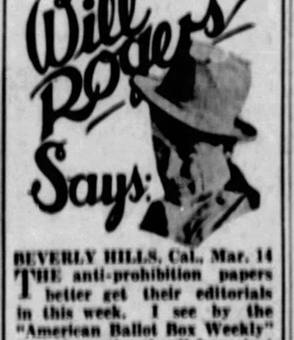
WILMER M. JACOBY, the bridge partner of William Wyman and William Mossman, can claim fame on two points: He has never heard Amos 'n' Andy, never seen "Abie's Irish Rose."

Alderman Fights Precinct Changes

Plans of O. T. Taylor, representative of the forces headed by Ward Chairman Roy D. Schooley, to reduce the 26 voting precincts of the Eighth Ward to half that number, were opposed by Alderman John F. Kenna at a meeting in the Friendship School last night. Under the proposed redistricting plan the present Twenty-third precinct would become the Third. It would be located in a place near railroad tracks, inaccessible to many of the voters of the district, he said.



BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Mar. 14

THE anti-prohibition papers better get their editorials in this week. I see by the "American Ballot Box Weekly" that the national poll from just a few states shows the "repeal of the amendment" leads by 38 thousand. Thirty-one thousand of this is due to New York City, and the other to Hoboken, N. J., and Chicago. But, boy, wait till the returns from America start coming in.

YOURS,
WILL.

WHITE HOUSE GANG

Officer Pursues Gang for Breaking Window

Theodore Roosevelt, when President of the United States, started the adventurous, rollicking, joyous career of the White House Gang by sending his youngest son, Quentin, to the Force Public School in Washington. Here the gang was recruited. The accredited members are Charles (Taffy) Taft, "Brom" Seeley, Dick (Sailor) Chew, Edward (Slats) Stead, also called "Bedstead," Walker White, "T. R.," the most active member of the gang; Quentin, the leader, and Earle Looker, the author of this story.

Each day, after school, the gang went into a huddle to confound all rules of deportment in high places, mingle in the lives of presidents and policemen, win victories, taste honor, suffer punishments and engage in escapades which were swept along the wires to national publicity. Many exploits of the gang, however, either remain unknown or were known only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Some there were securely hidden even from them.

CHAPTER IX.

SCHOOLS have made great strides during the last 20 years, although formal education is the tardiest and most reluctant movement to take heed of knowledge acquired meanwhile by the rest of the world. In the days I am describing, school boards were groping like children into various half-understood experiments. One of these was in geography. The system was to suddenly split up the dead subject into parts, and allot special countries to various children. Instantly, the whole subject came to life, as, for a while, we became intensely interested specialists.

Q and I were presented with the whole of Alaska. We burrowed into the subject with the determination of young bookworms, resolved to eat our way clear through and out at the other side. The research was magnificent. With the impetuosity habitual to him, TR threw himself into it, as assiduously as if he were preparing a Presidential Message. Not that he took the matter out of our hands; on the contrary, the President turned aside merely to assume direction of the enterprise, an element which was sadly lacking.

But what a direction! "What of coal and iron?" he would ask us. "And have you thought about forests? Do you know there are mo-squi-toes up there, and the most gor-geous spring flowers? Find out their names and get pictures of them, and do not forget the birds and beasts," he added, "and what men are doing now—"

Various governmental bureaus of those days may possibly recall the abrupt appearances of a small, demanding young Roosevelt, accompanied by his pop-eyed overly-serious assistant, Look, carrying bulging portfolios and sharpened pencils; conducting investigations; cross-examining department heads; getting copies of official pamphlets; taking voluminous notes on executive office stationery; trying to correlate half-a-dozen agencies at once; "co-operating" with every known expert; winnowing the smart and facetious answers from the true, serious and informative.

The Lecture
Quetin Is Flustered When Before Class

The resultant lecture before the school was delivered by Q, for the simple reason that I was in no way vocal and Q was—fluently so. That is to say, he had been, until the applause which had greeted his unrolling of the map of Alaska, subsided. Then, to his horror and my acute suffering, he found himself absolutely speechless! He turned purple; swallowed a number of times, painfully, and in rapid succession; clutched at his collar, like a grown man about to have some sort of a fit; stared, round-eyed and appealingly, to me.

I whispered the opening sentence from our pile of notes, "Alaska is really a great big country—all by itself—"

"Alaska," Q said rushingly, "is really all by itself—all alone as it were—sort of jut-jutting off into the sea as you see, sea all on one side, and, in fact, on the top, as you see by the map here, colored just like the rest of the U. S. to which it belongs by purchase . . . Undoubtedly . . ."

Disappointed
Does Not Get Applause He Expected

As he went along, Q began to perspire freely and to gesticulate wildly, and still more wildly, with his hands, which he quickly hid behind his back, every time he became recurrently conscious of them. Still, I saw, from the strained look on the faces of the class, that all this information we had amassed, had begun to trickle out . . . As a first appearance on a public platform Q's was really a very creditable performance, that is, from the point of view of information, if not from that of efficient delivery.

Q had so much to say, that at a standard rate of speech, comprehensible to average ears and intelligence, it was impossible to say it all; so he disregarded them, and concentrated upon the small friendly group of the Gang, to whom he poured out his information at a rate, with which none of the executive stenographers could possibly have coped.

Abruptly he came to his climax, declaimed it, and stopped. He was completely and absolutely finished. He waited for the tumultuous applause which he and I had imagined would instantly be forthcoming. There was not a sound. Q turned purple again, and waited and waited. . . .

The class stirred uneasily in its seat, becoming sensitive to that terrible, blank moment—sensing it as one of those moments when one suddenly found he had forgotten everything he ever knew! The silence lengthened. . . .

"Well," Q said finally, sharply catching his breath, "that's ab-so-lute-ly everything about Alaska; you're lucky to have heard it. My father and the whole Govern-ment have spent endless time upon it, just for you, and they know. You bet!"

Regular Boy
Quentin Always Looked For Something to Happen

Whereupon, erect and stiff-legged he walked back to his desk, and sat down. Then the applause broke—acceptably, soothingly. We had not entirely failed.

"I don't care what anybody thinks," remarked Q, "We know it was good, and you deserve a third of the credit——"

Despite his lofty impulses, Quentin was, of course, absolute boy, hoping that at every street corner something might be induced to happen. I have often walked about the streets of Washington—those wide, tree-bordered avenues—with much the same emotion as that with which a veteran, bearing the scars and ribbons of many engagements, views the terrain of his chief encounters. There is scarcely a block, between the White House and the Force School, and between the school and the homes of members of the Gang, but have for me poignant or hilarious memories.

At the corner of Connecticut avenue and N street, I touched the high, iron railing (now gone) about the cramped garden plot of the British Embassy, and bowed to the gilded Lion

CONVENTIONS LOST BY DELAY

Chamber of Commerce Heads Urge Commissioners to Act; Join Rate Fight

The Allegheny County Commissioners are urged to take action immediately in selecting a site and starting construction on the Town Hall in resolutions adopted at a meeting of the directors of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce yesterday. President James Rae presided at the meeting and the motion was carried unanimously.

The motion was made after Harry Neely, chairman of the chamber committee on conventions, had stated that the city is losing large convention groups by the delay in construction of the Town Hall. After hearing from Mr. Neely, Henry Tranter presented the resolution.

JOIN RATE FIGHT

The board also decided to enter into the fight of Pittsburgh business interests against the Interstate Commerce Commission's proposal to increase the freight rates on manufactured iron and steel products within the Pittsburgh district. The Chamber will wage a battle for the local producers and consumers of iron and steel articles on the ground that the new rate schedule, which is to go into effect May 20, is inimical to the business and industrial interests of this territory, and places local concerns at a disadvantage with outside competitors.

Harry Dangerfield, chairman of the Chamber's Better Traffic Comittee, presented the motion asking for the support of the chamber in the rate fight. The board also went on record with an action urging legislators in Washington to immediate enactment of a tariff law. In making this step the local body joined forces with many other similar organizations throughout the country in the fight for a protective tariff for local business.

BURCHFIELD CHOSEN

A. H. Burchfield, president of the Joseph Horne Company was elected a director, filling the vacancy caused by the death two months ago of Joseph B. Shea.

The directors granted permission for the manufacturers in the chamber to arrange a series of conferences, to be attended by executives of leading manufacturing interests of the district, where problems pertaining to legislation, personal and other subjects, might be discussed.

MAN SERIOUSLY INJURED IN FIRE

John Caveney, 38, of 176 Annabelle street, Mt. Washington, an employe of the C. R. Moore Lithographing Company, at 1315 West Liberty avenue, today was reported in a serious condition in the South Side Hospital, a result of a fire in the firm's basement yesterday morning.

Hours after the flames had been extinguished, Caveney was found unconscious in a stock room. On the way to the hospital he regained consciousness, but became hysterical and was bound hand and foot when he reached the emergency room of the hospital.

Caveney was believed to have been affected by fumes from burning photographic materials which resulted in eight other employes being sent to the hospital for treatment, police said.

The flames, which were confined to the basement, routed 85 employes and did damage estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000, a company official said.

PAIR HOLDS UP LUNCH STAND

County detectives today were searching for two bandits, each aged about 40, who last night held up the Bud and Wind barbecue in the Washington road, near Mt. Lebanon, and escaped with the contents of a cash register.

They compelled W. A. Smoot, a clerk, to lie on the floor while they looted the cash box. Smoot notified Mt. Lebanon police, but was unable to state how much was stolen. The day's receipts had been removed before the men staged the holdup, police said.

Vacant Dwelling Destroyed by Fire

A vacant two-story frame dwelling at 2356 Bedford avenue was destroyed by fire of an undetermined origin early today. A pedestrian who discovered the flames sounded an alarm. The damage was estimated at $3,000.

Ballot Transfer Order by Court

On petition of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, investigating charges of irregularities at the September primary last lodged by the special recount board, Sheriff Robert S. Cain was ordered to transfer 14 additional ballot boxes by Judge James R. Macfarlane in Common Pleas Court. These districts are involved: Thirty-second District of the Fifth Ward; Ninth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Fourteenth districts of the Twelfth Ward; Third, Eighth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twenty-first and Twenty-second districts of the Fourteenth Ward, and Seventh, Eighth and Ninth districts of the Nineteenth Ward.

ASKS BAR VOTE ON VACANCY

A referendum among the lawyers of Allegheny County for the expression of a choice of the bar to fill the vacancy on the Common Pleas bench caused by the death of Judge Richard W. Martin will be proposed at the meeting today of the Allegheny County Bar Association, Attorney William B. McFall, chairman of the executive committee, stated yesterday that a resolution will be presented by that committee proposing the canvass.

The results of the referendum, if ratified by the association, will be given Gov. John S. Fisher, who is to fill the vacancy. Plans for the referendum are similar to those conducted previously when vacancies on the bench occurred.

Sues for $50,000 Over Loss of Teeth

Charles August, of Freedom, asked $50,000 damages from the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company for the loss of his teeth and other injuries in an automobile collision, by a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. A driver for the Standard company operated its truck in such a negligent manner as to collide with a car in which August was riding, and with a truck of the Pittsburgh-East Liverpool express on Duss avenue, Ambridge, December 31 last, the suit alleged.

Church Bars Boulevard, Will Erect New One

A new edifice will be erected by the congregation of All Saints Episcopal Church, whose present building in California avenue, North Side, will be torn down to make way for the Ohio River boulevard, according to the Rev. Walter J. Marshfield, rector.

The new building will be in the same vicinity, Mr. Marshfield indicated, but the exact location cannot be disclosed as yet.

Final services in the present church will be held April 27, the Sunday following Easter. The building was dedicated in 1906 by the late Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead. The congregation was established in 1889. D. B. Oliver is senior warden and Charles S. Shoemaker, junior warden.

Joan Lowell Tells Pitt Men of Experiences

Joan Lowell, sailor, author, actress, famed for her adventurous life, gave sage advice, spiced with humor, to Pitt students at a special student assembly in Memorial Hall today.

"Twenty-two Ways to Make a Living, All of Them Hard," was the subject of her address. She told of her experiences in trying the 22 ways.

Answering the inevitable question, "Is the 'Cradle of the Deep' true?" Miss Lowell said it was 80 per cent true. She admitted she touched up the story, which is the account of her experiences on a sailing ship, a bit in places to make it more colorful.

Miss Lowell is concluding a lecture tour. She is leaving Pittsburgh this evening for her farm, "Joan's Ark," on the Delaware River, near Philadelphia, where she will finish her next book, "Kicked Out of the Cradle."

CHINESE FIGHTS INTRUDER, WOMAN HIT BY BULLET

GUN WIELDER HELD AFTER HEARING

Shooting Takes Place In Apartment Struggle; Victim Taken to Hospital

A struggle with a Negro intruder by a Chinese waiter in a second-story apartment at 3640 Penn avenue, early today, resulted in the wounding of Mrs. Anna Chapski, 51, of that address, when a shot fired at the intruder by the Chinese, according to police, went wild.

Jong Chock, 32, Chinese, of 4119 Butler street, had a hearing in Police Court today, and was ordered held to await the outcome of the woman's injury. A revolver found by police on his person was to be used in a Tong war, he said. Mrs. Chapski is in West Penn Hospital.

Nightly, Chock told police, he escorted Miss Betty Stack, 18, who is employed at the Mayflower Chinese-American restaurant, at 4119 Butler street, to her home. When he walked home with her early today he told police, Miss Stack walked to the top of an outside flight of steps. Suddenly she screamed. Chock ran up, discovered a Negro hiding under a bed, and fired a shot through an open window at the man.

The shot went wild, he related, crashed through a door and struck Mrs. Chapski, who was in bed in another room.

After a short struggle with the Negro both he and Chock rolled down the steps, still fighting, but the intruder escaped. Five more shots were fired as the man fled down an alley.

WOMAN SLAYER SENTENCED

Found guilty of murder in the second degree today for the death of her common-law mate, Elizabeth Heffner, 30, was sentenced to serve from 10 to 20 years by visiting Judge Charles M. Culver.

The woman testified this morning that she killed James Forsythe, 36, while temporarily insane. She said she and Forsythe had attended a party December 9, last, where Forsythe introduced her as Miss Heffner.

When the couple returned to their home, 551 Lowell street, an argument arose over the introduction and the Heffner woman stabbed Forsythe with an ice pick while he lay in bed. Then, according to testimony, she slit his throat with a razor.

P. R. R. RELIEF HERE REACHES $1,500,000

Organization Maintained By Monthly Payments; Total Benefits $5,026,500

More than $1,500,000 was paid in benefits to members of the voluntary relief department of the Pennsylvania Railroad or their families of the Pittsburgh district during 1929, E. W. Smith, vice president, announced today.

The total benefits paid during the past year were $5,026,500. Of this amount nearly $2,000,000 was disbursed for death benefits, and $2,665,000 or more for sickness and disability, and $379,379 in superannuation allowances, the last to increase pensions of retired employes.

The organization is maintained by monthly payments, but the company bears the cost of operating the staff of 117 physicians who devote their time to employes requiring treatment.

WIFE AWARDED JOINT CASH

A bank account of $12,357, derived by William J. Milligan, of the North Side, from a verdict of damages for personal injuries to him in Atlantic City, N. J., in June, 1927, was held to be a joint account with his wife, Mrs. Irene Milligan, of Sampson street, North Side, now separated from him, according to a decision by Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas Court.

The award had been deposited in two banks; under the names of both in one of the banks. They separated in July, 1928, after 13 years of married life. Milligan claimed the money, withdrawing sums of $2,000 and $3,000, and Mrs. Milligan filed a bill in equity. Judge Gray upheld her contention that both had worked together and assisted each other in business enterprises, with their custom to hold property jointly.

Milligan was ordered to redeposit the amounts withdrawn and enjoined from making further withdrawals from the accounts, to be held for the use of both.

PITT TEST BELL MYSTIFIES

Students of the University of Pittsburgh who pass by the Thaw Hall on their way to classes may be mystified at the incessant ringing of an unseen bell. The more conscientious may even break into a run, fearing that the bell is ringing for another class.

The bell is only part of an instrument devised to aid physics students measure the speed of sound. The students under the direction of C. H. Blackwood, professor of physics, station themselves at various points in Bayard street and from those positions measure the time taken to hear the bell after a flash of light is seen and from these figures compute the velocity of sound.

Members of the class, totaling 400, compete with each other to determine who is the most accurate in solving the problem. Dr. Blackwood has told them that sound travels at the rate of 1,100 feet a second; while light zips along at 186,000 miles per second. The experiment has done much to convince them of the fact.

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: In the event of such a strike as that which has paralyzed taxicab service for the past two months, should there be provision for some sort of municipally operated non-profit emergency service?

WILLIAM SNYDER, North Side, proprietor: "In my opinion there should be some emergency service. We must remember that the general public has little or nothing to do with the taxi strike but is to suffer when the strike breaks. It would not be an imposition to ask the city government to operate cabs in such cases.

Wm. Snyder

IDA SCHWARTZ, Chenley Heights, stenographer: "Yes, that sort of provision should be in effect. Too many people are affected by such a strike to let the problem slide along until something is done. I doubt, though, that our city fathers would interest themselves in such a provision. They're too cautious."

Miss Schwartz

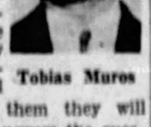
SAMUEL E. AMDUR, East End, jeweler: "Such a provision would certainly be of benefit and may also go a long way towards a settlement of the strike. If the drivers and operators found that the city could and would open an emergency service they would soon come to terms. It is a sad plight when a few obstinate people can paralyze such service."

S. E. Amdur

ALBERT SESTO, Overbrook, barber: "I'm in favor of a municipally operated non-profit emergency service. It is my opinion that our city governments are too careful in keeping out of such a mess as we now have. If the people of authority would show some interest in a strike it would not continue for any time.

Albert Sesto

TOBIAS MUROS, Oakland, proprietor: "When any group of workers or owners know that they can tie up an industry or public utility they will be prone to carry a chip on their shoulder and quit work at almost any provocation. If, on the other hand, they know the industry or utility will go on without them they will go slowly. This answers the question."



Tobias Muros

ROSE JACOBS, North Side, manicurist: "Of course, I want to be fair to the striking cab drivers, but others should be considered, too. Why should everybody be made suffer just because two factions happen to disagree? A municipally operated emergency service would not be as good as the regular kind but it would be better than nothing."

JOSEPH ROFFO

2-FACED VEST PERFECTED

Joseph Roffo, a designer of men's clothes for the ritzy set of the city, has a revolutionary idea in the matter of vests.

It's reversible—on one side single-breasted and the other double-breasted. The particular one he has made goes with a club suit—used at morning weddings, dinner and many other social events.

He expects it will be a very popular innovation, since garment men who have visited his place in the Grogan Building—men from other cities—are raving about it.

He got the idea trying to help out a college youth who wanted two vests but couldn't afford two, and his friends in the clothes business urged him to make some.

"Men will like the idea," he says, "because men like innovations in clothes as much as women, only they don't always admit it. Even in evening clothes, when a big party is on, fellows who can't afford it get new evening suits."

Six Forced to Flee As House Burns

Six persons were forced from their home when flames swept a two-story frame residence at 233 Wilkins avenue, Chalfant, late yesterday. The house is occupied by Albert Balash, a Chalfont policeman; his wife, mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pika, and his two step-sisters, Pauline and Rose Pika, aged 15 and 9, respectively. Assistant Fire Chief Lawrence Grosshart, of Chalfont, estimated the damage at $4,000.

Ladies of G. A. R. Banquet Hear Plans to Meet Peak Of Demand for Hospitals

There would be no more war if women eligible for membership in soldier auxiliary organizations would accept the responsibility of their rights as voters, James F. Malone, former president of Council, told Maj. Daniel C. Boggs, Circle 196, Ladies of the G. A. R. at their annual banquet in Webster Hall last night.

"Women should share the responsibility of government with the men, and should never hesitate to assert themselves in what they deem a righteous cause," he declared.

Plans for extension of hospital facilities to meet the peak rush by 1947 were explained by Dr. Rolf Brown, superintendent of the United States Veterans' Hospital at Aspinwall. Col. Samuel Evans, 87, of 4716 Ellsworth avenue, keeper of Memorial Hall, was the honor guest.

Road and bridge projects under construction by the county, totaling several hundred thousands of dollars, are well on the way to completion, the county commissioners have announced.

Among these are:

Saw Mill Run boulevard between Pittsburgh and Overbrook Borough, costing $848,541, more than 75 per cent completed.

Moss Side boulevard, contract No. 2, extending from Wilmerding and Trafford City road to the Lincoln Highway, costing $702,506, more than 30 per cent completed.

Construction of the masonry for Moss Side boulevard more than 53 per cent toward completion.

A number of other span and road projects being undertaken by Allegheny County, both with and without co-operation of the state, townships, Pittsburgh and adjoining boroughs, are also nearly completed.

Duquesne Students To Meet 'Televox'

The Duquesne University school of accounts was to introduce "Mr. Televox" to several thousand members of the student body at the bi-weekly students' assembly in the Campus Theater today. The electrical man was to make his appearance through the courtesy of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

MAIL DELIVERY SHAKEUP HERE DELAYED

Concentration at Ferry St. And East Liberty Stations Stirs Protest; Kelly Acts

Postmaster George W. Gosser, in a long distance telephone conversation with Representative Clyde Kelly at Washington yesterday agreed to hold in abeyance an order issued by the Postoffice Department which would bring about a general rearrangement of mail distribution here.

Postal inspectors have recommended that mail for Wilkinsburg, Swissvale, Homewood, Bloomfield and Squirrel Hill, some of which has been distributed from the Wilkinsburg station, be concentrated in the East Liberty station. Mail for all other sections of the city, the inspector recommended, should be distributed from the Ferry street station.

Protests from patrons in all sections of the city were received throughout the day by Representative Kelly and Senator Reed's office in Washington. Kelly communicated with Gosser, who acceded to the Congressman's request to confer with Washington postal authorities and then with Pittsburgh inspectors, probably late next week. Kelly said he hoped to effect a compromise.

SPEED AIRPORT DESPITE RAIN

Wet and soggy weather during February and early March retarded grading and drainage operations to some extent on the Allegheny County airport, according to a statement issued yesterday from the office of the Allegheny County Commissioners.

Despite the fact that the work has been set back to some extent by these elements, operations have been completed to 83 per cent on the excavations and 98 per cent on the sub-drainage work.

The entire contract, according to the commissioners, is now more than 79 per cent completed. During February slag placed on the site included 640 carloads od 29,000 cubic yards, making a total to date of 2,139 cars. Slag has also been placed at proper sites to serve for a solid foundation for hangar construction. No announcement as to when the airport would be completed has yet been made.

Banquet Given To Retired Fireman

William S. Hutchinson, until his retirement, February 1, as captain of Engine Company No. 25, was honor guest at a dinner tendered him by 50 firemen in the engine house, Penn avenue and Thirty-fourth street, last night. A gold watch, chain and knife were presented him by Deputy Chief Frank Jones, on behalf of the firemen. The speakers included Chief Jones, Deputy Chief Louis J. Conley, Battalion Chief Daniel Callaghan, Frank Cunden and H. J. Weirbrack.

Investigate Death Of Worker in Mill

An investigation into the cause of the death of Fred Ploetner, 22, of 1811 Spruce street, Monaca, found dead last night in the plant of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, at Aliquippa, where he was employed, was begun by the Beaver County coroner's office today.

EXTEND TRIP TICKET TIME

The Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that, effective April 1, commutation tickets on its lines west of Pittsburgh which have been good heretofore only during the calendar month in which issued, will be accepted for a month after the date of sale.

The new rule applies to the 46-trip school tickets, the 54-strip family or firm tickets, and the 60-trip tickets used by a majority of the commuters. It will permit daily riders to and from the city to save considerable money, by obviating the necessity of buying a new ticket at the first of the month if the ticket of the previous month was purchased at a later date than the first and all the trips allowed were not taken.

The new plan has been in force on the lines east of Pittsburgh for some time.

Federal Agents Raid Club, Get Evidence

After battering down the door of a club at 115 Boquet street, Federal prohibition agents arrested William Mullen, 23, last night, they reported. Mullen was alleged to have destroyed several bottles of liquor while the agents were entering.

Twenty-three quarts of whisky were confiscated in a raid on a second-floor club at 5115 Penn avenue, where John Roberston, 36, and Charles Kane, 26, were arrested.

RAIN DELAYS BUILDING

Slightly more than 30 per cent of the entire work of erecting the new County office building, at Diamond and Ross streets, has been completed, according to a report given the Allegheny County Commissioners by the S. M. Siesel Company, general contractors, it was learned yesterday.

Much of the work had been held up by cold and rain, a report issued from the commissioners' office stated. Erection of steel work is expected to be finished sometime during the present month.

Excavations are 97 per cent complete, concrete footers and walls 98 per cent, granite work, 54 per cent, iron stairs, 85 per cent, structural steel, 97 per cent and plumbing 25 per cent, the report stated.

General work at the morgue, which was moved from the site of location on Fourth avenue, is approximately 99 per cent finished and the final estimate has been issued.

ROSELIA HOME SAVES BABY

Robert, aged 6 months, is feeling much better today after an illness caused by lack of proper care and food.

The baby was taken to Roselia Home last Friday evening by his 18-year-old father, who told authorities at the institution that he had not worked for two months and had not sufficient money to give the child food.

The young father climaxed his story of misfortune when he revealed that the baby's mother had deserted him, disgusted with a life of poverty. The mother's age is 17.

Because the father showed an interest in Robert, he was permitted to see the child later. If Robert could understand his father would have told him that the mother had decided to return and try it over. Now Robert may expect to see his mother at any moment.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgher And Beaver Woman Wed

THERE'S one thing we never become tired of hearing about—weddings. It's a good thing, for this spring there're going to be so many one might think June were here.

Not only are there weddings here at home to interest us but weddings in the East, in the West, and even in Europe.

News of a continental wedding has just been cabled home. Mrs. Alice Brown Morrison, widow of William Sturgeon Morrison, of Beaver, and the Rev. Dr. William Robertson Farmer, of the Western Theological Seminary, were married Thursday in the little English Church of Rapallo, Italy. The Rev. Walter Macray was the officiant.

The next six months Dr. and Mrs. Farmer will spend traveling in Europe and upon their return to the States in the late summer they will make their home in Pittsburgh.

Travel Plans

BEFORE settling down for the spring season here at home, a number of folks will make brief early season visits to various resorts. The Felix B. Snowdons will go to Bermuda for a fortnight or more, news has reached me.

Mrs. Alexander C. Blair, of Fifth avenue, and the Oliver Blairs are in Asheville, stopping at the Grove Park Inn.

Easter Recess

BECAUSE Easter comes so late this year, April 20, the school set's spring vacation will not include Easter Sunday. Most of the finishing schools will have spring recess the final week of this month.

Margaret Brill, daughter of the Alfred P. Brills, who goes to the French School in New York, is expected home Thursday, and Elizabeth McKay, daughter of the Thomas J. McKays; Ruth Willock, daughter of the Frank Scott Willocks; and Rita Borntraeger, daughter of Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger, all French School students, will be home, too.

Georgianna Collin, who goes to Miss Walker's School in Simsbury, Conn., will be home; and Virginia Doyle, too. Since her father and mother, the Charles Layng Doyles, who are in Palm Springs, Cal., won't be home until late spring, she'll be the house guest of Mrs. John Oliver, of Woodland road, while in Sewickley. Her sister Nancy will spend the holidays with her roommate in Concord, Mass.

Gretchen Rose, daughter of the J. Hanson Roses; Jane Arnold Sloan, debutante daughter of the Andrew E. Sloans, all students at Miss Walker's, will be home, too.

Students Return

FROM Dobbs Ferry, too, will come students to spend the Lenten season at home. Next Thursday will bring Vardi Marshall, daughter of the Lee Holmes Marshalls; Ruth Reed, daughter of the William McKennan Reeds; Mary Gordon, daughter of the Frank B. Gordons, and Margaret Taylor, daughter of the Matthew Taylors.

And Fredericka Holdship is expected home the same day from Farmington, to spend the Easter season with her father, Charles Frederick Holdship, and from the same school will come Virginia Evans, daughter of the Thomas Raymond Evanses; Constance Drake, daughter of the J. Frank Drakes; Bertha Brooks, daughter of the J. Twing Brookses; Gretchen Bickford, daughter of the Warren I. Bickfords; Dorothy Blaxter, daughter of the Henry Vaughan Blaxters, and then the daughter of the Richard G. Jenningses, Mary Colwell Jennings.

Women of Rosslyn Farms 'Landscape' Grounds of Neighborhood Home

A DECIDEDLY unusual program was given yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Rosslyn Farms Woman's Club for which Mrs. H. F. Buchner was hostess. A blueprint of the grounds surrounding one of the neighborhood homes served as the basis for the program and its landscaping by means of the several papers was the original idea carried out.

Information as to locating and planting the perennials was given by Mrs. Forest Alter; Mrs. J. G. Hamilton arranged the annuals, and Mrs. Alfred Harrington the bulbs; Mrs. J. W. Church looked after the trees and shrubbery and Mrs. G. A. Keisling chose and planted the roses in this "paper garden," each one imparting some useful information as she "planted." From the imaginary garden Mrs. George Brown gathered and tastefully arranged a bouquet.

The customary current events discussion was added by Mrs. Charles Campbell and roll call was answered by "flower suggestions." Tea closed the afternoon.

A PROGRAM of drama and music will be presented Tuesday afternoon at the Brookside Woman's Club meeting in Mrs. G. Hunter Culley's home. Members of the Get-Together Club will be guests for the afternoon. The program will feature Freeman Hammond in a characterization; Miss Virginia Freed, Miss Ola M. Rex and Paul Gilmore, in a playlet, and music by Miss Edna Speed, pianist, and the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club Choral.

A TRIO composed of Miss Jean Wessner, cellist; Virginia Brown Wilharm, pianist, and Roy Shoemaker, violinist, with Mrs. Esther Edmundson Mohr, as soprano soloist, will present the program Monday afternoon at the musicale of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club. It will be held in the Y. W. C. A. Community House.

BRIDGE and "500" will be played tomorrow at the card party which the Syria Ladies' Social Club Choral will give in the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. Herman J. Apel, junior past president of the club, and Mrs. Bertha Gross King, director of the choral, will receive the guests.

THE March meeting of the South Hills Pi Beta Phi Alumni Association will be held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Leonard, on Broadway, Dormont, with Mrs. Arthur A. Turner as assistant hostess, on Monday. The program for the afternoon is in charge of Mrs. Jack Simmonds and Mrs. Turner.

* * *

MRS. D. EDWIN MILLER is to give an illustrated lecture before the Town Club at its meeting Tuesday in the Congress clubhouse. Mrs. A. K. McMillan is chairman for the day.

MISS IRENE PHILLIPS and members of the local Girl Scout troop will usher for the Mt. Lebanon Chapter, No. 420, Order of the Eastern Star, when it presents "Once There Was a Princess" April 24 and 25 in the Washington School.

THE South Hills College Club will present two plays at the March meeting, to be held at the Beach home this evening. "Suspense," by Susan Glaspell, will be given by Mrs. Thomas Hood, Mrs. Lester Greer and Mrs. Paul Zuerner. In direct contrast with "Suspense," Samuel Clemens' "All Women" will be given in the quaint and charming costumes of bygone days. The cast includes Mrs. T. E. Orr, Mrs. Ross Conaway, Mrs. Henry Link, Mrs. E. M. Grove, Mrs. J. M. Van Kirk, Mrs. L. L. Moorman and Mrs. Aimee Whitemore.

FOR the tea and bridge party which the Woman's Club of Pittsburgh will give Tuesday afternoon in the Congress clubhouse, Mrs. Samuel A. Hunter and Mrs. John Rehling will be chairmen and Mrs. Edwin Rawsthorne and Mrs. Thomas Gray will serve as hostesses.

RAY L. HUFF will speak and the Woman's Glee Club of Carnegie Institute of Technology will sing next Friday at the meeting of the Oakland Woman's Club in the Hotel Schenley.

THE Brighton Women's Club met with Mrs. H. L. Krause, of Morrell street, yesterday, to continue the study of Scandinavia. Mrs. A. M. Meckelnburg discussed the position of women, and told something of the life of Ellen Key; Mrs. Elmer Rigdon sketched the lives of Selma Lagerlof, Sigrid Undset and Fredericka Bremer, and Mrs. A. C. Gordon gave a review of the Lagerlof book, "Gosta Berling."

THE Aspinwall Women's Christian Temperance Union heard a talk on prohibition by Mrs. A. Starr Martin at its meeting last night. Mrs. Martin's son, Park H. Martin, a state senatorial candidate, also addressed the meeting, which was held in Mrs. Thomas C. Corlette's home in Third street.

* * *

MRS. R. D. EVANS is the new president of the Thursday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg. Other officers elected yesterday are: Vice presidents, Mrs. A. K. Wetzig and Mrs. E. J. McCoy; recording secretary, Mrs. Everett McCandless; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. F. McCullough; assistant secretary, Mrs. J. W. Jennings; treasurer, Mrs. N. E. Walhberg. The club members especially enjoyed the talk Mrs. C. E. Skinner gave concerning her trip around the world. Mrs. Cort Elkin, of Center street, was hostess. The members have arranged a matinee party at the Alvin to see Herbert's "Naughty Marietta" on March 26.

MONACO FIGHT STIRS FRANCE

PARIS, March 14.—(AP.)—Little Monaco, famed chiefly for the gambling casino at Monte Carlo, is giving almost more trouble to France than all her other problems put together.

Should the Monacan elections March 30 result in the proclamation of a republic, France—which exercises complete domination over the principality—will be placed in an embarrassing situation because her treaty with Monaco recognizes only the dynasty headed by Prince Louis.

If the people vote to overthrow the dynasty, it is believed that France will assure Louis' place as prince, or if he abdicates will probably arrange a regency for his grandson.

A report reached Paris that Prince Pierre, husband of Princess Charlotte, is liked by the party which is striving for a republic, and that in the event of a republic he might even be proclaimed the first president.

At the conclusion last night of a meeting of the Paris Bar Association, it was announced unofficially that former President Poincare had been requested to referee the matrimonial controversies of Princess Charlotte—who is Prince Louis' daughter — and Prince Pierre; and also the dynastical controversies between Prince Louis and Monaco's two organized legislative and administrative bodies.

When questioned, Poincare refused to discuss the matter beyond saying that he now was merely an attorney, retired from public life.

Oldest Pensioner P. R. R. Now 101

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—(AP.)—The annual report of the pension department of the Pennsylvania Railroad shows the company paid $6,665,718 in pensions in 1929, an increase of $582,178 over the previous year. The total number on the pension roll at the close of the year was 9,563, a net increase of 504. The average age of all pensioners was 72 years, 9 months.

The oldest pensioner is Thomas Gallagher, who is 101 years old. He was retired in 1908, as foreman of stables on the Long Island Railroad.

King Vidor Fined $400 in Tax Fraud

LOS ANGELES, March 14.—(AP.)—King Vidor, motion picture director, paid a $400 fine after pleading guilty in Federal Court to failure to pay a proper income tax, and was assessed $9,976 in deficiency taxes and penalties.

Vidor's wife, Eleanor Boardman, actress, recently paid a $2,000 fine for returning an incorrect income tax statement.

STRAWS

A Group Emphasizing the Smartest Millinery Trends

At this price every woman can afford several straw hats for her spring wardrobe—and all smartly dressed women are choosing straws much like these.

These dainty, delicate straws "ensemble" well with the coats and dresses that emphasize the more feminine fashions. Straws are soft enough to permit the brims to be folded, creased and manipulated.

Coolie Coats

A Lounging Luxury and a Travel Necessity

Ensemble your lounging pajamas with a black coolie coat—let the embroidery on the coat match the colors of the pajamas. There's just enough informality about these coolie coats to make them smart for lounging about the home, and they are practical enough for Pullman use.

Made of mercerized rayon, and embroidered in large floral designs in red, green, and gold. Cut full; nicely made; washable. $2.95.

—Second Floor—

Women's Milanese Vests
$1.50

If you want to be as nice to yourself as you would like others to be (and you should) rush out and get some milanese vests. This soft, close fitting, easily laundered material will make you feel positively regal, while their low price makes you painlessly practical. Inclusive sizes. Pink or peach.

Vests, $1.50 Bandeaux, 85c
Yoke Panties, $2.35

Sleeves Tell an Interesting Fashion Story in DRESSES

$15.75

Prints, prints, prints—continue their popularity through the spring. But sleeves—by then you can tell the new spring dresses. If all kinds of interesting things have been done to the sleeves you may be sure that the dress is new.

The dress illustrated, for instance, has the real leg-o'mutton sleeves modernized and brought up to date. An enticing fashion for the tall, slender woman.

The small illustrations show other fascinating sleeve treatments—the flounced or frilled finish; full length sleeves with small tabs; sleeveless, with the shoulders covered with a small capelet (called the cap sleeve), and others.

Printed and Plain Crepes and Chiffons

These interesting sleeve treatments are found in business and afternoon dresses, and in soft chiffon dinner and evening dresses. All in the Boggs & Buhl $15.75 group.

Regular and large sizes, and a specially good group of small half sizes

Tweed Coats

Take the Lead for Spring Sports and Travel

$25

Boggs & Buhl's early prediction that tweeds would be most important for spring has proven a fact. Women everywhere are clamoring for tweeds . . . tweeds in sports and semi-sports models . . . monotone tweeds . . . ombre tweeds . . . nubby tweeds.

Tweed Coats Have Capes, Tie Scarfs, and Stand-up Collars with Tailored Bows at the Back

From the $25 group of tweed coats you can select the smartest kind of coats for travel and sportswear. Nothing is more sturdy or will wear longer than these tweed coats.

The coat illustrated is an ombre tweed in shades of tan. The seamings on the back make an interesting design. Can be worn without the belt. $25.

—Second Floor—

Chic "Petite" Footwear
$7.50

"Petite" shoes look so well and wear so long you won't object in the least to paying only $7.50 for them, for you really must own a pair!

Illustrated are two new models exclusive with Boggs & Buhl, $7.50.

—First Floor—

Washable Doeskin Gloves
$1.95

If you want to be constantly correctly gloved without owning endless pairs, your only solution is 4-button washable doeskins for daytime. White, Eggshell, Chamo, full pique sewn, $1.95.

—First Floor—

Little Girls Choose Tweed Coats
$19.50

Little Miss 7 to 14 years may not be aware that tweed is one of the smartest spring fabrics, but she is choosing it because she likes it.

And how she likes the adorable little capes that are seen on many of the coats! And the raglan sleeves of others!

Right—A nubbed tweed with elbow length cape.

—Second Floor—

Special!

Men's New Felt Hats
$3.50

Spring officially due in a week. Here are new Spring styles at a saving. In wide, medium or with new narrow snap brims. Also the welted edge which holds brims firm as long as worn.

Full satin lined. They look, feel and wear like much higher priced hats. Tomorrow—3.50.

LITTLE THINGS OF LARGE IMPORTANCE IN THE MODE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 14.—The trifles of the mode are not to be lightly trifled with. The ensemble influence that has brought beauty and harmony to the wardrobe and has taught the importance of choosing clothes that have the power of contributing to a certain definite scheme, has also shown the distinct relationship of accessories to the fact of being well-dressed. No more can a hat, a bag, hose or gloves be bought haphazard because they are bargains and might be useful some day. Every article must now conform to a well-defined combination, and yet be capable of being interchangeable, and this can only be accomplished by dint of much thought and planning. The women here have long been aware of the importance of the accessory, as have well dressed women in all countries, but now the average woman has learned to give the same careful consideration to such things, and the results are pleasingly apparent.

THE latitude of the mode allows us all to cultivate and indulge our taste thus permitting us to be individual and yet conform to the current fashion. Suits and ensembles show jackets that vary from demure little boleros to full length affairs. The strictly tailored suit is especially good with a long coat and is extremely becoming to the tall, slim figure. The bolero type of jacket is pleasing wear for the shorter figure whether slim or somewhat fuller. Thus the mode hands us all a good line, if we are but sensible enough to accept it.

THE collection chez Premet is especially noticeable for its suits with coats of varying length. And so we have chosen a suit that shows the long tailored lines of a seven-eighths coat. The suit sketched is of red, black and beige tweed, and it is worth) of note that the purse and the belt are of matching tweed banded in red leather.

THE revers on the front of the coat are very wide and form a cape-like bertha reaching to the waist in back and attached there with a row of stitching. There is a slightly circular flare placed low in the coat and following the circular line of the skirt. The latter has a group of side pleats at the center of the front.

* * *

A TYPICAL frock from the collection just introduced by Refern is also sketched. It is of printed crepe de chine, a large leaf pattern in white on a black ground. The deep bertha is shirred in front and attached beneath a vertical band. The belt is placed at the normal waistline and a diagonal yoke at top of the skirt gives a snug line over the hips. A black band of crepe borders the moderately long and circular skirt. This model shows eloquently clothes for daytime wear.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

COCHRAN TALKS ON WATERWAYS

SHARON, Pa., March 14.—(AP.)—Flood control and navigation possibilities in Western Pennsylvania were discussed tonight by Representative T. C. Cochran in an address before the Sharon Chamber of Commerce. Delegations were present from a number of other Mercer County towns.

The proposed plan for canalization of the Shenango and Beaver rivers was outlined by the congressman. He also stressed the advantages for industrial growth and development that would be possible through increased water supply and the use of streams for navigation. Completion of the Pymatunig Dam project, he said, would aid in flood control in this district.

Dog, 250 Chickens Burned in Fire

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 14.—Fire which destroyed a chicken house, barn and shed on the Forrest Allison farm, near Claysville, caused a loss of $2,000. A dog and 250 chickens were burned to death. Two cows were rescued. The flames started when a brooder exploded.

YOUNG CARS for YOUNG FELLOWS at prices they can afford to pay!

A new world of pleasure is opened up to the young man with an automobile. Dates and dances, joyrides, parties—picnics—but you know all about that and how essential it is to have a car to get in on the fun.

However, do you know that right now is the best time of the year to buy a used car? Prices are the lowest they will ever be. A month from now prices will be up and real bargains will be hard to get.

The wise young fellow who is looking forward to a summer of pleasure and good times is going to listen to this suggestion. Turn to the Classified Section and pick out a car that will suit your needs and your pocketbook—then buy it. Easy payments may be arranged.

THINK OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE IN TERMS OF TOMORROW

Ultimate cost is as important as first cost in the purchase of an automobile

WHEN you purchase an automobile you are making an investment of a considerable amount of money. It is essential, therefore, that you give careful thought to the best selection and know what you are getting for your automobile dollars.

The first cost is important because it may mean an immediate, satisfactory saving. Of equal importance is the ultimate cost after thousands of miles of service. This ultimate cost is the true measure of automobile value.

THE first cost of the new Ford is unusually low not only because of economies in manufacturing, but because the same principles that inspire these savings are extended to every other step that means greater service to the public. It is easy to see that economies in production would be of little value if they were sacrificed later through high charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, does business on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company. His discount or commission is twenty-five to fifty per cent lower than that of any other automobile dealer. You gain because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

The difference in selling cost, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, amounts to at least $50 to $75 on each car. This is as important as economies in production in keeping down the price you pay for the new Ford.

THE low ultimate cost of the new Ford is the result of sound design, quality of material and unusual care in manufacturing. Friction and wear are reduced by the accuracy with which each part is made and assembled.

These factors combine to decrease the cost of operation and add months and years to the useful life of the car. The good performance and low yearly depreciation of the new Ford are indicative of the enduring quality built into it at the factory.

SERVICE charges are on the same fair, economical basis as the making and selling of the car and replacement parts are always available at low prices through all Ford dealers. In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost.

Think in terms of tomorrow, therefore, when you purchase an automobile. For tomorrow will reveal its true worth.

Old Story From Camps. | Hornsby Respects Bucs.

RECRUITS WILT AS PITCHERS IMPROVE

THE same old story that we read every spring is beginning to come in from the training grounds of the big league baseball clubs. It has to do with a sudden change in the form of many a young recruit player, particularly in the batting branch of his endeavors. Only a week ago he may have been billed as a budding sensation, a lad who could not only field with exceptional skill but who was displaying a most promising punch in the batter's box. It was hard to see how he could fail to crowd out one of the old regulars and win a place for himself in the daily lineup.

Ben Sankey

But now he has started to fade. The punch that was so strongly in evidence just a short while back has disappeared and there is a growing doubt as to whether he will be able to come up to big-show requirements with the stick.

The explanation is that the pitchers have begun to bend 'em. They're putting something on the ball. It was no trick to pound the pill all over the premises as long as the hurlers were merely lobbing it to the plate while loosening up their arms.

NOW that they've removed the winter kinks, however, and are pitching the real stuff, the hitting of the rookie takes a tremendous slump. It's the acid test, the stage that often spells for him the difference between success and failure. And judging from latest reports, failure, as usual, will be the answer in a huge percentage of the cases.

You can change the date line on the story of these fading recruits and make it fit any training camp in the country. It's the rule, not the exception. No matter how promising he may look in the early practice sessions, the real test of a green youngster does not come until the veteran pitchers begin to bear down and the other old players who jog along at an easy gait at first start to let themselves out. Then, all too often, the gilt peels from the flashy recruit.

IN a situation that is so general, it isn't surprising to find the Pittsburgh club included among those facing rookie batting problems. In fact, local baseball followers were prepared for it. They are too experienced to take anything for granted on the face of the early returns.

Charley Engle

Thus it came that when Ben Sankey began to startle the Pirate camp with his brilliant fielding, the home fans decided to withhold final judgement until they could learn whether or not the youngster would be able to hit. They knew that the actual test was yet to come.

THAT they had the right angle is indicated by latest reports from Paso Robles. Sankey's fielding is still all that could be desired, but since the pitchers began to extend themselves he is reported to have been "mystified" at the plate. All of which might have been expected. It is one thing to hit minor league hurling or to make a good showing against the loose flinging in the early camp session, but to keep it up against real major league slabwork is quite another thing again.

BUT it doesn't necessarily follow that Sankey is to be marked down as a failure. There's another chapter to come in this annual story as applied to every newcomer. Sometimes the recruit is thrown out of his stride only temporarily. He is able eventually to solve this strange pitching, to adjust himself to the new and harder conditions, to avoid being fooled so frequently as at first, and finally to come through and make good.

So the hope remains that Sankey may yet prove to be one of that kind. It's still too early to judge him. And even if he doesn't rally later in his hitting, the shortstop situation will not be alarming by any means. For one thing, Charley Engle is beginning to loom up in pleasing style. He has been "around" a great deal more than Sankey, has been in a big league camp before and has a better knowledge of what it's all about.

WITH those advantages, Engle has not been so greatly upset by big league pitching as the younger recruit. He has handled himself very satisfactorily, all things considered, and must be recokoned as being very much in the running for the open job.

Rogers Hornsby

And even if both of these recruits, and Stuart Clarke in addition, should fail to measure up in a hitting sense, there is Dick Bartell to solve the problem. He hit .305 in 1928 and .302 last year, don't forget, and has quite a few other things to recommend him. If one of the new men proves superior to Bartell, so much the better for the team. If not, the club will have a capable shortstop, anyhow.

THE best evidence that there is nothing for Pirate rooters to worry about as far as shortstop or any other position is concerned, and they have every reason to look forward to the 1930 season with a feeling of confidence, is found in the respect that is being shown for the Bucs by their pennant rivals. Everybody connected with the league's strongest clubs admits that the Rovers are probable flag contenders. Rogers Hornsby, Cub star, is the latest. "Of course, I expect the Cubs to win again," Hornsby says. "In fact, I can't see anything else to it. But there is one club that may give us some trouble. Pittsburgh looks like our most dangerous rival."

FOLLOWING last night's basketball game between the Cleveland and Paterson American League teams, in which they had a chance to see an exhibition of the sport as played under professional rules of interpretations, local floor fans are more firmly than ever of the opinion that the best interests of the pastime call for a uniformity of system.

Even in the collegiate or amateur ranks, though the rules are uniform throughout the country, there is a wide variety of interpretations. A veteran said here last night that he had observed at least 10 different codes throughout the Eastern half of the United States and would not dare to estimate how many others were in force farther West.

AS is pointed out by Phog Allen, coach at the University of Kansas, officials in the East and Far West are quick to penalize any attempt to play the man instead of the ball. In the Middle West they are more generous. Players on both offense and defense are allowed

Syracuse, Colgate, State in League

HAMILTON, N. Y., March 14.—(AP.) — Syracuse, Colgate and Penn State have formed a Triangular Baseball Association, it has been announced. The three schools will begin play under the agreement this year, each member meeting the others twice apiece. The three schools have a similar basketball agreement. Syracuse won in that sport this year.

Squash Racquets Tournament Opens

Play in the first annual squash racquets championship tournament, sponsored by the Western Pennsylvania Squash Racquets Association, got under way on the Keystone Athletic Club courts this morning.

Thirty-eight racqueters are entered in the competition and the first round of play is to be concluded Monday night. The final match is carded for next Friday evening.

WESTMINSTER REPORTED DUE FOR SHAKEUP

By JESS CARVER

All, it would seem, is not beer and skittles at old Westminster, where they have just finished salting away the Tri-State Conference basketball championship, and where the general impression has always been that nothing but peace and good will exist between all branches of the institution.

From a source as authentic as it is close to the fluttering Westminster pulse, it has been learned that changes are being contemplated in the coaching staff, the managerial force and very possibly in the executive department. A meeting of the board of trustees of the college will be held here next Monday, at which the lid may be blown off.

MAY LOSE LAWTHER

Westminster is in danger of losing John Lawther, the astute basketball coach and assistant football mentor. At Monday's meeting, John either will be appointed for a new term at a higher salary, or his resignation goes in. Three other institutions of learning have bids in for Lawther's services . . . all of 'em offering more annual stipend than the Westminster ante.

It is also possible that Andy McDonald, the Bellevue boy who went to New Wilmington to make good, and did so by becoming graduate manager of athletics, may find himself jammed up. Andy ordinarily welcomes a jam, because he takes so much pleasure in getting out of 'em with his colors flying and his foes dragging, but this one may be tougher than usual.

STUDENTS AROUSED

The United Presbyterian student body is up in arms over the alarming prospect of losing Lawther, who not only is a fine coach, but an excellent teacher, close student of psychology, and a morale builder. This goes for the town of New Wilmington, too, where Lawther has been set high on a pedestal.

TECH MEETS W. & J.

Carnegie Tech's swimming team engages Wash.-Jeff at Washington, Pa., tonight, while the Tech Plebes engage Kiski Prep at Saltsburg. The meets will ring down the curtain for the season for the Skibo mermen.

The Tipoff

With only Capt. Eddie Baker absent, the Pitt varsity football squad will begin spring training with a workout on the practice field tomorrow afternoon. Capt. Baker will not report until next week, as he is still a member of Doc Carlson's basketball team, which closes its season at Penn State tomorrow night.

Coach Sutherland plans to keep his squadders at it for a period of 10 weeks. After an ample warmup of fairly light drills the Panthers will be given some rough work, which will be increased daily—like cough medicine.

Gibby Welch, whose nickname (?) will recall as a fair halfback at Pitt, visited his old haunts for a day or two this week, being chaperoned by Art James, well known man about town. Gibby is shopping for Andy Gustafson's job at W. P. I.

By KNUTE ROCKNE

Member All-American Board of Football.

I first remember Hugo Bezdek as the plunging fullback on Coach Stagg's University of Chicago Maroons in 1904. He was one of the colorful fullbacks of that period.

The next I saw of Bezdek was when he used to lead his great Arkansas Razorback baseball teams to Notre Dame in 1910-1911.

Knute Rockne.

From Arkansas, Bezdek went to Oregon. He gave the Beavers the best football on the coast, and, in 1916, his Oregon team defeated the University of Pennsylvania at the Tournament of Roses.

In 1918, Bezdek went to Pennsylvania State, where he has been ever since.

In 1920-21, his State College teams were the class of the country, and included such stars as Killinger, Higgins, Way and Haines.

For the last half-dozen years one group of the alumni has been for him and another group against him. He confounded both his enemies and friends recently by resigning and taking the head of the physical education department. I doubt if directing classes in deep-breathing will satisfy such an active soul. If the right man is chosen as football coach to succeed him the situation will iron out to the satisfaction of old Hugo, one of the fairest and hardest fighters that ever coached and played our much-abused fall game.

ROSIES BEAT PATERSON

Benny Borgeman, diminutive little Paterson Crescent scoring leader of professional basketball's major circuit, thrilled a capacity crowd in the Duquesne gym with his brilliant scoring, although his team was beaten by the Cleveland Rosenblums, 25 to 23, in an American League game last night. Although the Rosies maintained a lead from the outset, the constant menace of Borgeman, who accomplished the super-feat of registering 17 of the Crescents' 23 points, proved the bright spot of the battle. The Clevelanders held only a 13-12 lead at half-time through Benny's individual efforts. It was an excellent performance from the outset.

John J. Freund, Jr., who promoted the game, gave the more than 1500 assembled basketball fans a real evening's sport, two preliminaries, and an exhibition game by midget teams, holding their attention prior to the big contest. Charley Hyatt, Pitt ace, tossed up the first ball.

The splendid playing of the little Trinity Cathedral Tritans, who defeated the Trinity Trimmers, found great favor with the crowd, while the work of Chuck Salador, who gave local folks a new conception of big-time refereeing, met with a real response.

In a County League game at Elizabeth, Allentown carried its fourth in a row over the home club by a 28-22 score. The lineups:

Cleveland—25		Paterson—23
Skurnick	F	Sullivan
Barry	F	Borgeman
Lapchick	C	Grady
Husta	G	Wyra
Cunningham	G	Rockery

Substitutions: Cleveland, Dehnert for Cunningham, Cunningham for Skurnick. Field goals—Barry, Lapchick 2, Husta 3, Borgeman 5, Rockery, Dehnert, Fouls—Cleveland, 9 out of 14; Paterson, 11 out of 13. Individual fouls—Skurnick, 2 out of 3; Lapchick, 4 out of 7; Husta, 2 out of 3; Dehnert, 1 out of 2; Sullivan, 1 out of 2; Borgeman, 7 out of 7; Wyra, 2 out of 3; Rockery, 1 out of 1. BUC REGULARS SET DOWN YANS, 5-4

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 14.—With Richard, the Lion-hearted, leading the pepper squad, the Pirate camp today had taken on new activity. Bartell yesterday featured the clash of the Regulars and Yanigans and it was no fault of his that the Hooligans did not plaster another defeat on the favored team. Playing with the second team to make his debut, Bartell hammered the ball to the fences and fielded like Eddie Collins around second base.

Other Yanigans played slipshod basketball the bad stuff discounting much of the daring deeds of the Alameda athlete. And Fred Brickell whiped a homer to deep center, the three resultant tallies brought about an impasse which was broken a little later in favor of the Regulars who scored enough runs to insure victory. The score was 5 to 4.

DICK'S HIT PRETTY

Bartell's first appearance at the plate resulted in one of the prettiest hits of the season in the Paso Robles orchard. Dick blasted a curve ball against the left-center fence, his three-bagger being the pivotal punch in a two-run inning. Later he connected for a ringing single, and his fielding and general liveliness did much to add to the zest of the game.

Manager Ens was glad to know that Bartell was so close to condition. It developed this morning that Stuart Clarke was unable to play, owing to his being struck, Wednesday, with a hot smash off Grantham's bat. Clarke jumped

Sport Vignettes

A visitor in Pittsburgh on a business mission the last few days was Paul Beeler.....Beeler is the former Washington (Pa.) and Johnstown High School football coach, and he was a good one.....Still later, he was freshman coach at Carnegie Tech.....Then he drifted to Chicago, where he became mixed up in the fight promotion business with Jim Mullin.....Then he went into the newspaper syndicate racket and now he is in the advertising game and doing swell, thank you.....He was the official timekeeper in the Battle of the Long Count in which Gene Tunney retained his title against Jack Dempsey a few years ago.....He is loath to speak about that occasion because he thinks the incident had better, for all concerned, be considered in the light of a closed chapter.....He did say, however, that there positively was nothing wrong with what transpired insofar as the officials were concerned.....'We had a conference lasting hours at which every rule in the book was gone over,' he said, 'and both Dempsey and Tunney knew, or should have known, what was expected of them.....It was understood and agreed that in the event of a knockdown the count was not to begin until the man scoring the knockdown had retired to the farthest neutral corner.....That is exactly what happened and Dempsey has no one but himself to blame for the fact that his opponent was permitted to rest on the floor for a count of SEVENTEEN—not 14, as is generally stated.....I ought to know, for I handled the watch and banged off the seconds. The referee did not take up the count with me until after Dempsey had got to that faraway corner and the second hand had ticked off 17 seconds when he yelled 'nine'.....I think, at that, that Tunney could have got up at the real count of nine if it had been necessary. When I looked up to see what the referee was doing, I found Gene looking right at me and moving his lips as if keeping count with me, and then he looked over to his corner, on the far side of the ring, and nodded his head.....I think he could have regained his feet at my count of nine, but he remained down to get the full benefit of the referee's count, aware of the fact that it had been agreed that the referee's toll was the one that would count.....He might not have been strong enough to ward off Dempsey if he had been forced to hurry getting off the floor and might have run into more trouble, but that is a controversial point that never will be satisfactorily settled.".....Beeler reports that a match between Dempsey and Primo Carnera is a sure thing for Soldier Field, Chicago, this summer, with Dempsey cutting the gate both ways, as the promoter and one of the principals, and will it draw!.....Paul saw Carnera knock out Elzear Rioux in Chi and says the big Venetian Varicose Veinman really can fight and is as fast as a bantamweight.....Wonder how he could tell in a 20-second fight?.....Two nifties from Beeler:.....Says Jim Mullin came rushing into his office in Chicago all out of breath the other day, looking as if he had seen a ghost.....'What's the matter?' the folks inside demanded.....'Out there, out there!' shreiked Mullin. 'I've just seen something out there!'.....'What was it?' from the startled onlookers.....Mullin (gasping):.....'Fred Fulton—STANDING UP!'.....No. 2: Farmer Lodge, who has been knocked out by the best and the worst of them, rushing through a crowd in Chicago, bumps into friend who inquires as to the wherefore and whyfore of all of the hustle and bustle.....'Got to get shaved and catch a train,' comes back the Farmer.....'I'm fighting Carnera in New Orleans'.....Two other local papers now are imitating this column.....Oh, well, imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, as they say.—HARRY KECK.

MONTREAL, March 14.—(AP.)—Les Canadiens lost their chance to finish in first place of the International section of the National Hockey League by tying the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-2, here last night. The smallest crowd to watch a game in Montreal this year saw an indifferent display of hockey.

Three of the goals came in the first period. Canadiens getting two before their opponents could tally once. Morenz and S. Mantha were responsible for the goals, both on line efforts.

Rog Smith got the Pirates' first goal less than a minute after the Canucks' second, which came at the close of the period. The second Pirate tally was credited to Darragh in the third.

Joe Miller, in the Pittsburgh net, was responsible for the fact that the Pirates were able to tie the game. The veteran netminder performed almost miraculous feats time after time in stopping the Canuck pucks and gave one of the best displays of goaltending of the local season. The lineup:

Canadiens	2		Pittsburgh	2
Hainsworth		G		Miller
Burke		D		Spring
S. Mantha		D		Mills
Morenz		C		Fraser
Gagnie		W		Darragh
Julian		W		Lowrey

Scores: Canadiens—Mondou, Leduc, Lepine, La Rochelle, McCaffery, G. Mantha. Carson, Des Rivieres; Pittsburgh—R. Smith, Drury, MacKinnon, Brides, Jarvis, Barton, Manners.

Referees—Dalgarault and Cleghorn.

more liberal use of their bodies. The two coast areas cling to the orthodox game, but in the Midwest basketball has been footballized.

Coaches are handicapped in preparing for intersectional games. What is allowed in one section is barred in another. It is high time steps were taken toward establishing a uniform set of interpretations. Basketball has too many styles or systems for the general good.

Battling Battalino

BOXING is experiencing some queer ups and downs in various parts of the country. Where one section reports a boom, another complains of a slump. At the Olympia in Detroit, for instance, where Scotty Monteith is matchmaker, weekly boxing shows, after a trial dating back to November, have been abandoned as financial failures, in striking contrast to their success in some other places. The club is convinced that the public wants only high-grade matches, and hereafter it will stage only that kind at reasonable intervals, starting with a bout between Christopher (Battling) Battalino, featherweight champion, and Bud Taylor next Thursday night. Two weekly shows had gates below $4,000, and another drew less than $5,000. At the Coliseum in St. Louis, Tuesday night, with Marty Fields and Lou Terry in the main bout, there wasn't enough money in the box office to pay off the fighters. The gate was only $1,774.50 and Promoter Joe Tippett, facing a shortage of $1,258.84, had to give the boxers I. O. U.'s for part of their money. Pittsburgh clubs, on the other hand, have had the most prosperous season they ever knew.

SOLMEN VICTOR OVER BEATTY

Mickey Solmen, New Castle slugger, and Allen Beatty, Negro welter of McKeesport, paced through 10 uninteresting and drab rounds last night in the main bout at the Palisades, McKeesport, at the conclusion of which Solmen received the verdict of both judges. Frank (Bull) Brown and Jock Simco. Eddie Kennedy, the third man in the ring, voted for a draw.

POOR EXHIBITION

Coming into the ring at the finish of three highly-entertaining preliminary bouts, Solmen and Beatty failed to furnish the fans with the kind of a fight that they had expected to see. Both depended almost entirely upon their cleverness during the greater part of the setto, with the result that very few hard blows were landed.

In the seventh round, the referee stepped between the fighters and warned them to show a little more inclination to fight and he repeated the warning between the eighth and ninth sessions.

PROFIO VICTOR

Jimmy McGirr trotted out a newcomer in the eight-round semi-final, in the person of a young Negro fighter, Billy Holt, of Canton. Holt was pitted against the slugging Dominick Profio, of Cecil, and started out in a manner that would indicate a quick finish with Profio groveling in the resin. He sent Dominick back on his heels several times in the first round, after landing hard rights to the head and keeping the Cecil Italian at a safe distance with a clever long left. However, after the first round, Profio came back with a body attack that soon weakened Holt and from that time on, except for occasional flashes by the Ohioan, Red Mason's protege was always on top. Profio weighed 145¾, while Holt scaled 141½.

NOVAK BEATEN

Chuck Taggart, of Butler, spotting Frank Novak, of Pittsburgh, a weight advantage of almost 14 pounds, floored the former amateur heavyweight champion four times in the second round and received the verdict on a technical knockout when Novak was unable to answer the bell for the start of the third. Novak weighed 189½, while Taggart came in at 175½.

Scotty Graham, of Donora, lost the decision in the six-round opener to George Evans, of Braddock, after a fine fight that saw both boys battling every inch of the way. Graham weighed 109½, while Evans came in at 113.

W. Va. Tourney Draw To Be Withheld

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., March 14.—(AP.)—Drawings for the seventeenth annual state high school basketball championships, which begin here next Thursday, will not be announced until Wednesday, the day before the start of the tournament.

This announcement was made today by Director Kelcel M. Ross, who is in charge of arrangements for the meet, which will bring together the 18 sectional champions of the state. Previous reports were that the pairings would be made public on Monday.

Fight Results

At McKeesport—Mickey Solmen defeated Allen Beatty, 10 rounds; Dominick Profio defeated Billy Holt, 6 rounds; Chuck Taggert knocked out (Technical) Frank Novak, 3 rounds; George Evans defeated Scotty Graham, 6 rounds.

At Chester, Pa.—Nate Goldman won on foul over Young Johnny Ketchel, 1 round; Lou Zerals defeated Billy Purnell, 6 rounds.

At Indianapolis—Tracy Cox knocked out Windy Myers, 2 rounds; Merle Alig and Manuel Chavez drew, 10 rounds; Walter Pekard knocked out Mat Burman, 3 rounds.

ELEANOR HOLM SETS RECORD

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 14.—(AP.)—Eleanor Holm, of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, clipped 6 2-5 seconds from her own record for the 300-yard medley individual swim here yesterday to feature the first day's events of the National A. A. U. women's indoor swimming championships. Her time was 4 minutes, 16 seconds. She finished 3 yards ahead of Adelaide Lambert, of the same club.

Helene Madison, 16-year-old swimming ace of the Crystal Swimming Club, Seattle, splashed in ahead of a field of six others to win the 100-yard free style event. She was clocked at 1 minute, 13-5 seconds. Josephine McKim, of Los Angeles Athletic Club, came in second.

The scene today will shift from the Roman Pools to the Deauville Pools with the low board diving and the 50 meter swim scheduled.

Y. M. C. A. Volleyball Play Opens Tonight

Five teams are entered in the Metropolitan District Y. M. C. A. volleyball championship which opens at the Allegheny Y this evening. Hill Top meets East Liberty and Downtown opposes Allegheny in first-round games. Center Avenue drew a bye.

Nick Altrock Says:

BILOXI, Miss., March 14.—Well, I see old Grover Alexander and Jack Quinn are both warming up their soupbones for another year. Alex started pitching for the Phillies when Benjamin Franklin was sporting editor of the Saturday Evening Post.

Nick Altrock

I don't know how old Jack Quinn is, but I heard he went to Thomas Jefferson's funeral.

These two boys have certainly busted my record. Your old Uncle Nick pitched to a ripe old age himself, but I finally got tired of taking shower baths.

Say, something must be the matter with the acoustics in Texas. Arthur Shires hasn't been heard from in the last 48 hours.

Fessenden Tops Lead to Cop Match

ST. LOUIS, March 14.—(AP.)—Ray V. Fessenden, of Madison, Wis., who is defending his title, overcame nearly a 100 point lead here yesterday to defeat James Peabody, of Chicago, in a national amateur 18.2 balkline billiards tournament match, 300 to 289, in 40 innings. Percy Collins, Chicago, four times winner of the crown, overwhelmed Arie Schaap, of St. Louis, in another match, 300 to 171, in 23 innings.

"YOU KNOW ME, PAL!"

Art (the Great) Bowers Makes a Conquest

"Pal Jack:—

"Well, old pal, I no sooner put on that new 'Plus-Six' topcoat of mine and walked jontily acrost the hotel lobby . . . when some queen gets a load of my outfit and falls for me, hook, line and sinker. The boys was all burnin up with jelosy. She tells me she's a movie actress and her name is Rega Dawn. I don't remember seeing her name over any show, but, of coarse, I don't follow the moving pitchers a lot. I will now, though. Going to hit the hay early . . . Jewel tells me he's going to let me twirl for the Yans tomorrow.

Watch for a shut-out!

Al."

GAMES THIS WEEK.

Tonight—New Kensington vs. Uniontown.
Tomorrow—New Castle vs. Duquesne.
March 18—Final game.

Uniontown High battles New Kensington's Ken-Hi passers in the semi-final round of the W. P. I. A. L. championship basketball series in the Stadium tonight. Coach A. J. Everhart's proteges won many admirers in their sensational battle with Monessen earlier in the week and are slight favorites to cop tonight's conquest.

Last night Scott High, of North Braddock, bowed before Duquesne High, 27 to 24, as the second round ended. As a result of their victory, the Dukes engage New Castle High in a penultimate round set to tomorrow night, the winners of tonight and tomorrow night battling for the district championship next Tuesday.

Last night's encounter was a close one throughout. Scott giving a glorious account of himself, even though in vain. Duquesne led, 8-5, at the end of the first quarter, but North Braddock held a 14-11 advantage at the interim. The Dukes regained their stride to lead, 22 to 20, as the third quarter ended, scoring an extra point to the last stanza to assure the win. Tomke and Beck were the evening's star individual scorers. The lineup:

Scott—24.		Duquesne—27.
Tomko	F	Beck
Kohlar	F	Harajsus
V. Bache	C	Doria
J. Bache	G	Servack
McMullen	G	Shuite

Score by quarters:

North Braddock	5	9	6	4	24
Duquesne	8	3	11	5	27

Substitutes: North Braddock—Roderick, Duquesne—Mgir. Field goals—Tomko 5, Kohlar, V. Bache, J. Bache, McMullen, Beck 4, Harajsus 3, Doria, Servack 2, Shuite. Foults—North Braddock, 6 out of 9; Duquesne, 5 out of 8. Referee—Beggs Snyder. Umpire—Yani Wallace. Time of quarters—Eight minutes.

ENTRIES CLOSE

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 14.—Entry lists in the sixth annual Waynesburg College tri-state scholastic basketball tournament to be staged here March 20, 21 and 22, closed here today when a total of 32 teams were entered in the A and B divisions, with two alternates being registered in the A division and one in Section B. The complete list of entries follows:

Class A—Burgettstown, Mitchell, McKees Rocks, German Township, Mt. Lebanon, Monongahela, Swissvale, Dunbar Township, Fairmont, Believernon, Ramsay, Erie, Academy High, Charlton, Stowe Township, North Union, Waynesburg, Georges Township and Punxsutawney, W. Va., alternates.

Class B—Monongahela Township, Fayette City, East Bethlehem, Perryopolis Catholic Central, Leechburg, Masontown, Blackeville, Daybrook, Mars, South Fayette Township, Bentonite, Brownsville, Point Marion, Findley Vocational, Carmichaels. Nine eh alternate.

PLAY-OFF SERIES OPENS

Four teams will battle at Grove City today and tomorrow in the Northwestern Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League for the right to meet the winner of the W. P. I. A. L. series for the championship of Western Pennsylvania.

Sharon won its fourth straight Mercer County title against Farrell, while Sheffield defeated Bradford to represent that section. Punxsutawney, which has been in the play-off for the past two years, sewed up its section more than a week ago, while Erie East ousted Meadville in Section 3 of District 8.

BARTELL STARS IN DEBUT

in front of a mad liner to save the game. He stopped the ball with his arm and got his man, but in doing so he put himself out of commission. Stewie, however, is coming around satisfactorily and will be ready for action in a couple of days. Bartell took his spot in the Yanigan batting order.

The pitching of Leon Chagnon was one of the big features of the fourth contest. The French-Canuck toiled on the slab for five rounds, he being the first sharpshooter to go this distance. Herbert Sanders, who started for the Regulars, worked the four-inning route. Jess Petty, Lil Stoner and Steve Swetonic hurled for the Yanigans.

GOOD HURLING

Petty and Swetonic pitched shut-out ball and the latter enlivened the fight with his clean hitting. Steve put the Yans in the fight with one slashing hit and on his only other time at bat, he staggered Brickell with a liner. Stoner's pitching was not unimpressive, but his support was. The reliable Foy Frazier, who has been doing fielding things in a big way, made a mess out of Brickell's homer, although the strong wind seemed to bother him. Foy was like a flash in getting back to where the ball landed, but after he turned around he allowed it to trickle away. The fielding on both sides was ragged.

The Hooligans gave the Regulars a scare in the ninth when Flagstead reached second with the tying run. With two out, Jim Mosolf hoisted one to short center and it looked like a tied game, but the fleet Grantham grabbed the loft in the nick of time.

MAY TRADE HERMAN

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 14.—(AP.)—Angered over Babe Herman's refusal to sign a contract, President Frank B. York, of the Brooklyn Robins, threatens to put the slugging outfielder on the baseball block.

York said he would try to trade Herman for another outfielder within the next few days unless Herman decides to sign a contract at $15,000 a year. He is holding out for $25,000.

Six rookies have been released by Manager Wilbert Robinson. John Krider, Jim Richardson and Mickey McKay, pitchers; Infielder Bob Reis, Outfielder Joe Vance and Catcher Vincent Liddy were the first to feel the managerial axe. All were sent to the Macon Club, Brooklyn farm, strings being attached to Reis and Krider.

Tilden Wins, Gains Nice Tourney Final

NICE, France, March 14.—(AP.)—Bill Tilden entered the final of the Nice singles tennis championship today, defeating Giorgio De Stafani, third ranking Italian, 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

A semi-finals women's singles match between Helen Jacobs and Madame Mathieu, the French champion, was postponed, Miss Jacobs having been taken slightly ill last night. Her physician was reserving as to when she will be able to play.

DICK BARTELL TALKS IT OVER

Dick on the scene to talk over the situation. Dick since has accepted terms and is in the lineup. He hit a single and a triple in yesterday's game.

Facts and Fancies About Our New Bucs

NO. 11—LIL STONER, PITCHER

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 14.—Sometimes you need only to scratch the surface to find the hidden treasure; more often, perhaps, you have to dig deeply. And so it is with human nature. In the camp of the Pirates there are several players whose personality sparkles. Urged by a conventional question or two, they will "pop off" in such a manner as to disclose interesting sidelights that whet the fans' appetites. But more frequently one will run into natures that are harder to penetrate.

Lil Stoner

Consider the case of Ulysses Simpson (Lil) Stoner. This quiet pitcher is a typical Texan in many respects, yet he runs Clyde Barnhart a close second for seeking the obscure corners of the hotel. Converse with Lil and you quickly become convinced that his life has been prosaic. You feel a bit sorry for him and eventually conclude, "Well, he probably grew up in an out-of-the-way place in the wilds of Texas with no other boys or girls with whom to play, and that's the reason he doesn't mix well."

"Yes, I was born in a little Texas town," drolls Lil—and thus far part of your deductions are 100 per cent.

"I can't say it was so quiet around our house though," continues the pitcher. "There were 18 children in our family, so Ma and Pa and the rest of us were not very lonesome."

After letting fly with this fast one, Lil has deftly sent the interviewer back to his dugout with his bat on his shoulder. "Strike three, yer out!"

"There were 11 boys," resumes Lil, "but I'm the only one that ever stepped out into baseball."

"Where did I get that nickname?"

"Well, you see it was this way. One of my little brothers had a terrible time trying to say Ulysses. The nearest he could get was "Lil" and I reckon that was good enough for the folks at home and it stuck."

It was the fortune, or misfortune, of Lil to be a Tiger pitcher during the stormy reign of Tyrus the Great. One of the most brilliant of players, Cobb was not a big success as a manager. It has been said that Ty would rush in from center, grab the ball out of the hand of a faltering pitcher and carry on in such a manner as to inspire anything but confidence in his sharpshooters. Well, Stoner was a part of this reign—he likes Cobb, and he won't say much about his experiences. The new Pirate is getting close to 30 and he looks the part of a real pitcher.

"My folks leaned toward patriotic names," mused Stoner. "We had a Ben Franklin Stoner, a George Washington Stoner, a William Henry Harrison Stoner—and I could keep this up for a long time.

"Getting with the Pirates I figure is the best break in my baseball career. Oh, yes, I forgot to mention that my oldest brother has 11 kids," he concluded.—CHARLES J. DOYLE.

BARTELL SENT TO REGULARS

By Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 14.—It didn't take Dick Bartell long to horn into the shortstop job on the regular Pirate team. Manager Jewel Ens announced this morning that Dick would be at his old post this afternoon in the fifth game of the camp series. Bartell was so impressive yesterday that he naturally crowded all his rivals away from the post.

Dick, it appears, did not come to Paso Robles like a lot of ballplayers do when they hold out. Richard, the Lionhearted, was smart enough to keep his arm in good shape, and any boy of his age should not need more than one day to reach condition.

Bartell had had little or no hitting practice before yesterday's scrap, yet he waltzed up to the plate and slammed a hook against the left-center fence for three bases. Many players will tell you it takes much longer for one to get his eye sharpened for curves, but Bartell threw applesauce all over this contention.

It doesn't mean, however, that Sankey, Engle and Clarke are out of the shortfield reckoning. Far from it. It simply means that Ens wants to see how the new infield works with Peppery Dick in the Wagnerian role.

Chillysauce

Gus Suhr isn't one of those Charley Grimm persons who keep popping off all afternoon, and Forbes Field fans realize that Bonds Grantham doesn't talk out of turn on or off the field. Would that Boots were more impulsive, especially on the batting ground. Traynor is a paragon of animated pep in his actions, but he doesn't do much yapping. Bartell, then, will be free to split zinger all over the infield parade. Charley Engle will move to second on the second team lineup.

Fred Brickell appears to have given Manager Ens a ponderous problem. In the absence of Lloyd Waner, The Wichita whirlwind is hitting the ball so ferociously that many wonder just how Ens can keep him on the bench when Lloyd returns. And Frederick has made himself a spirited outfielder since he came to the big show. Here we have a lad who reached the main tent while he was to his teens, he is still a boy, but he knows a lot about baseball. You will find members of the Pittsburgh team who will wager that Brickell can outstep anybody in the National League in doing the hundred-yards, and in the short distance between the plate and first he is so close to Brother Lloyd that you can scarcely draw a hair between the two.

Brick, perhaps, is faster than Lloyd on the complete distance of the paths, as he has a better running form and therefore takes the turns better than the lighter sprinter.

Paul Waner was struck on the right leg with a thrown bat in yesterday morning's workout. The bump caused him considerable pain, but he was able to stay in the game.

ROWLEY RETAINED

GREENVILLE, Pa.—March 14.—Robert (Tink) Rowley, coach of Thiel College's football team, has signed a contract to return here next season.

SAYLOR - MALCO MEET AGAIN TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The fight for which the local fans have been clamoring for many weeks is on the boards at the Moose Temple tonight and promises to provide another sell-out of the limited capacity of the downtown arena. It is between Tom Malco, of Soho, and Young Saylor, of Charleroi. Recently, in the same ring, Saylor outpointed Malco by a wide margin, but his opponent received the decision to the accompaniment of a storm of disapproval by the fans. Since then Saylor has further won his way into the hearts of the Moose fans by handing a beating to Gene Moretti, highly-touted Atlantic City boxer, and he will enter the ring the favorite to outbox Malco tonight.

For a time it appeared as if Malco was afraid to risk another meeting with Saylor, but he stepped back into the picture by demanding the return battle to satisfy himself and the fans that he really is Saylor's master. He plans to fight a different sort of a bout against Saylor tonight, carrying the scrap to the latter and crowding him so much that Saylor's famed versatile left hand will not be able to keep him off.

A good preliminary card has been arranged, with Jackie Wilson, of Jersey City, boxing Charley Tarzan, of Rochester, Pa., in the semi-final, Joe Zink, of McKees Rocks, meeting Tommy Ward, of the South Side, in the second event, and Jimmy Thomas, of the Hill, engaging Georgie Tomosky, of Wilmerding, in the opener.

Between Rounds

Jackie Rodgers has agreed to make 122 pounds for his bout with Archie Bell, of New York, at Motor Square Garden one week from next Monday night, and if the battle now is definitely on. The contracts have been signed. Bell will be here several days in advance of the battle and will work out in Flynn's gymnasium.

Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, wants to fight Andy Farmer. Benny Bustach, manager of Peaches, issued the challenge this morning.

The next start of Tommy Crawley, South side lightweight, who now is fighting out of New York, will be against Jerry Costa at Jersey City next Monday night. Costa recently boxed a draw with Al Ridgway.

Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Temple, is trying to sign Johnny Pisl, of Greenville, Pa., as Buck McTiernan's opponent in the latter's return to the ring next Friday night. Johnny Windsor was considered, but this match fell through.

In addition to a scrap between Mose Butch, new national junior amateur bantamweight champion, and an opponent to be selected, the following bouts have been arranged for the striking tankers' debut: Johnny Shoss vs. Jimmy Thompson, eight rounds of next week; Max Elling vs. John Price, 140 pounds; Tony Marino vs. Lawrence Lyons, 112; Frank Cimolo vs. Paul Nemo, 112; Sam Aslo vs. Joe Bazzano, 126; Chuck Mullins vs. Harry Sing, 147; Joe Kladkos vs. Stanley Welsh, 135; Al Vanguru vs. Kid Sterling, 118; Bob Rupert vs. Ugo Valaserre, 130; Charles Lute vs. Buck Turner, 175; Claire Repole vs. Marty Mehalic, 126, and Bobby Barnes vs. Leonard Payne, 120.

Gorilla Jones bosses Myer Grace at Akron, O., tonight, with Chet Smallwood meeting Johnny Kirb in one of the preliminaries. Tony Canzoneri and Stanislaus Loayza ing off a title to Madison Square Garden, New York, with Irish Jackie Fihlington engaging Sammy Dorfman and Vincent Silvestro opposing Charley Rosen in other 10-rounders. Frankie (Kid) Azzalone boxes Fred Monte in a 12-rounder at one of the armories in New York and Carl Cavelli is in with Charley Charonski for an eight-round preliminary.

In other bouts tonight, Sammy Harris boxes Al Howe and Indian Tiger West meets Georgie Nichols in 10-rounders at Erie, with Teddy Hazlett tangling with Johnny Thompson and Johnny Saxon hooking Jackie Shubeck in the preliminaries. Sam Weiss mingles with Jack Regan at Boston and Ernie Schaaf takes on Paul Pantalon. Reno De Vos boxes Clyde Chastain, Harry Dublinsky tangles with Emery Cabana, Harry Fiorro takes on Vidal Gregorio and Frankie Hays goes against Jimmy Lundy in the Chicago Stadium.

The new Duquesne Garden A. C. is at work on its preliminary card for its Joey Goodman-Eddie Brannon show next Wednesday night.

INTERMEDIATE Y. TOURNEY TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN

The Intermediate Y. M. C. A. basketball championship of the Metropolitan District will be settled tonight and tomorrow night in a tournament on the Downtown Y. M. C. A. floor. The first round gets under way this evening at 6 o'clock with the Hill Top Y. Intermediates in action with the North Boroughs Y. Intermediates. Oakland Y. and Allegheny Y. come together in the second game at 7, o'clock, while Homewood-Brushton Y. tangles with Center Avenue at 8 o'clock. Downtown and East Liberty clash in the final battle of the first round at 9 o'clock.

Semi-final and the final game will be staged tomorrow night, the first to start at 7 o'clock.

The tournament brings into action the leading local Y. M. C. A. quintets and fans should be treated to some excellent contests.

Dribbles

The Duquesne Lafayettes will be the attraction of Allentown on the Allentown Turner floor tonight in the only Allegheny County league contest on the program. The Veronas and Ackermans are deadlocked for first place in this circuit. Tomorrow night both leaders go into action, the Lafayettes being the opponents of the Ackermahs, while the Veronas play at Charleroi.

Next Wednesday night Charley Hyatt will lead his Pitt All-Stars against the Goldenoots at the South Side Market House. The undefeated Goldenson Vanities will meet the Pitt Alumnae scalet in the preliminary.

The former members of the Coffey Club are hard at work preparing for their game with the Y. M. H. A.-West Penn Leaguers next Thursday night at the Y. M. H. A. Buck Gefsky, former Coffey guard, is in charge of the arrangements for the game.

The Penn Five has clinched the second half championship of the West Penn League and will meet the Ray Schneiders in a post-season series to determine the titleholder.

Joseph Hornes play at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House tonight in a Central Pittsburgh League fray.

Layden Suffers Burns Fighting Home Blaze

Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Elmer F. Layden, of Duquesne University, today was reported suffering from injuries sustained yesterday when he attempted to put out a blazing curtain in his home in 6 Bower Hill road, Mt. Lebanon. An oven explosion in the kitchen resulted in the fire, it was said. Layden was painfully burned on the hands, his left one being swathed in bandages today. His injuries will not interfere with the Dukes' spring grid practice to be inaugurated Monday.

QUALITY? YES!—and MORE!

Quality tobaccos necessarily are the basis of real enjoyment.

But it takes more than quality to give El Producto that mild yet distinctive character that puts El Producto in a class by itself.

It takes a BLEND that cannot be duplicated.

Not only is the blend uncopyable—it never varies. Consistent quality is not the least pleasure in El Producto's real enjoyment.

Will Re-Locating Plants Insure Steadier Work?

—By B. C. FORBES—

LARGER and fewer manufacturing plants. More distributing centers. That is the trend among gigantic corporations which have acquired factories, usually through mergers, in many localities.

The United States Steel Corporation, the latest to fall into line, believes that the weeding out of smaller plants and the building up of larger plants will make for steadier employment since the larger plants will turn out a wider variety of products.

IN SELF - PRESERVATION American industry is bound to give more consideration hereafter to how its ambitious plans will affect steady employment.

J. P. Morgan, Myron C. Taylor, James A. Farrell and other highly-responsible leaders identified with the steel corporation are aware today, as never before, that the permanent prosperity of the corporation as well as of the country, cannot be attained in dislocation of employment. They know that millions of able-bodied men, willing to work but unable to find work, would become a serious menace. Such armies of unemployed, we can depend upon it, would not choose to starve. They would "start something" infinitely more disturbing to industrial peace and prosperity than the recent Communistic sputterings.

As a matter of fact, it is declared, apparently authoritatively, that the alarming increase in crime has been incited partly by inability to obtain work.

WITH such colossal corporations as U. S. Steel, General Electric and U. S. Rubber adopting this modern policy of doing away with smaller, poorly-located plants, there is bound to be entailed hardships upon many workers rooted by home-ownership and other interests to the "old home town." When General Electric recently switched its lamp-making headquarters from Harrison, N. J., to Cleveland, the company advertised freely that certain classes of workers were available for employment and that these men could be recommended wholeheartedly to other employers.

Other powerful companies closing factories at certain points to enlarge operations elsewhere should do not less than General Electric did. To deprive breadwinners of work and wages through no fault of their own is a most serious matter, more especially when it occurs, as it usually occurs, in communities of only moderate size where other opportunities for earning a livelihood are discouragingly limited.

SAID an executive of one of America's largest railroads to me this week while discussing the rather drastic cutting-down of payrolls necessitated by the marked decrease in traffic and earnings:

"We tried the experiment which has been made successfully, I understand, by some industrial companies, of spreading the work and the pay among all the men, cutting down the hours of all instead of laying off men. But the plan brought emphatic protests. The old-timers felt insulted and outraged. Their attitude was that by long and faithful service they had earned the right to steady employment, and that if any curtailing had to be done, why, of course, the new hands were the ones to be laid off."

"WHEN you think of it," he added, "isn't it strange that this policy is regarded among workmen themselves as the right one to follow? Wouldn't you think that it would be more just to lay off temporarily the men who have longest enjoyed full-time employment and full-time wages rather than the men who have had the shortest time, the poorest chance to get on their feet and fortify themselves against rainy days? Presumably, the men who have long enjoyed unbroken employment would be best able to stand a spell of unemployment.

"But, no; our men wouldn't submit to any departure from their accepted code that the first to go must be the last to be employed. So we had to give up our idea of spreading the work and the wages among everybody."

JUST what is the equitable rule to follow, particularly at a time like this when employes laid off have disheartenlngly little chance of immediately finding other jobs?

MOTOR EXPORT TREND UPWARD

WASHINGTON, March 14.—An increase of $3,983,095 or 14.7 per cent in the value of automotive products exported from the United States during January to $31,166,674, as compared with the preceding month, was reported today by the Department of Commerce. A decrease of $16,426,981 from January of the preceding year was noted, however.

Combined passenger car and truck shipments during the first month of the year were valued at $18,690,729, an increase of $2,027,385 over December, but $7,145,107 under January of last year.

The $12,475,945 total for other automotive products was $1,955,710 above the previous month's total and $21,757,819 under the corresponding month of last year.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP.)—Cheap money and a broadening inquiry from institutional sources, including banks, sent the bond market spinning upward today in an exceptionally active session. Turnover during the early trading was at a marked increase over yesterday, which had been the busiest session of the year.

NEW YORK, March 14. — (AP.) — Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted, in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Swing Up — Copperweld Steel Up

STOCKS AGAIN STAGE BROAD ADVANCE

Further Relaxation in Credit Conditions Paves Way for Market Rise

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP.)—A further relavation in credit conditions, arising from the reduction in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent and the heavy accumulation of funds here in anticipation of March 15 tax payments, furnished the impetus for another broad advance in prices in today's stock market. A sprinkling of issues, including a few high priced specialties, showed conspicuous weakness. Trading was in fairly heavy volume.

Call money renewed at 3½ per cent for the first time since January 25, 1928, and then dropped to 3 per cent, the lowest official rate in nearly four years. Outside funds were available as low as 2¾ per cent, despite some calling of loans by out-of-town banks. Time money rates eased in sympathy, and some dealers again reduced bankers' acceptances ⅛ of 1 per cent, the fifth similar cut in the last fortnight.

BEARS MEET RESISTANCE

While Wall street's first reaction to the lower money rates was bullish, some observers placed a bearish interpretation on the change, pointing out that the lower rates were caused by the relatively low commercial demand for funds and the necessity of providing some stimulus to business. Efforts of bearish professionals to unsettle the market, however, met with strong resistance. Judging by the borrowing demand for stocks, the short interest in some of the leading speculative issues has reached large proportions.

Further heaviness again developed in some of the commodity markets, wheat futures selling off a cent or more a bushel in the early trading, and this tended to restrain bullish operations in stocks.

OILS STRONG

The oils, which had not participated extensively in the recent "bull" market, again gave an impressive demonstration of strength. Recent favorable trade developments have revived speculative activity in those issues, and led to the formation of several new pools in the oil stocks. With a few minor exceptions, practically all of the leading petroleum shares, including the Standard Oil issues, Sinclair Simms, Phillips and Richfield, moved into new high ground for the year.

A. M. Byers, Atlas Powder, American Tobacco "B," Peoples Gas, Auburn Auto and Texas and Pacific Land Trust were marked up 4 or 5 points. Electric Power and Light, which is reported to be engaged in natural gas merger negotiations, ran up more than 3 points to a new high at 80. General Refractories, Warren Bros., Checker Cab, International Match preferred and Airways Appliance also reached new high ground.

U. S. STEEL RALLIES

Buying of United States Steel common received some stimulus from the announcement that a joint congressional committee on internal revenue taxation had approved a refund of more than $33,500,000 for back taxes, and that the Treasury Department would allow the credit on Saturday. United States Steel common, after settling down to 179¼, rallied above 182.

Otis Elevator broke nearly 10 points, J. I. Case 8, and Crucible Steel, Worthington Pump and International Telephone sold down 2 points or more, heaviness of the last-named being attributed to new stock financing. Standard brands sank below 23 to a new 1930 low on selling presumably inspired by the disappointing 1929 report.

Bank Acceptances Reduced Further

NEW YORK, March 14.—Following closely upon four previous reductions, the lowering of the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate to 3½ per cent, and the further easiness in call money, the rates for bankers' acceptances were lowered again today.

Five reductions, each one of ⅛ of 1 per cent, have been made in the past two weeks. The new rates are as follows: 30 to 120 days, 3¼ per cent bid, 3⅛ per cent asked, and 150 to 180 days, 3⅜ per cent bid and 3¼ per cent asked.

Orders Pipe From U. S. Steel Corp.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Southern Natural Gas Corporation has placed an order with United States Steel Corporation for 60 miles of 6-inch welded steel pipe for a branch line which will serve natural gas to Meridian, Miss. It is expected that this line will be completed and in operation on or before June 1.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 14.—Wheat prices underwent a material setback all around early today, influenced by reports of scattered showers Southwest and by weakness of quotations at Liverpool. Besides, there was persistent selling of May wheat here on account of possibilities of shipments to Chicago from Kansas City and of complications from track deliveries here. Starting unchanged to 2 cents lower, Chicago wheat futures showed general downturns later. Corn touched a new low-price record for the season, opening ⅜ to 1¼ cents off, but afterward recovering. Oats were easy. Provisions declined.

Fresh breaks occurred in wheat values today in the face of assertions that scantiness of world shipments this week would be likely to result in further decrease of the amount of wheat on ocean passage, a circumstance which ordinarily would tend to strengthen wheat prices abroad. On the other hand, a good deal of notice was being taken that government-sponsored agencies might be called upon to pay for more than the present Chicago stock of wheat and to accept delivery of car lots on railroad tracks here, owing to congestion of elevators.

Selling pressure on Chicago May wheat contracts also was increased at times today by talk current that if crop damage occurred, July and September deliveries would benefit most, and that if no serious injury to crops developed May wheat would have little chance to advance. Meanwhile, aside from trifling amounts of Canadian wheat bought for Europe, export business overnight from North America appeared to be virtually at a halt.

PITTSBURGH'S MOST UNUSUAL ANNIVERSARY

MAY-STERN'S 24th BIRTHDAY

A Potted Growing Shamrock FREE

The Shamrock is the symbol of May-Stern's Birthday. Following our usual custom, in observance of our Opening on St. Patrick's Day, March 17th, 1906, we will again this year distribute thousands of natural growing Shamrocks, raised from seed imported from Ireland and planted in two-inch pots. Every visitor to the store Saturday and Monday receives one with our compliments.

OPEN UNTIL 9 P. M. SATURDAY

Tomorrow Heralds the Opening

All Pittsburgh Celebrates the May-Stern 24th Birthday. It is the most unusual event of its kind in the country. Unusual in the manner in which it is conducted. Unusual are the Values that draw such tremendous throngs. Unusual are the souvenirs (natural growing shamrocks) distributed every year since the Opening on St. Patrick's Day in 1906. Unusual are the Liberal Terms. Unusual are the special features. No wonder, this unusual event creates such intense excitement in Pittsburgh.

WHEN A MAN FACES THE WORLD . . .

Most people take us for what we seem to be . . .

They form an opinion of us and let it go at that . . .

They listen closely to the man who makes the best impression . . .

They take into their confidence the chap who seems most likeable . . .

The manner in which a man faces the world is mighty important . . .

His appearance may welcome opportunity, friendship, happiness . . .

Or it may turn them away . . .

With such an understanding of men and things, Fintex builds its clothes . . .

The picture of the man who faces the world is ever before us . . .

To give him that smartness which we feel plays such an essential part in the scheme of life, is our defined purpose . . .

CHICKIE

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Barry Says He Can't Marry Chickie for Years

CHAPTER XXXIII.

IT was the night of Bess Abbot's marriage. Chickie was invited to the ceremony. Barry, protesting, but agreeable, escorted her. Aware of his reluctance, but swept with the unconcerned joy of a woman in the forthcoming spectacle, she marched him down the long aisle of the church to the third pew. She was sweetly but firmly determined to "see everything." She whispered to him brightly: "Aren't we lucky—so near."

He winked: "Why didn't you take me to the altar and make a good job of it?"

She answered thrilled: "I may do that little thing yet!"

A pleased, hushed ripple of excitement murmured up from the vestibule. Stately marceled heads turned up. The organ sent forth deep, awakening notes of music, vibrant through the edifice as a mighty, elemental voice of prayer. The bride was coming.

Chickie stood on her toes, rapt with excitement. The twins, in big picture hats, dresses of rose and amber, bright as flowers; then Janina, all in gold, the black eyes and olive skin warmed and softened. She walked with a careless brilliance that made the wistful delicacy of the slim Elizabeth, in her white veil and long, shimmering train, appealing and a little pathetic.

Her pale, transparent hand on the arm of her stepfather; her head lowered like a soft, white lily swaying on its graceful stem she seemed to Chickie a symbol of love—pure, beautiful, uncertain. Her heart rejoiced with the instinctive, half sad sense of triumph women experience at a wedding.

She allowed herself to be carried onward with the music, step by step, her imagination kindling until it no longer was a dark, bobbed head under the veil of lace. It was she—Chickie—trembling, but with thundering heart, standing pale and golden at the altar. It was Barry taking her hand. She closed her eyes, drawing her breath with a little gasp. She fumbled for her handkerchief.

He nudged her, grinning: "All touched up, are we?"

Chickie Dreams

She walked out of the church, holding his arm, deep in the exquisite pain of the dream.

When they sat before the fire in the little living room he said, laughing: "But tell me this, why do the dear frails always weep at a wedding?"

"It's so beautiful. It means so much. It lifts you right out of yourself. Oh, I don't know but it made me think of two people going out together—alone into a world where no one had ever been before and there's something so brave and glorious about that."

"Only it ain't, these days! They leave the gate back wide open and they buy round-trip tickets in case they don't like the new country well enough to stay."

"Not every one! Don't you think they'll be happy?"

"Sure they will. If not with each other—with someone else."

"Janina says that's all a pose with Bess. She's not half as bored and sophisticated as she sounds. Underneath she's really an idealist."

"But when her ideals interfere with her desires, out they'll go! Mark my words for that."

Chickie answered absently: "She seemed like an angel to me."

Her thoughts loitered deliciously at the lighted altar, the candles glowing like holy smiles over the flowers. What a sacred moment to stand—the two of them—their hands together—before an altar. How tender and beautiful these mighty promises. Love and to cherish—always.

Swept far out in this deep tide of emotion, she whispered: "Barry—did you wish anything tonight?"

"I wish something right now."

"What?"

"That you'd kiss me."

Love Each Other

"But I mean when they were standing together and were giving the promises."

"Listen—don't hold your head down when you ask sweet words like that. Look up. There, keep your eyes open—so pretty she is!"

"Answer what I asked, Barry—please." She felt her heart melting. She reached her hand to his neck and drew his head down. "Did you?"

He was laughing, his eyes close to hers, intent and warm—a flush straining his forehead: "Meaning, sweet one, did I wish it were thee and I?"

"Oh—did you wish that?"

"Do I?"

"Now, Barry, right away, and not wait the four or five years?"

"Now, Chickie—" She sank in his arms, overpowered and stilled with the tumult of her feelings. He murmured, "Yes—I wished that!"

She crept softly into her room that night, moving as in a golden light. She knelt before the open window. Because of the happiness in her heart, so deep so piercing, she cried.

He loved her as much as she loved him. The look in his face—his lips parted—

She saw him walking down the block, buoyant as a morning breeze. She heard him whispering as he left: "You're the dearest thing in the world." The sweet echoes chimed in her thought. She couldn't sleep.

Nor could Barry Dunne sleep. He walked up and down his room, hands in his pockets. He took off his collar and flung it on the chiffonier.

And he paused, seeing Chickie's beautiful eyes tremulous, hand, warm as velvet, reaching to his neck. A smile spread over his face. Ah—the sweet angel—pretty head against his shoulder. She loved him like that—wanted him now.

He began to walk again. Finally he sat on the edge of the bed and kicked off his shoes. He was cold, filled with uneasiness. He got into bed and began to read.

The words brought no thought to his crowded mind. He turned his pages viciously, saying to himself "Hell!"

He had a spent feeling—a burning agitation as he went back over the scene in the little living room. He wondered if he had agreed to marry Chickie without waiting. Did she take his impulsive wish as a promise? Did she accept it as definitely settled now?

Barry Determined

He could feel the yielding sweetness of her arms about his neck. He tried to shake his head free. She couldn't think that. He had already told her definitely. He had no money. He had his mother dependent upon him.

He would tell her again—make it plain. He would have to. No use evading—

An idea of himself standing on a bluff pursued by a hurricane, by a flame, held his thoughts trembling. But he would not jump—not into that. The prospect of marriage repelled him. He wasn't ready for it. He had work before him. The success of his whole life demanded these few years of unhampered effort. He dared not throw them away. He wouldn't. No one should ask it—

Tomorrow after lunch he would ask Chickie to take a walk. He would find out what she thought. No sooner was this decision established than his sensitive imagination brought her before him, sweet face turned to his with the tender, gentle acquiescence that had flushed his veins like wine. Now he could see her eyes cowering from him in the hurt he would give.

He tossed the magazine to the floor, switched out the light.

Noon the next day, Chickie waited at the table. She watched men and girls getting their trays. Smiles played in and out about her lips.

Chickie Hurt

One o'clock he hadn't come. Just the day she wanted—oh, so much, to see him. In a grieved rush of disappointment, tears sprang into her eyes.

All afternoon she kept glancing across the alley. Her ardent wish failed to bring him from the shadow.

That night he phoned. He was busy. No, he couldn't come—well—he didn't know about tomorrow—

"Barry — you sound so far away!" A shy laugh. "Why, you sound frozen"—

"I'm tired, Chickie — that's all."

The next day she ate alone. But at five o'clock he met her. He was pale—lines at his full-cut, winsome mouth.

"Thought we could go out tomorrow night, Chickie, but I've not finished. Awful lot of work. You see, Tufts is away—I'm doing all his stuff. Great chance for me"—

"So many things I wanted to talk about, Barry—you know." The wistful, young girl eagerness of her lighted all anew the warmth in his senses.

He said with impetuous ardor, "Ah listen, Chickie—we'll have to talk about all those sweet things. They'll keep, won't they? You know we've a long time—we've years and years just for talking, haven't we?"

He saw then, just for a moment, what he hated to see—her eyes taking the hurt, covering it quickly.

She said blithely, "Oh, my, yes! No hurry at all—at all."

Riding home in the car, the full sweep of it went through her. Years and years just to talk in.

She held a newspaper rigid and motionless before her. Oh, she knew what he meant. She took the barb and drove its point, cruel and ruthless, through her heart.

A whole week she ate alone. Each night he phoned. This only made her bitter. Yet at noon her feet drew her with aching desperation to the cafeteria.

One day looking down at the bracelet he had given her for Christmas—a thin gold band with lacy carving and a pretty amethyst in the center—looking at it through misted eyes, she saw a form moving to her table, sitting opposite.

With a racing gladness flushing her face, she raised her head, heard a rich, kind voice: "That look for me, Chickie, my dear?"

It was Jake.

In her pique and loneliness she turned with a hard gayety to Jake.

"Was that look for your long-lost Jake, Chickie?"

"Of course! Do you think I cast smiles like that into empty space?"

"I thank you, my dear. I'm not too particular. Chickie, I've a brilliant hunch. Take a sneak from work this afternoon. Fine days like this the gods meant us to enjoy."

Jake was in his most exuberant spirits—all flash and smile. His pleased glance going over in warm open admiration touched her like sun shooting through bleak shadow — balm to her sore, young pride.

She said gayly: "Oh, do the gods whisper all their secret hopes to you?"

"I should say! I'm kept in touch with all the higher ups. I assure you Providence decrees you shall ride into the country with one very good friend and have dinner at a little old wayside inn."

"Well—I'd love that well enough."

"Be a sport, then If Mitchell raises a fuss, tell him to go to! Tell him your grandmother's uncle died and left you a fortune and if he wants to can you, pish—you should worry! We'll kill the uncle and get the fortune!"

"I take it, Mr. Jake—"

"Look here—can't you remember a man's name from one day to another?"

"I say 'Mr.' as a term of affection."

"I'll find you a better one than that, my dear! But proceed, omitting affection."

"I take it, Jake, something very salubrious happened to you today."

"It happened just a moment ago, when I caught something that's mine now, whether it was meant for me or not. Here, you don't want that stale looking stuff!! You've been toying with it for the last 10 minutes. We're on our way!" He picked up her purse, stuck it in his pocket, hurried her down the cool, half-dark hallway. "We'll have a day to be remembered."

"Give me the purse, Jake, and cease your raving."

But he stopped before a telephone booth at the entrance of the building: "Step in there, Helena, and tell your little lie to Mitchell. Now! It's all settled. Why, Chickie, one would think you had a hundred lives to live the way you throw aside joy. Only young and fair once in this vale of tears. I'll bet you haven't missed a day's work since you started. Why, I wouldn't give a snap for the girls in my office if they didn't wheedle me out of five or six days in a year!"

"But I shouldn't, Jake. I know I shouldn't."

"That's one very good reason why you should. This sense of duty is a fatal handicap to happiness. Step in! I'm going to have you down the line with me this afternoon if I pick you up bodily and carry you off screaming."

Fay King Explains Why She Does Not Indulge in Hysterical Laughter

By FAY KING

SOMETIMES in a theater or a restaurant someone will break into hysterical laughter from which she doesn't seem able to recover.

It is often quite infectious and everyone will join in this general "gaiety." I alone am considered a sour-souled individual.

But this is because I have read of cases where this has ended in tragedy.

It is a highly nervous condition, and must be controlled as soon as possible. The important thing is to stop them, not encourage them.

It was in this way the grandmother of Joseph Jefferson died. Witnessing some comic antics at a play, she grew hysterical. The result was convulsions from which she died.

Little children should never be tickled or teased until they grow hysterical.

Madge Probes for Truth About Attack

"SHALL I try?" I asked Lillian when she had told me that Noel was asleep and that the next thing was to get Mary away from the bedside. She nodded and I stole into the bedroom, taking care to approach the bed from a position where Mary could see me before I reached her. I knew that her nerves were at a dangerously high tension and I did not wish to risk any ejaculation from her. A look at her white, tense face showed me that the strain of sitting motionless, bent over to clasp Noel's hand, was telling upon her muscles as well as her nerves. I had provided myself with a pencil and a pad of paper, and, when I had attracted her attention I wrote a message in large letters upon the top sheet of the pad and held it out to her.

"Mary, Noel is asleep, and you must change your position for a little."

She shook her head in violent negation, and I wrote another message and held it before her eyes.

"You shall come back to him in a few minutes. I promise it. Now that he is asleep he will rest better if his hand is loosened from yours, and I want you to have some coffee before you come back here. Remember, he is in no danger and Mr. Underwood will watch him every minute that you are gone. I will make him promise not to move until you come back."

Purposely I had made no suggestion that she go to bed for the rest of the night, as I hoped later to persuade her to do. But she was in a state of mind and body when humoring her was the only thing I could do. But I counted much on the intense fatigue which must be hers and the craving need of a stimulant like hot coffee which I knew she must feel.

She read my message over slowly, then her eyes traveled back to the beginning and she read it again. She looked up at me, bent her head toward Noel's hand tightly clasped in her own and then looked up at me again, inquiry in her eyes. I hurriedly scrawled another message:

"Loosen one finger at a time very cautiously. If he stirs even an eyelid stop. If he doesn't, free first one hand and then the other. He is already resting on the bed, so you won't have to move it back."

She nodded again, and for what seemed an hour, but was in reality but a few minutes, she loosened her fingers from the sleeping boy's hand. At last she was free, and I put my arms around her, and, lifting her from her seat, half carried her into the living room. Once there she stopped and whispered:

"Make Mr. Underwood promise."

"I'll tell Mrs. Underwood," I whispered back. "She won't let him stir."

The wraith of a smile flitted across Mary's face and I saw that the unnatural tension was lessening. With my arm around her, I beckoned to Lillian and when she had crossed to us I murmured the ultimatum I had promised Mary.

"If Harry will not move from his post or take his eyes from Noel while we are gone Mary will come over with me for some coffee," I said.

"He'll not move unless he faints," Lillian returned in equally low tones. "And if he does I promise you, Mary, that I shall let him lie prone on the floor while I watch Noel."

"I suppose I'm—" Mary began wistfully, but I swung her away upon the words and fled her out of the door and into our apartment before I answered her.

"You're so good to me, Auntie Madge," she sighed gratefully, and I saw that she was fast getting hold of herself again. I hurried the drawing of the bath, which I liberally scented with my very best bath salts, and when she had finished the hot tub and cold shower I rubbed her briskly and put her into the clothing I had prescribed. Then I gave her the coffee I had promised, adding some slices of cinnamon toast, a favorite dish of hers. It was not until she had finished two cups of the coffe and all of the toast and was looking quite like herself again that I put a question with outward casualness, but real nervousnes.

"Mary, could you tell me now what happened tonight? We ought to know as soon as possible."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Mrs. Solomon's Sayings

VERILY, my daughter, unto a man, love is a matter of chance; a wife, a matter of speculation; and disappointment, a matter of course.

Now, behold, there dwelt in Babylon, a Gilded Youth, who was known as Eligible, in the secret archives of the damsels.

Lo, his name was in many telephone lists, and he might have had his choice amongst them all.

And it came to pass that, on a night when the clouds were thick and the wind was piercing and the stars were hidden with mist, he sallied forth in search of diversion.

And it so happened that, on that evening, he had eaten too heartily, and his food lay heavy upon his soul. Moreover, he had toiled all day in the marketplace, and his flesh and his spirit were weary.

* * *

And ill-fortune had pursued him; and he had read in his newspaper that his pet stock had dropped seven points.

And the cigar which he was smoking was of the wrong brand, and he had had no wine with his dinner.

* * *

Yet, it chanced that, upon this night, of all others, he met the Girl of his Dreams; even her, for whom he had been searching all the days of his life. But, alas, his eyes were turned inward, and he SAW her not!

Yea, though she was fairer than the rose of morning and sweeter than the voice of Rudy Vallee, and more worthy than a charity fund, he passed her by, without notice. For such is Karma.

And lo, upon another night, the Gilded Youth again went forth in search of pleasure. And, it so chanced that the April moon was at the full.

And the stars were smiling; and the breeze was sweet and mild; and the heart of Eligible was singing.

For, in the market that day he had made a "killing." And the team on which he had bet was winner.

* * *

And his dinner had been perfect and the cocktails good; and the cigar which he smoked was his favorite brand. And, his stomach was at peace, and his soul mounted on wings.

And it came to pass on this night of nights, he met a damsel with a baby-stare and yellow hair and a dimpled knee and one brain-cell. And her name was called Gold-Digger.

And, lo, in his eyes, she appeared more beautiful than a chorus of houris and more irresistible than a mint julep.

And the Gilded Youth was smitten and FELL for her. Yea, he covered her with his illusions and besought her to marry him. And, behold, all the rest of his days were spent in utter wretchedness and remorse.

* * *

For this, my Daughter, is what some men call "love," and others call "luck," and others call "Fate!" SELAH.

The White House Gang

and Unicorn, fighting for the Crown. For here, Q's neck and ours were saved. . . . There was a certain boy, older than ourselves, whom the Gang did not like. It makes no difference as to whether we were right or wrong in the matter. Q described him best, in his inimitable mimicry, " 'Have you seen a cawf, going down the pawth, to take a bawth?' he says, and the next minute he forgets himself and says, 'Have you seen a caalf, going down the paath, to take a baath?' That sort of a feliah!"

We could no more resist pursuing this senior from school to the doorstep of his home, than we could disregard the wet snow which lay upon the ground.

"Whock him!" Cried Q, in ecstasy and excitement, pressing a lump of snow together between his knees, "Whock him!"

An Accident

The boy retreated with precipitation, and we after him shouting loudly. Q let fly his hard one; a carriage suddenly interposed; there was a crash of glass; the horses, sparks striking from their shoes, were reined up, and an old lady opened the carriage door and put out her long and very indignant face.

"I'm t-e-r-r-i-b-l-y sorry!" Q explained to her. "I wasn't aiming at you at all——"

"I might have been seriously hurt," she snapped. "Evidently you are a dangerous boy. I can see, by looking at you, that you ought to be kept off the streets. What's your name, and where do you live? You shall be made to pay for this outrage! Come, answer me!"

Q drew himself up, controlling himself admirably. "I'm "I'm Quentin Roos-e-velt," he said distinctly, "I live in the White House, and I'll pay for your darned old window, out of my allowance . . ."

"Why, you horrid little liar!" cried the old lady, shaking her long jet earrings. "I have half a mind to have you arrested for that! Why! This is too much to stand! That's outrageous! Imagine a young rag-tag-and-bob-tail pretending such a thing. . . ."

"These clothes I'm wearing, are only my second-best—" Q explained, as he imagined, with finality.

Policeman Approaches

Dick Chew was only partially successful in stifling a guffaw, and the outraged dowager turned upon him. "And you, young man," she said with biting sarcasm, "whom do you represent yourself to be?"

Dick was instantly serious. "I am the son of Christopher Columbus," he answered, with an important air.

Q gave Dick a quick, reproachful look, and at the same instant we saw a policeman rapidly crossing Dupont Circle in our direction. The Gang, as with one mind, instantly divined the old lady's sinister purpose—that of holding us in conversation until the policeman could get his hands on Q.

The Gang clutched Q, and started to drag him away, arguing loudly the advantages of instant flight.

"She's an old —old—wallaby!" Q said. "Still, I ought not to go.....I should stay and explain to the cop that it was an accident. But she deserves to have her old glass whocked, anyway!"

By this time we had succeeded in herding Q some 20 feet along the line of escape. Meanwhile, the policeman had heard enough from the angry occupant of the carriage to cause him to call to us, "Hey, come back here!" He took a step towards us, and the Gang broke and ran.

"Come back here, if you know what's good for you!" the policeman shouted harshly.

The Chase

"Just for that," Q cried, white and trembling, "I won't!" Bounding after us, he yelled. "Beat it! Run!"

Down Connecticut avenue we ran, the policeman pounding along after us, and across the slippery car tracks, to the opposite sidewalk. We were sprinting with all our strength, but the policeman was gaining . . .

"Turn in the gate!" Q cried, between gasps. "Turn in the gate, at the end of the block! The gate! The gate!"

There was only one gate, that of the little front garden of the British Embassy, and we swung around into it, as though we were pioneers, pursued by savages, to the shelter of a stockade.

"Sanctuary!" Q cried with exultation, and sobbing breath.

There was no time to ask him to explain the word. It was a Quentinism, one supposed; besides, the policeman was now upon us.

British Territory

"Don't you dare come in here!" Q cried, in an altogether new tone of authority. "This is British territory."

To our amazement, the policeman halted abruptly outside the row of iron pikes, with the cast halberd fringes. "What do you know about that?" he asked, doffing his helmet and wiping his forehead with the back of his hand. "Don't get fresh now! Come on out o' there. You've just broke a carriage window an' I'm going to —"

"You're going to do nothing," Q said decisively. "And we're not coming out. You can't come in here, and you know you can't. We can because—well, because we're diplomatic guests here. My Father is a great friend of the Ambassador, and he said I could come and see him any time I liked, and bring my friends. You'll have to go to a telephone to ask permission to come in—which you won't get—or write a letter. That would be better, really—"

"You're talking nonsense," said the policeman, yet making no move to enter the garden.

"Tell that to Maj. Sylvester," Q suggested. "He's a great friend of mine—personally. Tell him I broke that cab-window, I did. I gave the old lady my name, and I'm going to pay for it . . . but I am not going to be a-r-r-e-s-t-e-d for it. No boy should ever be arrested!"

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

'How Do You Do!'

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Should you wear a class ring on your left or right hand?

2. When should you eat salad? I think before the main dish.

3. Please tell me a new way of introducing and meeting a boy. I think "How do you do" is rather common. CINNY.

THIS is as you wish, unless the class suggests or votes the finger on which they prefer to have it worn.

2. Customarily the salad course is the course between the main course and the dessert. In some parts of the country, however, the salad is served as the first course. Often, too, the salad is served with the main course, as part of the course.

3. When you are introducing a boy to a girl, this is the very best form to use: "Miss Lady, may I present Mr. Gentleman?" or "Miss Lady, may I introduce Mr. Gentleman?" Or, if you wish to have the introduction more casual, more informal, you may mention only the names: "Miss Lady, Mr. Gentleman."

Now about the words to use when we are acknowledging an introduction—"How do you do" is the accepted form. It is always right, always in good form, always in good taste. I make this so emphatic because of your last sentence, which is rather absurd. I don't know what you mean by saying that this form is "common;" it is, indeed, if by "common" you mean commonly, usually, used. It should always be used. And if it is used we will then avoid using the taboo forms, such as "Pleased to meet you," or "Charmed, I'm sure," or "Glad to know you," or such terrible ways of acknowledging an introduction. Cling to the use of "How do you do"—and you will be right.

Drinking Bouillon

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please tell me whether or not it is proper to lift the bouillon cup to the lips, or should one use a spoon only? A few weeks ago I attended a dinner at which time cream soup, rather thick but clear, was served. I drank mine from the cup, but the majority just used a spoon. Toward the end I always find it hard to get the soup out of a cup with a spoon. H. E. B.

IF the soup is bouillon or consomme, it is correct, after we have tested the heat by taking the first few sips with the spoon, to drink the rest of the bouillon, as we would drink tea. But if the soup is a cream soup, we should eat it with a spoon, and not drink it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Bad Lighting a Cause of Eye Strain

YOU should not fail to appreciate the great importance of having proper lighting facilities when there is close and constant work required of the eyes. A very common cause of uncomfortable eye symptoms is poor lighting.

DR. COPELAND

Eyestrain is the cause of many ills. Some of them are easily corrected, but other symptoms, perhaps far removed from the eyes, are often more difficult to overcome.

The eye is a wonderfully delicate machine. With good care and attention it will last a lifetime. But a very slight thing will put it out of commission. When you begin having headache, with itching and burning in the eyes, redness of the eyeballs and perhaps swelling of the lids, look out for the sort of lighting arrangements by which you are working. If they are wrong this may account for your discomfort.

In long winter days, when the days are very dark, thousands of people work all the time by artificial light. Workers in offices, in factories, children working in the schoolroom, women in the home sewing or using their eyes for other close work—all such persons need the very best lighting facilities that can be devised. If they do not have them sooner or later there is certain to be eye-strain, more or less serious perhaps.

They are straining the delicate muscles of the eyes in poor light to make the eyes focus properly. The act of vision is dependent on muscular action. Every time you focus the eyes these sensitive muscles are brought into play. They are tiny things and a great strain upon them is sure to cause trouble.

The eyes are constantly in motion. The eye muscles get tired, like any other part of the body. Nature rebels and they cry out at misuse.

You should have your eyes tested often to see if you have the sort of eye-strain that calls for eyeglasses. If you are accustomed to wearing glasses perhaps they should be changed. Once in two years is not too often to have the eyes examined. In the long run it will pay you to observe this rule.

Some of the best eyes, so far as vision is concerned, may be strained by bad light. Of course, some defect in them may be causing trouble What is really the trouble can be discovered by examination. If there is a defect you should have it corrected. You cannot be efficient if you have eye-strain, with headaches, indigestion and all the other bad feelings that go with it.

School children often complain of the eyes. They may be tired, having nausea and that miserable run-down feeling, never feeling equal to the tasks put upon them. This is all wrong.

The first thing to do is to find out what kind of light the schoolroom is equipped with and to see that the right kind is supplied, if possible.

FRIED DUCK needs no introduction to our Sunday dinner, but just to keep the family in suspense regarding the piece de resistance, we'll precede its grand entrance with a delicious olive tidbit!

We'll make a paste of ½ cups grated cheese and the beaten whites of 2 eggs, seasoned with a dash of paprika. Spread the paste very thickly over small rounds of white or brown bread and place in the oven for about three minutes until the top is a golden brown. Remove from the oven, sprinkle liberally with chopped olives and serve the tidbits very hot.

NOW, for the fried duck! I'd choose a duck weighing 3 to 4 pounds. After it is cleaned, cut the duck in small pieces. Sprinkle each piece with salt and pepper. In the meantime, heat 3 tablespoons fat, and then brown the duck pieces in the hot fat for a few minutes. Keep turning the pieces to brown them well on all sides; then remove them from the pan.

Rub 2 tablespoons flour into the fat in the pan, and add a bay leaf, 1½ cups soup stock or water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, and ½ teaspoon ginger. Return the duck to the pan, cover and cook slowly until tender. Turn the pieces frequently, and add more liquid only if it has cooked away. Just before serving, garnish with parsley.

IT seems indicative of our rapidly growing food sense, the fact that at least one fish specialty appears on any given restaurant menu every day.

The question of what to serve and how—a question which crops up to haunt the housewife every so often—can be answered quite often by preparing fish in different, delicious, novel ways.

Of course, if you're going to serve your halibut steak broiled, your oysters fried, your tuna fish creamed and your sardines perennially on toast, fish isn't going to be a popular item in your house. Monotony can dull the edge of any appetite.

But if you enliven the menu with such intriguing delicacies as a California Chicken Pie, or a Sea Pie, or a Prune Tuna Fish Salad, then you can safely expect the family and their guests home for

Unanimously Agreed

45 UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS WERE ASKED WHETHER THEY THOUGHT THE CHAIN STORE A BENEFIT TO THE PUBLIC, 43 OUT OF 45 REPLIED, THE 43 AGREED UNANIMOUSLY THAT THE CHAIN STORE IS A DECIDED BENEFIT.

Here are the words of Hibbert D. Corey, Professor of Marketing, William and Mary University: "The chain store system, as such, is a benefit."

Professor Corey is an entirely disinterested person, and his statement may be relied upon to bear impartial truth based on scientific study.
The Kroger Stores system is a chain method, and as such, is a decided benefit to you.

Leafy Vegetables Should Have Place in Our Diet

Lime salts are essential to body building and the maintenance of well-being. They are found in the leafy vegetables which you should include in your daily fare.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City.
United States Senator From New York.

WE hear a good deal about the leafy vegetables. Why are they of such importance? You eat them,—but do you know why you eat them?

We must consider the needs of the body. Our bones consist largely of such minerals as lime, phosphorus and magnesium. These minerals must be supplied through the food we eat. If you leave out of your diet the foods that carry these and other important minerals, you cannot possibly have strong bones.

Lime salts are needed, among other reasons, to provide for the coagulation of the food. This wise provision of nature makes certain that when you have an accident and a resulting flow of blood, the blood will coagulate. This stops the bleeding. Certain of the lime salts in the body greatly speed up the digestion of fat.

The acid of the stomach is derived from "sodium chloride," or the common salt of our food. We could not get on without this substance.

IMPORTANT VITAMINS

These are only a very few of the processes in which these important minerals play a part. We must select a diet that meets these requirements.

We need to eat lots of leafy vegetables because they contain all the vitamins which are so important to us. They contain, also, the minerals needed by the body. They are rich in iron.

Cabbage is one of the best of the leafy vegetables. Spinach, lettuce and all the others are very valuable to the body. But such foods must be supplemented by others, as we cannot possibly eat enough of them to supply all our needs.

CABBAGE BENEFICIAL

Our foods must supplement each other to produce the right results. Milk is deficient in only one thing, iron. The leafy vegetables contain iron; therefore these two foods make a fine combination.

Getting back to cabbage—more people should eat raw cabbage. Either the red cabbage or the white cabbage, when it is young and tender, makes a delicious salad dish. You derive much more benefit from raw cabbage than from cooked cabbage, because some of the valuable minerals and vitamins are lost in cooking.

In cooking, you should use the least amount of water possible, preserving the juice left when serving. In the pot liquid are some of the valuable food elements. These are wasted by being thrown out in the water which remains after cooking.

If you will regulate your diet so that it includes these foods, you will not go far wrong on the road to health. Eat more of the leafy vegetables, two a day are not too many, and see if you don't feel better and stronger as the weeks pass.

Winter Blizzard, Spring Storm Combine

JOHNSTOWN, March 14.—Johnstown was visited with what might have been termed a phenomenon of winter. With a real blizzard raging and with everything covered with snow and the temperature rather cold, several flashes of lightning and crashes of thunder were heard. Local Government Weather Bureau forecasters declared that the lightning and thunder were most unusual but that similar conditions have been known to have prevailed here many years ago.

dinner on fish nights.

Try these recipes:

CALIFORNIA CHICKEN PIE—Cook a cup of diced carrots, a cup of diced potatoes, a cup of peas and a quarter cup of chopped onion together until tender. Make a white sauce of a cup of milk, 2 tablespoons of butter, 2 tablespoons of flour, a teaspoon of salt, ⅛ teaspoon of paprika and a few grains of pepper. Add the liquid from the vegetables; there should be not more than half a cup. Now add a cup of tuna fish which has been flaked, and then the vegetables. Line a baking dish with a thin sheet of rich biscuit dough and fill with creamed vegetables and fish. Cover with another thin sheet of the biscuit dough. Bake in a hot oven until nicely browned.

SEA PIE—Flake 2 cups of salmon, removing all the bones. Line a deep dish with pie crust. Fill the dish with alternate layers of the salmon, 3 cups of macaroni which has been cooked in boiling salted water, 2 tablespoons of chopped onion, and 2 sliced hard-boiled eggs. Add seasonings: a half teaspoon of salt, a few grains of pepper. Dot with butter. Add a cup of milk and cover with a crust. Bake in a hot oven until the crust is nicely browned.

PERHAPS you're at a loss for a new dessert; in which case Snickerdoodle, served with lemon sauce, will not only interest you, but it will interest the entire family.

It masquerades under a somewhat humorous nom de plume this Snickerdoodle, and a somewhat vague one, too. For it gives no faint inkling of how perfectly delicious the dessert is—however, you follow this recipe, and you'll find out for yourselves.

Sift 2 cups of flour, then measure. Resift with a half teaspoon of salt, 3 teaspoons of baking powder and ¼ cup of sugar. Rub ¼ cup of fat into the flour mixture until the appearance is like coarse corn meal. Beat an egg and add ¾ cup of top milk. Stir quickly into the dry ingredients. Just as soon as every trace of flour disappears, turn into an oiled baking pan, spreading dough to 1 inch thickness.

LEMON SAUCE—Mix ½ cup of granulated sugar with a tablespoon of cornstarch, blending thoroughly. Add a cup of boiling water gradually, stirring constantly. Boil for 5 minutes. Remove from the fire and add a tablespoon of butter, 1½ tablespoons of lemon juice, ½ teaspoon of grated lemon rind, a pinch of salt and a few gratings of nutmeg.

PARE and core apples and slice thin. Lay slices of apple on top in rows with the sharp edges pressing into the dough. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.)

A JAM CAKE is a most delicious thing. You know you can take an ordinary jam cake recipe and add first a few necessary items to give it a fruit cake effect; thus, incidentally, using up valuable but orphaned food materials.

Here is the recipe, which will make a large cake: 2 cups granulated sugar, 1 cup shortening, 1 cup jam, dry as possible; 1 cup buttermilk, 2 teaspoons soda, 4¾ cups flour, 5 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, if unsalted shortening is used; 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and allspice.

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and add unbeaten eggs. Beat thoroughly, sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the buttermilk, in which soda has been dissolved. Add the jam. Bake in loaf tins in a 350-degree oven for one hour.

TO get a darker color and spicier flavor, strong coffee may be substituted for the buttermilk, the soda cut in half and 4 level teaspoons baking powder added. A cup each white and dark raisins may be added, a half cup of nuts used and a small piece of citron shredded to make, in all, half a cup.

For those whose time is priceless, here's a quicker method of evolving the jam cake. Stir the butter into the hot coffee until melted, add the jam and beat the whole mixture till cool. Pour this in the center of the dry ingredients, in which the fruit and peel are blended, the eggs dropped in right out of the shells, and the whole mixture stirred thoroughly. The electric mixer is a wonderful thing as a time and energy saver.

This makes three or four medium-sized loaves, or will more than fill a large angel cake pan.

RICHER and CREAMIER

Times change—but not the healthfulness of this mayonnaise

IT'S just as smooth, rich, delicious and healthful now as it was a long time ago when a particular mother first made it for her family's delight... For Ivanhoe is still made from her recipe.

The choice eggs and rich oil of Ivanhoe are allies for mothers who must keep fussy, young appetites pleased and active little bodies strong and well!

Treat your children to Ivanhoe salads and sandwiches. Ivanhoe is richer, creamier ... yet it costs no more than ordinary mayonnaise.

Buy it almost anywhere in quarts, pints, half-pints and 3¼ oz. jars. If your family is large, quart size is most economical.

"SALAD LEAVES" is a unique booklet of salad recipes and balanced menus. Write for your free copy to Harriet Meaker Osborne, Ivanhoe Kitchen, Auburn, N.Y.

and dissolve in 1-3 cup boiling water. Add ¼ cup lemon juice and ½ cup sugar, and allow to cool until the gelatine mixture begins to thicken. Beat well for maschino cherries, chopped; 10 chopped fresh canned figs, 1 cup broken meat nuts. Add the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs, and beat until the mixture is stiffened. Set in refrigerator for about 2 hours. Serve with whipped cream.

BAKED HAM AND PINEAPPLE—Have a slice of ham cut in 1½ to 2-pound piece. Lay the ham on a flat pan and sprinke with 1 teaspoon ground cloves and coat thickly with brown sugar. Arrange 6 slices pineapple around and over the ham, and pour 2-3 cup of the pineapple juice over it. Cover and bake for 30 minutes. Uncover the pan and allow to bake for 15 minutes longer.

* * *

BOSTON BROWN BREAD—Measure and sift together 1 cup graham flour, 1½ cups white flour, 1 cup cornmeal, 1 teaspoon salt and 4 teaspoons baking powder. Add ¾ cup molasses and 1¾ cups milk. Turn into a well-greased pan or can, and steam 3½ hours. The water must be boiling constantly while the bread is being steamed.

* * *

BAKED SALMON LOAF—Flake 2 cups salmon and mix with 1 cup fresh bread crumbs, 1 1-3 cups milk and 2 egg yolks. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon paprika. Pack into a well-buttered loaf pan. Pour 2 teaspoons melted butter over the top and dredge with flour. Bake about 35 minutes in a moderate oven. The salmon loaf may be served either hot or cold.

CRAB MEAT SALAD—A crab meat salad, served with toasted cheese crackers is one of the daintiest and most acceptable of after-theater tid-bits. Serve the salad in tomato nests, if you like, and combine the vitamines in the tomato with the food value of the crab meat.

Cut a thin slice from the stem end of the tomato, remove the center, fill the cavity with seasoned canned crab flakes, and cover with either mayonnaise or Russian dressing. Garnish with small sprigs of parsley, a stuffed olive or two, a few sweet pickles, and serve the whole thing on a lettuce leaf.

SHRIMP AND NOODLE CASSEROLE—One package of noodles cooked in boiling, salted water. Cook 15 minutes, drain and let cold water run over the noodles. Into a skillet put 3 tablespoons butter and lightly brown in it ½ onion, minced, and when brown add 1 green pepper finely chopped. Cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add the drained noodles and heat through. Make a cream sauce of 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour and 1 cup milk. Cook until thick, add 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 2 tablespoons minced parsley. Combine with the noodles and thoroughly heat. Now brown in butter 1½ cups cooked, diced shrimps—then combine the shrimps with the noodles and white sauce. Turn into a buttered casserole and cover with buttered bread crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

MEAT WITH SPAGHETTI—Brown 1½ pounds ground round steak and 1 small onion, chopped fine, in 2 tablespoons butter in 15 minutes. Add 1 large can tomatoes, ½ green pepper, chopped, a pinch of sugar and salt and pepper to taste. Cook 1 pound spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and let the cold water run over it. Add the spaghetti to the meat just before serving.

* * *

SALMON EN CASSEROLE—Flake one can salmon. To 2 beaten eggs add 1-3 cup of milk, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ teaspoon salt and a dash of paprika. Stir this mixture lightly into the flaked salmon.

Line a baking dish with 1 cup cold, cooked rice. Place the salmon mixture in the center and cover with a layer of the rice. Steam for 1 hour. Serve with white sauce.

TAMALE PIE—Cook 1 cup cornmeal with 6 cups boiling water and 1 teaspoon salt for about 30 minutes as you would for cornmeal mush. Chop a medium-sized onion and fry it in 2 tablespoons fat until brown. Then add 2 pounds ground meat and continue frying until the red color has disappeared from the meat. Add 2 cups tomatoes, 2 pimentos, and sprinkle with a dash of cayenne. Line a greased casserole with the cooked cornmeal; fill the center with the meat mixture, and cover with a layer of the cornmeal. Bake in a moderate oven.

DUTCH APPLE CAKE—Mix and sift together 2 cups of flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Work in 3 tablespoons butter, then add 2-3 of a cup of milk to which has been added 1 well beaten egg. Mix with 2 knives. Butter a shallow baking pan and pat in the soft dough. Wash, pare and core 4 sour apples, cut in quarters and press them into the dough in parallel rows. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Bake in hot oven for 30 minutes. Serve hot with lemon sauce.

BEEF STEW WITH DUMPLINGS—Wipe 3 pounds of meat cut from the forequarter with a damp cloth, cut meat into two-inch pieces and sear in butter until well browned. Add boiling water to cover, boil for 5 minutes, then cook at a low temperature until the meat is tender. This takes about 3 hours. The last hour of cooking add 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ cup sliced onions, ½ cup sliced celery, ½ cup sliced carrots, ½ cup cubed turnips and 1 cup cubed potatoes and ½ teaspoon pepper.

Thicken with ¼ cup flour mixed with enough cold water to pour easily. Cook until flour taste disappears (about 5 minutes).

Remove some of the liquid from the stew and add dumpling mixture by spoonfuls so that the dumplings rest on the meat and do not settle into the liquid. Cook about 12 minutes.

HEBNER, TONY MARINO SCORE KNOCKOUTS

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 14. — (AP.) — Pittsburgh boxers won and lost here last night as the National junior amateur championship tournament neared the final round. The competition will be completed tonight.

Eddie Hebner, of Pittsburgh, knocked out Paul Toth, of Buffalo, in two rounds, and Joe Spiegle, another Steel City entrant, beat Billy Burns, of Cleveland, in the 135-pound mixing, while Charles Crovatta, of Pittsburgh, lost a three-round verdict to Billy Fanos, of New York, in the 147-pound division.

Eddie Sago, of Pittsburgh, outpointed Willie Andrassano, of Boston, in their three-round heavyweight battle. Tony Marino, of Pittsburgh, stopped Frank Kaczka, of Buffalo, in the first round in the 112-pound class. The summary:

SCOTT FLAYS MAGNOLIA

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Vindictive now, where formerly he had been mildly plaintive, Phil Scott excoriated American ethics and sportsmanship as being no more than a mockery today and held them up to high scorn in a statement that fairly curled at the edges under the withering nature of its own heat. The statement was issued as Scott was preparing to board the Majestic tonight for a brief return to his home in England, and it concerned itself with the moot question of whether the man was hit above or below the belt in the recent Sharkey fight at Miami.

"Is American boxing to be boxing or alley fighting?" he asked in one breath. And in another, he charged Referee Magnolia with having made two decisions, the first in favor of himself and the second and last in favor of Sharkey after the latter had rushed at the official in a rage and demanded a retraction.

"I distinctly heard Magnolia say, 'go to your corner, Sharkey; you're disqualified,'" Scott went on. "And the fact is that Sharkey went. Meantime, I lay on the floor in great pain, so that there was only one of two things for Magnolia to do, either count me out or award me the fight on a foul. He never as much as raised his hand to count over me and so when I was assisted to my corner without a count it was an admission on the referee's part that I had been awarded the fight."

Phil added that he would be glad to meet Sharkey again in America or England under "fair play rules" and guarantee to knock him out inside of 15 rounds and fight for the sake of sweet charity.

As for Sharkey and his ability, Scott expressed nothing but contempt.

"He found he couldn't hit me legitimately, so he took the easiest way out," was his succinct summary of the American champion.

Petkiewicz to Sail For Home Tomorrow

NEW YORK, March 14.—(INS.)—With his amateur status still somewhat muddled, Stanislaw Petkiewicz, Polish runner, who once conquered Jaavo Nurmi, announced today he would sail for home tomorrow.

Barred from the Knights of Columbus games here this week and forbidden from further racing in America because of a radiogram of disapproval from the International Amateur Athletic Union, Petkiewicz has asked Daniel Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, to write him a letter clearing him of any misdemeanors in the United States. Ferris promised to give a letter of approval to the Polish star before he sailed.

Army, Navy May Play at World's Fair

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(INS.) — A campaign will be inaugurated to revive the football rivalry between the Army and Navy as the feature sport event of the World's Fair in Chicago in 1932, Representative Fred A. Britten (Rep.), of Illinois, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, announced today.

He is confident that neither institution will refuse a bid to take a prominent place on a World's Fair program.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Danger!

PUDGE BAXTER—he was named "Pudgley" after a wealthy uncle who, later, married a young and clever wife and left her all of his money—Pudge Baxter hated to have Saturday come.

On Saturdays his brother Carl came home from New York for the week-end.

Pudge didn't hate his brother or anything like that. Carl was the clever and successful one of the Baxter family. But as soon as Carl got home he, Pudge, didn't get a chance to have a word with Nell Semple.

And the greatest thrill Pudge ever got out of his 24 years of life was to talk with Nell Semple and watch her smile at him.

Nell Semple was neither a "glorified" show girl nor a dazzling society bud—she was just dainty little Nell Semple, who so capably supported herself and her mother by operating the "Birch Bower" at the Winston cross roads.

The Baxters lived on the little 30-acre farm that Baxter left. Half of the land was just ordinary woods. Pudge tried to cultivate the other half. Both Pudge and Carl had been to a small college. Pudge had thought of getting a job in the city. So had Carl. Carl was two years older than Pudge.

"Both of us can't go," Carl had said. "One of us has to stay with Ma. You're better fitted to run the little farm."

"I suppose so," Pudge had agreed. Secretly he was glad. The big city didn't appeal to him.

Carl Prospering

Carl got a job in that indefinable locality called "the financial district."

Pudge was his mother's pet. Perhaps it is because a mother seems to lean toward the weakest of her flock. Carl was acknowledged to be the smart one.

When the boys came back from college they discovered their neighbor, Nell Semple, had actually grown up—that she was making money with her Birch Bower and that she was just the sweetest and liveliest and prettiest girl ever!

It was an open secret that both Pudge and Carl were in love with Nell Semple.

Nobody knew which of the brothers Nell favored. That is, no one knew for sure, although it was taken for granted that Nell knew the butter side of her bread and naturally preferred the brilliant member of the Baxter family, Carl, who was so rapidly becoming a great financier.

Nell's close friends would hint around to find out.

Nell would laugh at them.

"Listen," she would say, "there's an island in the Pacific where women were allowed more than one husband. I'm going to take the Baxter boys over there and marry both of them!"

Pudge heard of this little joke quite often. It rather pleased him. At least, Nell liked him pretty well.

Carl was different. He didn't care for that would-be wisecrack of Nell's. It hinted that she cared for Pudge, too. How, in Carl's estimation, could Nell think twice about the matter? Wasn't he the natty dresser, the brainy one, the noted financier?

Carl roomed in the city and came out Saturdays.

Attentive to Carl

This particular Saturday Carl stopped at the Birch Bower and found Pudge there. Pudge had driven the old delivery car in with some vegetables and was coming back with the few dollars and the mail.

"'Lo, Pudge," Carl said as he hopped out of his car and went up to Nell.

"Well, well, here she is—adorning the scenery until the sun, moon and stars are jealous," cried Carl.

Pudge thought, "Why can't I think of things like that to say to her?"

Pudge hung around a little longer, but Nell, between serving customers who drove up, was all attention to Carl. There was a lot of talk about a ninety-dollar profit Carl had made for Nell on some money she had given him to "invest."

"Too bad it wasn't ten thousand instead of seven hundred, you'd have been over fourteen hundred richer," Carl said.

"It's perfectly wonderful how you know about such things, Carl," Nell said.

Pudge sighed. It seemed that there had to be one bright member of every family, only it was too bad he couldn't have been the one. He got better marks at college, but he was no mixer—one had to know him before they discovered that he had a charming personality.

Carl talked big during the week-end, as usual, and hung around Nell's place a lot.

Fall Planting

Pudge had to get some fall planting done so that mid-winter would give him fancy prices on the garden truck. Pudge knew that game pretty well. If he had funds enough to build big forcing houses, to clear off the woodland and cultivate that, and to hire men.

Whenever there were days that he didn't have to do anything on the little vegetable acreage he would haul light building materials for one of several builders or road construction contractors. It was all extra money, most of which he gave to his mother, some of which went into little gifts for Nell Semple.

Jackson, the road contractor, stopped Pudge.

"Want to haul a little dynamite, Pudge?" he asked.

"Sure—it isn't going to bite me."

"Here's my blanket permit," and Jackson gave him the slip, the red "Danger!" signs for front and back, and directions.

Pudge delivered the load of dynamite. He expected the usual ten dollars for himself and truck. Jackson gave him twenty-five. It seems one got big money for taking such a risk.

About this time Carl was becoming nervous.

Things weren't going well in Wall street.

Carl had invested twelve hundred of his mother's savings and a thousand Nell Semple had given him.

And the bottom seemed to be dropping out of the market.

On this particular Saturday Pudge had another dynamic job.

He had been stopped up the road by dry agents.

"What you got in back there?" one asked him, his hand on his automatic.

"Take a look," growled Pudge, who eyed the gun nervously.

"We will—and if you try to beat it we'll drop you" he was informed.

Suddenly there was lurid profanity.

"Hey, why didn't you say it was dynamite?" he yelled.

"If I had you wouldn't have believed me," Pudge answered.

"We might have been blown up!"

Shows Permit

"That would have been just too bad."

Pudge showed his permit and the dry agents stood well back as Pudge drove on.

When he came back he saw Carl at Nell's place. Pudge stopped to tell the joke on the dry agents.

Carl and Nell were having a serious talk. Both seemed very grave. Nell was pale and Carl nervous.

"But—but it can't be lost," said Nell.

"What you lost?" asked Pudge.

"Go away," snapped Carl.

"Want to tell you a joke on a couple of dry agents," Pudge said and started to tell it.

"Go away, dumbbell!" snapped Carl.

Pudge drove home.

His mother was crying. She had lost her twelve hundred. Carl got home and said nothing for a while. After dark, when Pudge went out to lock up, Carl followed him.

"I'm in a hole, Pudge. How much money have you saved?" Carl asked.

"About eight hundred."

"Give it to me. I'll treble it Monday and pay Ma and Nell."

"I'll give Ma four hundred and Nell four hundred, and I'll get the rest right away, but you can't have it to drop—I thought you just about run Wall street."

Carl started to plead.

"Go away, dumbbell!" said Pudge. He thought he heard a giggle. Carl started to bluster.

"That's what you called me. You're just one of the saps down in the street. Where'd you get brains enough to gamble on margin? Go back to your job and I'll get money and square accounts with Ma and Nell. I won't have her think any Baxter ever cheated her."

Pudge's mother didn't want his $400. Nell wouldn't take it. Nell had come over to plead with Carl again and had overheard the illuminating talk between the brothers.

Hauls Dynamite

Pudge told Nell she needn't be so high hat—he guessed he could pay up the Baxter bills.

Carl went back to his job, which might be gone any moment unless the brokers pulled through. Pudge hired a capable man to work the truck garden.

He started in hauling dynamite.

"Old Danger," Nell called him during the weeks that followed, because of the signs on his old delivery car.

The weeks grew into months.

Pudge finally made Nell take the thousand with interest and he gave his mother the twelve hundred.

Carl wanted to know how he did it. He was trying to square himself with Nell just then at the Birch Bower. Nell was very cool to Carl. More dry agents came along—it was the same old story. They all got a big laugh out of it, except the agents.

Carl went home in an unhappy mood. Nell seemed to be all for Pudge. How the devil did it happen Pudge could make so much money?

Nell closed the place and climbed up with Pudge. He drove her into the yard, around the back door, and ran over a big log of wood unseen in the dusk.

A dynamite case fell out.

Nell almost fainted.

Then she sniffed!

"You wise darling—the only danger I was in was in not knowing at the first that I wanted you instead of Carl," Nell cried.

Pudge destroyed the traces of the broken whisky bottles hidden under phoney sticks of dynamite! Then he went in to talk with Nell and her mother about the wedding. He wanted to marry Nell right then. She said to wait a long while. They compromised on the following week.

CELLAR PLAYERS ADVANCE DRAMA TO NEW HEIGHTS

Organization of our local Cellar Players will do much to lift the drama to new heights. Everyone is invited to join and play a part in this movement. Our efforts will be largely devoted to problem plays—written by our own members. Naturally, problem plays present many problems, which will be solved in our own way. Come! Always plenty of good seats after the first act.

Decides to make us what we ain't,
There's nothing we can do, in fact,
But act the way our hormones act.

County Aids Prosperity; Town Hall Would Help

Letting of contracts for county work by the Board of County Commissioners, including the Allegheny River boulevard, at a bid of $1,984,807; and superstructure for a bridge on the Moss Side boulevard, at $142,440, will bring a measure of cheer to working men. Some of them now idle will have jobs shortly. Naturally, these jobs should go to Allegheny County labor, as has recently been suggested, and not to "floaters."

With three large building operations under way in the downtown district—county office, telephone and Gulf Refining—great improvement in steel mill activity, and the imminent public improvement work by the city and county, the unemployment situation here will be relieved perceptibly.

The County Commissioners could extend that remedy, too, by promptly going ahead with the Town Hall project. The people want it built—ordered it built by their vote. The delay of the Commissioners would be excusable did a state of extreme demand for labor exist. But it seems criminal to dilly-dally and evade responsibility of making a choice of site, evidently the only obstacle, at a time when many artisans need work.

All things point to such a pick-up in industrial activity that the Commissioners may find competition when they go into the labor market if they delay this matter much longer. They will earn the gratitude of men if they give them jobs when needed, but not if they wait until after they obtain employment elsewhere.

In any event it is up to them to show some kind of response to the will of the people. If they are not going to build, let them say so.

Tariff Making Methods Should Be Modernized

If the American people doubt the wisdom of modernizing their methods of tariff making they have only to look upon the mess that Congress has made of this vital task for the last 11 months.

When Congress met in extra session a year ago next month, its avowed purpose was to help the American farmer by revising the tariff upward on farm products and thereby equating the measure of their protection with that given industrial products.

That was the purpose for which the newly-elected President called the newly-elected Congress into extraordinary session.

That was the task to which the Congress pretended to address its efforts. That seemed to be the urgent need of the nation. And that certainly was the demand of public sentiment.

BUT THE CONGRESS TO DATE HAS VIOLATED THE PLEDGES OF THE PARTY IN POWER, IGNORED THE NEED OF THE NATION, BETRAYED THE AMERICAN FARMER, FLOUTED PUBLIC SENTIMENT AND SUPINELY SURRENDERED TO A GANG OF LOBBYISTS.

Instead of helping the farmers of the country, the Congress now in session, under the domination of Republican agents of special interest, aided and abetted by a few renegade Democrats, HAS DONE NOTHING BUT INCREASE THE TARIFF FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE INDUSTRIAL INTERESTS WHICH ALREADY HAVE FAR TOO MUCH PROTECTION UNDER EXISTING TARIFF LAWS.

In fact, it is this excessive protection which is increasing the cost of living for everybody and is largely responsible not only for the plight of the farmers of this country, but for the consumers as well.

A coalition of progressive Democrats and progressive Republicans in the Senate, which has made a gallant fight to get for the farmers the same protection long ago given the manufacturers, is now threatened with defeat by one of the most powerful gang of lobbyists that ever beseiged a Congress.

IT IS CLEARLY THE PURPOSE OF THIS GANG TO MAKE A CROOKED DEAL FOR INDUSTRY THE PRICE OF A SQUARE DEAL FOR AGRICULTURE.

Already this lobby has seduced a number of Democratic Senators and is conspiring to seduce others. Already this lobby has manipulated through the Senate an increase in the duty on sugar, and an increase on the duty on cement, and is working hard to increase the duty on oil and the duty on lumber.

Not because there is any national demand for an increase in tariff protection on these commodities. Not because such an increase is recommended by the tariff commission, but solely because a gang of lobbyists, drunk with power, is determined to take advantage of the plight of the farmers and consumers of this country by making an increase in the tariff on farm products, which is sorely needed, conditional upon an increase upon industrial products which is not needed.

Such a tariff bill as the Republican party, led by lobbyists, now threatens to pass through the Senate, would help neither the farmer nor the consumer. IT WILL ONLY AGGRANDIZE THAT GROUP OF SPECIAL INTERESTS IN THE INDUSTRIAL WORLD WHOSE TARIFF FAVORS AT THE HANDS OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY ARE BOUGHT AND SOLD FOR BY CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS.

Such a tariff bill as the lobbyist-ridden Republican party now threatens to pass in the Senate will not restore prosperity, much less revive agriculture.

It will only impair popular confidence in the integrity of the Senate, increase popular distrust of the party in power, hurt, instead of help the farmer, AND ADD TO THE BURDEN OF EVERY CONSUMER FROM THE DAY SUCH A BILL BECOMES A LAW.

Better no tariff revision of any sort than a tariff revision of the evil sort which the lobbyists now operating in the federal city are conspiring to jam through the Senate.

Surely the President can be counted upon to veto the tariff bill unless a conference committee purges the pending bill of its flagrant injusties.

But the real remedy for the mess that Congress has made of tariff revision can only be found in modernizing our methods of tariff making.

THIS CAN BEST BE DONE BY GIVING THE PRESIDENT AMPLE AUTHORITY, TO MAKE SUCH TARIFF ADJUSTMENTS FROM TIME TO TIME, BASED ON TECHNICAL INVESTIGATION AS WILL BENEFIT THE PUBLIC INTEREST. THESE ADJUSTMENTS WOULD OF COURSE ACCORD WITH THE GENERAL TARIFF POLICY ESTABLISHED BY CONGRESS AND WOULD BE FINALLY SUBJECT TO LEGISLATIVE CONTROL.

IN THIS WAY THE PUBLIC INTEREST WOULD BE SERVED INSTEAD OF BEING SACRIFICED TO THE INORDINATE DEMANDS OF SPECIAL INTERESTS.

NOT UNTIL SOME SUCH FLEXIBLE SYSTEM OF TARIFF MAKING IS PERMANENTLY ADOPTED WILL THE COUNTRY BE PROTECTED FROM ANOTHER SUCH DISGRACEFUL AND COSTLY MESS AS THE PRESENT CONGRESS HAD MADE OF ITS ATTEMPT TO REVISE THE TARIFF IN OBEDIENCE TO SPECIAL INTERESTS AND IN DEFIANCE OF THE PUBLIC INTEREST.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

He Who Waits

NEW YORKER hustles up to telephone booth with a rare, old nickel in his consolidated mitt.

"Bugs" Baer

Like all New Yorkers, domesticated or transplanted, he was in a double hurry.

The phone booth had been taken for the season by a squatter on a five cent lease.

The man outside the booth broke the glass in the door with urban politeness. The turkey in the booth continued his interesting dialogue by shaking his head north and south.

We have never yet discovered who does the talking on city telephones because everybody we see is listening and nodding like a proud hoss in fly season.

The wise man in the tub kept telephoning. The man outside stood on one foot and then the other until he ran out of feet.

When he considered that the egg had been in the nest long enough he asked:

"Say, are you a man or are you a mummy?"

Everybody knows that a nickel telephone call in a public booth is practically board and lodging.

Even after you get your right number you are still wrong.

Finally, after breaking the endurance record for strangled tempers, the man outside the form-fitting bungalow pulled out a mule pistol and shot the incubant of the commercial breakfast alcove.

He plugged him with a large, robust slug of lead. We will celebrate this event by a swan dance of the oldest inhabitants.

No jury will convict that man of friendly homicide if the judge is inside a telephone booth and the jury has nickles in its hands.

A man must want a number pretty bad if he is willing to take one from the state.

We approve of his action and regret that he did not call for volunteers.

Anybody who stays in a phone booth over 30 minutes does so at his own risk. And the telephone company could improve its service by distributing pistols to subscribers.

CHAFF CAN'T CHEAT THE SIEVE

By Herbert Kaufman

DON'T wait for an opening, MAKE one. Its size is UNIMPORTANT. If you're BUILT for the job, ability will quickly enough enlarge ANY opportunity. An EDGE-IN is a WEDGE-IN.

The big CHANCE is entirely a mental attitude. It exists everywhere and ever. Pertinacity is satisfied with a sound FOOTHOLD.

Ambition simply seeks DEMONSTRATION SPACE. The odds are always against you. Several million OTHER folk are as much convinced of THEIR valid title to the property or promotion, which you have selected as your PRIVATE oyster, and scheme to seize it by fair means or foul.

The future holds all conceivable sorts of promises, but issues no special guarantees on their FULFILLMENT. Progress is prepared to execute any order that imagination specifies, but no one is assured when, where or to WHOM delivery will be made. Hesitate and you'll be eliminated. THIS is the day to try for it.

EACH calendar sheet is a SIGHT DRAFT on the Bank of Possibility. Your most valuable and your most PERISHABLE asset is TIME.

And your allotment of thinking and working hours prohibits procrastination.

The line behind keeps lengthening and the men behind keep strengthening, and every tock-and-tick of the clock marks a squandered second that can't be replaced.

Estimating your expectation of distinction upon a purely arithmetical basis, the ADVERSE percentage is staggering. The whole community is avid for the same epaulets you aspire to wear and the same authority you yearn to grasp. Only a few may LEAD, but the rest of us refuse to confess inferiority until experience REPEATEDLY proffers the evidence that we can't make higher grades.

YOU can either be, nor have, the BEST without running the gamut of rivalry and comparison. Will, as well as skill, requires incessant exercise.

The whetstone is unyielding to the steel, but nothing ELSE will edge dullness or keen brains.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

HERE'S one of those funny jams that the Twentieth Century has landed us in. Plenty of cases like it . . . this one happens to be typical. I'm not going to do any fancy writing about it. Just put it down straight and then ask your opinion.

Four years ago two youngsters in our circulation department married. Call here Clara. Call him Bob. They were, of course, madly in love. Bob was getting $25 per week. Clara was getting $20.

"I'll keep on with my job, darling," said Clara, "and then we can get ahead ever so much faster."

"Not on your life!" said Bob. "No wife of mine is going to work. Any guy that will let a woman work for him oughtta be shot. But, of course, if you don't think you can be happy with a poor fellow like me—"

Clara didn't keep her job.

For a year they were gorgeously happy in their tiny, dark apartment. Had to scrimp, but they were used to that. And what does the size of an apartment matter when you're young and in love? Then the baby came, and in 14 more months another baby, and life became tremendously complicated. Housekeeping had been a joke for two happy young lovers. It became a nightmare when two crying, ailing babies had to share the inconvenient quarters. And how could one get anything but stuffy, dark rooms on $25 a week? For though Bob's family increased his salary didn't.

Today the four of them are housed in a wretched little dump where you wouldn't want to park your Airedale. The babies are sick half the time—Clara is worn out with futile drudgery and desperate with worry. But she had a plan which would solve it all, so she thinks.

"I want to go back to work," she writes. "I can earn as much as Bob. I know of a place we could rent, a little way out, where there is lots of sunshine. There is a dear old lady there, who takes care of the neighbors' children, and she would look after Billy and Alice all day. And we could begin to get ahead at last."

That's Clara's plan, but Bob won't listen to it.

"No woman's going to work for me," he says.

"But can't you see I am working for you—just killing myself and the babies working for you?" Clara cries.

"That's different," says Bob.

"Working in a home is different. When it comes to taking a job, I guess I can support my own family."

"But you're not supporting them!" wails Clara—and there the matter rests.

And that is exactly where this same problem rests in thousands of American homes today. Bob thinks he's defending his home. Clara thinks he's driving it on the rocks. What do you think?

Text For Today Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.—Mark xvi:15.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. John Ray Ewers, pastor, East End Christian Church.)

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE second section of our evidence then will be an examination of plant and animal structure to see how far animal and vegetable organs are special to their needs, and how far they have the air of being primarily an inheritance merely fitted to those needs and limited in that fitting by conditions of descent.

And then the way animals and plants are scattered over the world will not be haphazard if evolution is really the truth of life.

H. G. Wells

If we found a region where an animal might live abundantly and that animal is not there, but somewhere else in the world, then if we are to believe in Creation we have to find Creation very amiss upon the distributive side; but if we believe in Evolution, then it is quite reasonable to suppose that an animal evolved in one part of our planet may never get to another for all the fitness of conditions there.

All that also we will illustrate and weigh.

Finally we will take up a question that was once a burning question and is still regarded as smouldering. Does man come into this process of Evolution or is he in some strange way outside general biology? We will show that there is no exception in his case.

We hope to show the reader convincingly that Evolution is the form of all life in time, man and his acts included. Evolution is in fact the life process.

CHAPTER TWO
THE EVIDENCE OF THE ROCKS

Sec. 1.—The Nature and Scale Of the Record of the Rocks.

IN order to make the nature of the record of the rocks perfectly clear it is necessary to remind the reader of certain elementary geological facts. They will probably be familiar to him, but we do not want to have any "missing links" in our chain of argument.

We warn him of this beforehand, so that if the note of the professional lecturer creeps into our discourse he will forgive it—for the sake of its explicitness.

It is only after decades of patient work, we must remember, that the fact of evolution obtruded itself as a necessity in the face of the palaeontologist. Right up to the end of the eighteenth century the comparatively few fossils then known were almost universally regarded as mere curiosities; many dismissed them as sports of nature, freaks of the earth, and not really the remains of flesh-and-blood; while at most they got credit for being witnesses to the universal biblical deluge.

Nothing more could be expected until geology had made her profound advance of introducing time, and time on a vast scale, into our ideas about the earth's crust.

Let us recall how that extension of time dawned upon the human intelligence.

Everybody knows that flowing waters bring down sediment and deposits it in layers on the floor of seas and lakes, or on floodplains. Sometimes the deposit reaches the surface, as in deltas; consider the great tongue of the Mississippi delta, built out into the sea for 60 miles or more.

At other times it spreads over the bottom, as when a pond is gradually filled up, or an alluvial meadow built, layer upon layer, from the silt laid down by successive floods.

Layers of material may be laid down in other ways; the great spit of Dungeness, on England's south coast, grows out to sea at the rate of over five feet a year, from shingle brought along the coast by the waves and currents. In moor country, deep layers of peat are formed by the successive death of the bottom parts of the bog plants.

Currents and waves deposit stretches and banks of sand in quiet bays. After a volcanic eruption vast quantities of dust and pumice and rock fragments fall in the neighboring sea and sink to the bottom.

And from the surface layers of the ocean a constant rain of billions of skeletons of animals and plants, many of them microscopic, but as we have already shown, incredibly abundant, is always falling softly towards the depths.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Thoughts while strolling: A drug store offers tins of imported caviar. Dollar spot cleaners. At least 20 cafes in town named Peter's. A big new hotel with a built-in movie theater. Regina Wallace.

Will B. Johnstone, a Chicago (Ill.) boy who made good in the city. Ladies smiling through tight lips. Ed Hill, the reportorial fashion plate. A sandwich parlor with a black marble front. Not a bay window left in mid-towns. Peggy Joyce and a pair of griffons.

Remo Bufano, the marionette man. The thick gloom in those upstairs dancing academies. And the loud shirted shieks in hour glass suits at the door. Giving every passing girl a slithering, insinuating glance. Pajamas with Persian lamb collars. Yoo hoo! And rattlesnake bow ties from a push cart.

The tobacco shop window decorator who is paid $20,000 a year. Tea room sign: "Wanted—Colored cusiniere." Moss and Fontana, the dancers. The modernistic automat. Sidewalk vendors selling air-inflated hula hula girls that dance on a string. Shops that steal great French names.

Jerusalem brass and pottery. And Damascus jewelry. A 400-day clock. Round playing cards. A reading glass with a tiny electric light. Nursery rugs. Toy trap drummer's outfits. The store called The Three New Yorkers. The fun a country jake can have window shopping!

And reading restaurant names. Viz: Mr. and Mrs. Baxter, Col. Flaherty's Waffle Den, The Pig-in-the-Poke, The Foodery and Sally's Kitchen. Louis Wiley, of the Times. Beatrice Lillie stops to peer into a baby carriage. William Williams, the musical comedy tenor. And a Harvard man.

The best natured policeman in the world may be found in New York. Also the most overbearing. The chop suey sign that cuts off Flo Ziegfeld's electrical display. The Flea Circus carries on. Now in its sixth year. And paying $50,000 a year rent.

Familiar night owl lunch wagons have disappeared from congested centers, but in the outlying district they flourish. A firm in New Rochelle manufactures most of them to be shipped all over the country. Uptown New York has more than 300 and there are as many more fringing Greenwich Village and the lower tip of the island.

The lunch wagon in many sections has supplanted the old time saloon as a rendezvous for neighborhood idlers. Each is filled after dinner with a tooth-picking crowd cracking wise and providing a metropolitan replica of the general store out yonder.

Some of the de luxe wagons—the finest is at One Hundred and Eighty-third street and Broadway and is called Al's Diner—have a row of private tables along the wall opposite the counter, richly upholstered and offering deep cushioned chairs. On New Year's eve they are often taken over by private parties.

Nothing tickles Broadway so much as a typographical "bull' in a newspaper, especially when it offers a touch of the risque. Some weeks ago a tabloid had a want ad, every other line of which formed a shocking sentence. It was "killed" in later editions, but for several days copies that contained the smut were bootlegged for as high as $5.

"Why don't you rhapsodize more," writes Mrs. T., of Riverside Drive, "about the shimmering loveliness of the rippling Hudson? Washington Irving found its exquisite charm a perpetual fount of inspiration. The Hudson is a scenic heaven."

It is also a swell place to water mules!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

THERE are days when you make the most foolish mistakes.

You wonder how you could have made them when you possess the correct information to avoid trouble.

Perhaps you are trying to turn out too much work and are thinking of the next job before you have finished the first, or the one in hand.

Sometimes this is caused by getting behind in the morning and rushing all day to catch up.

Hasty performance is usually careless and slipshod work.

When you feel that you are working beyond the limit which enables you to center your thought on what you are doing, it might be well to check your speed.

Hurried work is double work, for you must carefully go over it after it is supposed to be finished to correct little errors that have crept in.

Unfortunately you are not given credit for your extra effort and ambition if what you produce is incorrect or imperfect.

You get credit for a job up to the proper standard, not for speed which slights the work.

There must be the degree of perfection required by the boss, and your rush in production will not win favor with the heads of your shop without it.

Often the pluggers—the slow workers—are the most valued employes.
